A Message From Cuba.
Mr. Babson's Bump.
Meanwhile, They Fight.
Poison Gas? Certainly.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

A MESSAGE from Mr. J. M. Tarafa, presidente Comision Nacional Defensa Azucar de Cuba, is appreciated.

It reads: "Leido sus commentaros en El Mundo hoy sobre aranceles para azucar significole mi sincere y calurosa felicitacion por la defensa muy justa que hace vo de Cuba."

MR. BABSON sent the stock market down merely by saying it must go down. Stock gamblers are like children. It doesn't take much of a ghost to frighten them.

Yesterday men that really know about stocks contradicted Mr. Babson, and stocks went up.

MR. BABSON, like the rest of us, only knows what Mr. BABSON knows.

Recently he was in the middle of the Florida land boom. And perhaps that warps his vision.

IF he keeps his Florida land, he'll make money, if he bought it with intelligence.

Those that have bought stocks with any intelligence will make money if they keep them.

GENEVA cables that "Woodrow Wilson's League of Nations idea" has discovered that it can't prevent war, even among its members.

Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary in Britain's Labor government, suggests an agreement among seven big nations to outlaw war, BANISH IT, END IT.

EXCELLENT Idea. Europe should stop fighting if possible.

But good resolutions that drunkards make when sober are forgotten when they are drunk. What applies to drunkards applies to nations that have the fighting habit.

What would Mussolini, for instance, do, if somebody stepped on his toes? He answered, plainly enough, in the Greek incident.

MEANWHILE, small bodies of British troops are fighting larger bodies of Arabs in Palestine.

Bedouins, most savage of the Semitic fighting tribes, have come in from Sinai.

THE quickest way to quiet that neighborhood would be consistent, persistent use of airplanes, bombs and gas. Arabs respect what they don't understand.

But the British are conservative, patient, wise, moving slowly, where religious hatreds are concerned. They will kill as few as possible.

THE United States, listening to common sense, will continue developing gas warfare.

Gen. Gilchrist, head of the Army's chemical department, says gas is the kindest thing in war. With the right kind of gas, you could render millions unable to fight, without hurting them much. That's comforting.

BUT, whether or not gas is comfortable or uncomfortable for the enemy, gas warfare should be fully developed. We shall never gas anybody that doesn't come looking for serious trouble. But we should have assorted gases ready—mustard gas, tear gas and the kind that the angel of death used on Sennacherib's army.

RUSSIA, convinced that capitalism dreads and fears her, accuses China of refusing to be friendly, because capitalistic influences control her.

Capitalistic governments are too busy with their own problems to plan interference for Russia.

They accuse Russians of propaganda destined to overthrow respectable government by money.

Some truth in both complaints, perhaps.

BRITAIN'S Labor government seeks a way to "end strikes and lockouts."

In a recent cotton strike, workers lost $5,000,000 a week in wages. Mills lost $7,000,000 a week in export trade, and must fight to get it back.

ARBITRATION is the only way. If the Labor government can find arbitrators that both sides will trust, persuade employers to play fair, and union men to keep bargains, when they find they don't like them, it will render inestimable service to Great Britain, and teach this country something it needs to learn.

FROM the material point of view, Russia will gain by her "continuous industrial year."

There will be no stoppage of machinery, on Sunday or other days, during 360 days each year. The five other days, six in leap years, will be devoted to patriotic, Bolshevik holidays.

EACH man will have his rest time, longer than under our six-day and Sunday plan. But machinery will never stop, except for repairs.

To make machines work all the time, and give men reasonable leisure would be the ideal program. But, of course, Sunday should not be neglected—especially on a basis openly hostile to religion.

FLIER MAKES 332 MILES AN HOUR

Teammate Does Schneider Cup Course at Average Of 328.36 Miles Hourly

International News Service.

RYDE, Isle of Wight, England, Sept. 7.—Great Britain today retained the Schneider Cup, greatest speed trophy of aviation, two British fliers shattering all existing airplane speed records.

Flying Officer H. R. D. Waghorn, a British entrant, was first to take off. He completed the seven-lap quadrangular course with an average speed of 328.363 miles an hour. His fastest lap average was 331 miles an hour.

Hardly had the cheering for these new records died, than Flying Officer R. L. R. Atcherly, another Briton, hurled his Rolls Royce super-marine, the same type as flown by Waghorn, over the fourth lap at an average speed of 332.49 miles an hour.

Atcherly's average for the entire race was 325.54 miles an hour.

He traveled the last three laps at average speeds of 328, 331 and 332 miles an hour.

OLD SPEED 318:62

The old record for the Schneider Cup course was 281.49 miles an hour. The seaplane speed record for a straightaway course was 318.62 miles hourly.

Waghorn's speed for the respective seven laps of the 217½-mile quadrangular course was: 324, 329, 331, 328, 330, 327 and 331 miles hourly.

The spectators were dazzled by the speed of Waghorn's Rolls Royce super-marine S-6, Flying Bullet. He skimmed through the air and around the four turns of the course with the speed and grace of a swallow.

Waghorn was ranked third in the British trio, Flying Officer R. L. R. Atcherley being regarded as the "ace." Waghorn was the only married man of the trio. He was formerly an air school instructor.

Flight Lieut. D'Arcy Creig, the third Briton, got away more slowly than Waghorn. He averaged 284 miles an hour on his first lap.

NIGHT CLUB RAID TRAPS SCORE

A score of men and women were sent scurrying to the street at 3 a. m. today when five Federal dry agents raided a night club on the second floor of 106 East Ohio street, North Side, arrested two men and confiscated beer, whisky and gin, they said.

Those arrested were taken to Central Police Station where they said they were Harry Holman, 34, of 3176 McClure avenue, bartender, and Frank Geary, 34, of 805 Tobin street, alleged by the agents to have attempted to interfere with the raid.

The agents today were trying to locate the owner of the place.

WINE, WOMAN, SONG

The guests, said by the agents to have been drinking and singing in a room back of the barroom, were ordered to vacate the place, which they lost no time in doing.

The raiders confiscated six and a half barrels of beer, five pints of whisky and a quart of gin, they reported. Two slot machines found in the rear room were turned over to county detectives.

Six men were arrested and quantities of liquor seized by prohibi-

Roar of Seaplanes Racing In England Heard Here

While the fastest machines man has made raced for supremacy in the Schneider seaplane cup contest over the Solent, British Isles, today, Pittsburghers could hear over the radio the whirr of the propellers and the "plop" as the flying boats struck the water in landing.

These sounds, together with the official announcements, came in to station KDKA'S short wave receivers in Frankstown road from station 5SW in England and were rebroadcast here. The signals were clear and strong.

At Calshot the British Broadcasting Company had placed microphones on the floats at the starting point. The sound of roaring motors, voices of pilots and mechanics came into KDKA here from those phones.

No special arrangements had been made for the broadcast.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Dissension entered into the crowning of Miss America of 1929 at Baltimore's national beauty pageant last night. The decision of the judges in awarding the title to Miss Lillian Andrus, 18-year-old brunette, representing Buckeye Lake, O., was followed by a storm of protests from the sponsors of several other of the contestants.

The sponsors charged that the winner was a professional beauty, and entered in the contest at the last minute from an amusement park in which the backers of the contest were interested. They claimed that no Miss America had been chosen and announced that they would hold a contest of their

3 TAKEN AFTER HOLDUP, CRASH

Three young men, alleged to have held up a gasoline station at Island and California avenues, North Side, early today, escaped in a stolen automobile, dragged themselves from the wreckage of the machine after it crashed into a street car half a block away, commandeered a taxicab and made a dash for liberty, only to fall into the hands of the police a mile from the scene of the holdup.

Police say they found evidence on the suspects connecting them with four recent holdups. In Damick's pocket, police said, were auto licenses of J. W. Connolly, of 27 Riverview avenue, and John F. Leitharber, of 20 Jackson street, who were held up September 1.

ALLEGES HOLDUP

William Rodgers, of 1128 Harvard Circle, identified Polky as a youth who held him up three days ago. Polky and Damick were identified by James Chrahan, of 4079 Zambrino street, as two bandits who held him up yesterday.

At Woods Run Police Station the suspects said they were Robert Damick, 20, of 1037 Spring Garden

LINDY SPEEDING TO HUNT LOST SKY LINER

Clues Failing, Search Shifts To Mexican Border Area; Jackson Flying to Help

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Col Charles A. Lindbergh took off from Lambert-St. Louis Field in a Lockheed-Vega plane at 7:20 a. m. (Pittsburgh time today for Winslow, Ariz., to aid in the search for the missing sky liner City of San Francisco. He was accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh.

Col. Lindbergh, with his wife as a passenger, left New York yesterday at 3:05 p. m. and arrived at Lambert-St. Louis Field six hours and 50 minutes later. Almost before he had climbed from the cockpit of the Lockheed-Vega which had transported Capt. Frank Hawks in the quickest crossing of the United States, Col. Lindbergh gave orders for its preparation for the flight today.

The famous airman is technical advisor to the Transcontinental Air Transport, operators of the "City of San Francisco," which has been missing since Tuesday with its passenger list of five and crew of three. He declined to give any explanation or opinion regarding the cause of the ship's disappearance or her fate.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Dale Jackson, St. Louis endurance flier, took off from here at 6:30 a. m. today for Albuquerque, N. WINSLOW, Ariz., Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Two desolate, widely separate regions—one in Southern California and the other in Old Mexico—today commanded the attention of searchers for the lost air liner City of San Francisco.

Southern California searchers seized upon an unconfirmed report that a tri-motored plane, flashing its lights on and off, was seen over the Providence mountains, seven miles north of Bagdad, at 6 p. m. last Tuesday.

CITY SWELTERS; SNOW IN WEST

While Pittsburgh and many sections of the East today awaited the long-promised rain in hopes of relief from the heat wave which for almost a week has scorched the country east from the Mississippi, five states—Montana, Nebraska, Colorado, and the Dakotas—were snowbound.

Occasional thundershowers are probable today and Sunday accompanied by cooler weather, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman predicted.

Yesterday's highest temperature here was 87 degrees, three below the record of the two previous days.

Heavy showers which fell in the North Boroughs district late yesterday, served to temper the sweltering temperatures which was causing suffering throughout the Pittsburgh district. Light showers in other parts of Eastern United States had a similar general effect.

COLD IN WEST

State College reported a 15-minute rainfall, which brought relief to dying potato crops in the Nittany Valley. College agriculturists said it would require a 24-hour downpour to be of material aid to the corn crop.

Meanwhile the far west was gripped by the severest winter

KLINE INDORSED BY ARMSTRONG

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong made his expected declaration in favor of Mayor Charles H. Kline at a meeting in South Side Turner Hall last night.

Greeted by an ovation that can be compared only to that given at a national convention, he declared that a careful study of every charge and every report had failed to shake his faith in Kline.

With him as he declared for the Mayor appeared County Treasurer John Francies and Controller Robert G. Woodside. Both came out for Kline.

Armstrong's open announcement made certain the political breach between himself and Senator M. G. Leslie. For the first time they are on opposite sides in a factional battle. Leslie is supporting Councilman James F. Malone.

"I know some people expected me to stay out of this fight," said Armstrong. "I wouldn't be handcuffed. If there is any doubt in the minds of anyone where I stand in this fight, I am for Kline."

KLINE CITES STRIKE

Only briefly did he refer to his attitude toward people on the county payroll who may be opposing Kline.

2 Wards Contribute Votes To Sun-Telegraph Poll

The Twelfth Ward, embracing sections of East Liberty and the Frankstown and Lincoln avenue districts, and the Twenty-first Ward, the Manchester district of the North Side, record votes for the first time in the mayoralty straw vote poll of Pittsburgh by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Both give Mayor Charles H. Kline a lead over Judge Richard W. Martin and President of Council James F. Malone and contribute to an increased lead for the city executive in the latest standing in the poll, which reaches these totals:

Kline	1,605
Martin	1,552
Malone	1,134

The tally of the day's returns gives these totals: Kline, 145, 96 men and 49 women; Martin, 115, 59 men and 56 women; Malone, 46, 35 men and 11 women.

The Kline total is aided largely by strong support in the Fourth and Seventeenth wards, in which he is given a considerable lead over both his opponents in the latest batch of ballots.

The latest tabulation of votes in the Nineteenth Ward shows that Judge Martin has a comfortable lead over Mayor Kline and Councilman Malone, practically tied for second place. The totals are: Martin, 91, 57 men and 34 women; Kline, 71, 45 men and 28 women; Malone, 70, 47 men and 23 women.

Distribution of cards today completes the canvass of all the wards of the city, with the exception of the last admitted to the city, the Thirty-first, and a few districts of other wards.

GRAND JURY TO TAKE UP PHANTOM LISTS

Inquiry to Be Asked Monday; Further Charges of Fakes To Go Before Assessors

Developments in Pittsburgh's political welter were these:

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner agreed to ask a grand jury inquiry into assessment frauds.

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong declared last night his intention to support Mayor Charles H. Kline for renomination.

Malone leaders announced plans to fight registration of voters through fraudulent tax receipts.

Additional evidence of phantom assessments was alleged to have been found.

The Allegheny County Bar Association took a hand in the investigation of assessment frauds.

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner today announced that on Monday he would ask a grand jury investigation of the alleged assessment of thousands of phantom voters.

Accompanying this announcement came a statement from Peter Connors, deposed city detective, now investigating the alleged frauds for the Malone forces, that he had uncovered five additional instances of fraudulent assessments.

PURGING LISTS URGED

Gardner agreed to ask the grand jury inquiry after a conference with Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, Malone counsel. Eaton was prepared to cite to Judge Harry H. Rowand evidence that phantoms had been assessed from such "residences" as retaining walls, the public wharf, downtown office buildings, vacant houses and addresses that do not exist.

Attorney Charles B. Prichard, for the Malone forces, announced that he would ask the board of assessors to purge the voting lists of names registered through bogus assessments or fraudulently obtained tax receipts. A checkup already has revealed 1,300 names that would be affected by such procedure, Malone workers asserted.

BAR ASSOCIATION ACTIVE

The Allegheny County Bar Association indicated its intention of entering the investigation at a meeting last night attended by its representatives, former Senator C. M. Barr and County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, in Mr. Barr's office.

The Bar Association was represented at the meeting by its vice president, Arthur Sculley; A. M. Imbrie, chairman of the Bar Association Frauds Committee; W. Lowry Humes and William H. McNaugher.

This group declared they will have representatives present Monday at a County Commissioners' meeting at which Commissioner McGovern will take up the fraudulent assessment charges.

Today's list of additional alleged fraudulent assessments to which

VICTIM OF WELL CAVE, PRISONER 42 HOURS, RESCUED

TRAP YIELDS MAN NEARLY FROZEN

Miners Tunnel Beneath Rocks to Find Him Unhurt, But Suffers from Exposure

International News Service.

OTTUMWA, Ia., Sept. 7.—Forty-two hours of agony beneath tons of rock and quicksand ended at 6:10 a. m. here today when rescue crews, working frantically throughout the night, rescued William Priest, 55, from the bottom of a 35-foot well where he was trapped Thursday by a cavein.

Priest was reached early today by workmen who had dug a trench 40 feet down beneath the shaft, then tunnelled up to where his body was caught in a pocket of rock slabs. For nearly a day previous, attempts had been made to reach Priest from above, but they were abandoned when another cavein became imminent.

NEARLY FROZEN

Nearly frozen from the cold in his narrow prison, Priest was immediately wrapped in rubber blankets and rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital for medical treatment.

A cursory examination given Priest when he was brought above ground after his long imprisonment showed him to be apparently uninjured, Dr. T. L. Rater, of Ottumwa, who had been at the well mouth for a day and a night, said. So far as Dr. Rater could ascertain, Priest had suffered no hurst when the rocks and quicksand tumbled on him from above as he was cleaning out the well. Lack of nourishment was apparently the only weakness from which he suffered, Dr. Rater said.

The battle waged by scores of rescue workers for Priest's life was a dramatic one.

VOLUNTEERS MANY

All Thursday night, after news of Priest's plight became general, volunteers gathered at the well, located on the Tony Venochio farm, two miles southwest of Ottumwa, to assist in the tedious removal, bucket by bucket, of sand from the well shaft.

Early Friday, attempts to clear out and brace the well were abandoned when rescue workers who had been down in the shaft came up and announced the well was settling and any further work would probably result in a second cavein that would prevent Priest's rescue.

ENTER FROM BELOW

Then workers began digging the trench which was to penetrate the side of the shaft, from which they could tunnel up to the imprisoned man.

Inch by inch the trench crept down a slope to the shaft; it was heart-breaking work, for precautions had to be taken not only to prevent another cavein of the well, but to protect rescuers from a fate similar to that which befell Priest.

avenue; Kirdy Vacek, 18, of 2301 Spring Garden avenue and Joseph Polky, 20, of 1363 South Side avenue. They were held as suspicious persons.

STEAL CAR DOWNTOWN

The automobile used in the holdup belonged to Earl J. Stewart, of 831 Eureka street, and was stolen from Gazette Square at 1:30 a. m., according to a report to police. Less than an hour later the men appeared at the gasoline station and held up Irwin Clark, of 448 Monroe avenue, Carnegie, in charge of the station, getting $10 from the cash register.

Jumping into the auto the men started down California avenue, but half a block from the gasoline station they collided with the street car. Before members of the crew could learn their identity, they dragged themselves free of the debris, hailed a passing taxicab and ordered the driver to speed away.

DO NOT RESIST

Lieut. Robert McIntosh and a squad of police from the Woods Run district, answering Clark's report of the holdup and taking the direction of the taxicab, overtook it a mile from the holdup. The suspects, although two revolvers were found on them, did not resist arrest, the police said.

At the police station Clark identified the three as the ones who held him up, police said.

tion agents in raids yesterday and last night.

John Patsunick, 67, of Turtle Creek, was arrested and 225 gallons of whisky were confiscated, federal officers stated, in an unexpected visit to his farm yesterday afternoon. The liquor was found about 200 yards from the house.

KEYS AS EVIDENCE

Agents reported raiding a store at 6445 Frankstown avenue last night, confiscating various liquors and arresting James Quinn. During the excitement, keys belonging to John Roma, of 161 Lowell street, were taken by the officers. After Roma's departure, Quinn declared him to be his partner, and Roma verified that statement a short while later by telephoning in anxiety over his keys, which were retained as evidence. A warrant will be issued for Roma's arrest. the agents said.

Joe Banich, 32, of Parnassus, was arrested yesterday afternoon, the agents said, when 32 barrels of mash and 55 gallons of whisky were found on the premises.

RAID SPAGHETTI HOUSE

Tony Antonori, 45, of 6488 Frankstown avenue, and Joseph Chalan, 29, of 2039 Derand street, were taken into custody last night, according to dry agents, when small quantities of gin and whisky were discovered in their spaghetti house.

The agents reported finding nine gallons of whisky in a rear room of the dwelling at 300 Thirty-ninth street. Lawrence Holler was arrected and released under bond.

2 Red Speakers, Refusing To Give Names, Arrested

Two young communists were arrested and lodged in the North Side Police tation last night, not for what they said, but for what they didn't say.

They were two of a number who for nearly two hours berated and baited the police, capitalists, industrialists, politicians and war, in East Park, at Union avenue and East Ohio street. A score of police stood by smiling.

When Pauline Truhar, 21, of 2503 Warrington avenue, Millvale, stepped down from the soapbox, she was politely asked her name by Lieut. James Callaghan. She wouldn't tell him, presumably since the speakers who told names at former meetings were served with warrants. For that she was arrested, charged with violating a city ordinance.

Shortly before, Samuel Herman, 22, of 805 James street, after a 45-minute address to 200 or more, many of them policemen on guard, had refused to give his name and also walked to the station house. Herman was especially virulent in his attack of the police as "tools of the bosses who abused and arrested young communists."

The meeting was held as a demonstration against the "Bosses' War." Joseph Tash, of McKeesport, and Charles Harris, of 2503 Warrington avenue, also spoke, but gave their names and were unmolested. They condemned warfare, spoke for the workers, and urged the candidacy of Pat Cush for mayor and his municipal ticket.

The meeting was held without a city permit.

weather for this time of the year in more than a quarter of a century.

Record-breaking low temperatures for September existed from Montana south to the Colorado-New Mexico border, with a blanket of snow, in some places 14 inches deep covering most of the district affected. Colorado experienced one of the worst blizzards in years, which forced eleven airplanes to seek shelter at Parker, Col. Later they were able to clear the town for Denver.

The snowfall in Wyoming was the earliest in 38 years, and motor and train traffic was said to be demoralized. Many bus lines abandoned their schedules.

RECORDS BROKEN

The Fox Park district of Wyoming reported 14 inches of snow, and the town of Albany was buried under a blanket of a foot of snow. Havre, Mont., reported a temperature of 34 degrees, and Denver 39 degrees, with a promise of a further drop and snow. Pike's Peak had eight inches of snow, and at Colorado Springs it was reported that the temperature was exceptionally low.

In Western Nebraska and the Black Hills region of South Dakota snow lay from one to four inches deep. At Hay Springs the mercury dropped to 26 degrees. At Valentine, Neb., the government weather bureau reported that the snow was the earliest in 45 years. At Rapid City, S. D., the snow was said to be the earliest in 47 years. The previous early snow was September 12, 1903.

Four inches of snow fell at Lead and Deadwood, S. D., Cheyenne and New Castle, Wyo., reported heavy snow. The storm spent itself at Casper, Wyo.

BRITISH AIR ACE DIES IN CRASH

LONDON, Sept. 7.—(INS.)—A. E Woodbridge, famous British war ace who shot down Baron Manfred von Richthofen, Germany's premier war flier, was among three persons killed today when an Imperial Airways mail plane, en route from London to India, crashed at Jask, Persia, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Karachi.

Woodbridge, who had an enviable war record, shot down the famous German ace, leader of the much-feared "Richthofen Circus," in June, 1917.

Woodbridge was pilot of the England-to-India mail liner. The others killed were his mechanic and a passenger whose identity has not yet been established.

Two other passengers suffered severe injuries.

ECKENER WINS U. S. AID FOR ZEP LINES

Americans and Germans to Co-Operate in Development Of Trans-Atlantic Routes

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Germany and America will cooperate in the commercial development of the Zeppelin airships and probably jointly organize and operate the coming trans-ocean airship routes.

That, Dr. Huga Eckener told me yesterday, was the very satisfactory result of his conferences with the Goodyear Zeppelin Company in Akron, and with those and other American interests in New York.

"The Goodyear Zeppelin Company of Akron and I are in perfect agreement on mutual co-operation between the German and American interests in the next steps to be taken in the development of commercial Zeppelins now that their practicability for transoceanic traffic has been well demonstrated by the Hearst-Zeppelin-Round-the-World Flight," said Dr. Eckener.

FINDS INTEREST KEEN

"My purpose in remaining here for a week was to ascertain what interest there might be in these projects, hear the views of financial groups and they in turn desired to know my ideas.

"I have found extraordinary interest here in the Zeppelins and in their development and operation for rapid transit across the Atlantic to bring America and Europe closer together."

Dr. Eckener had just come from a luncheon given in his honor by directors of the National City Bank in the beautiful dining room of that great financial institution. It was an "information luncheon." New York bankers desired information from Dr. Eckener and the commander of the Graf Zeppelin was no less interested in getting information from leading financial specialists. There was an informal exchange of views, ideas and opinions on cost and building of ships, organization of routes and traffic and on the possibilities of financing such trans-Atlantic air transportation projects. It was evident that the Hearst-Zeppelin-Round-the-World Flight of the great German air liner had touched even the cool calculating unimaginative mind of the banking world.

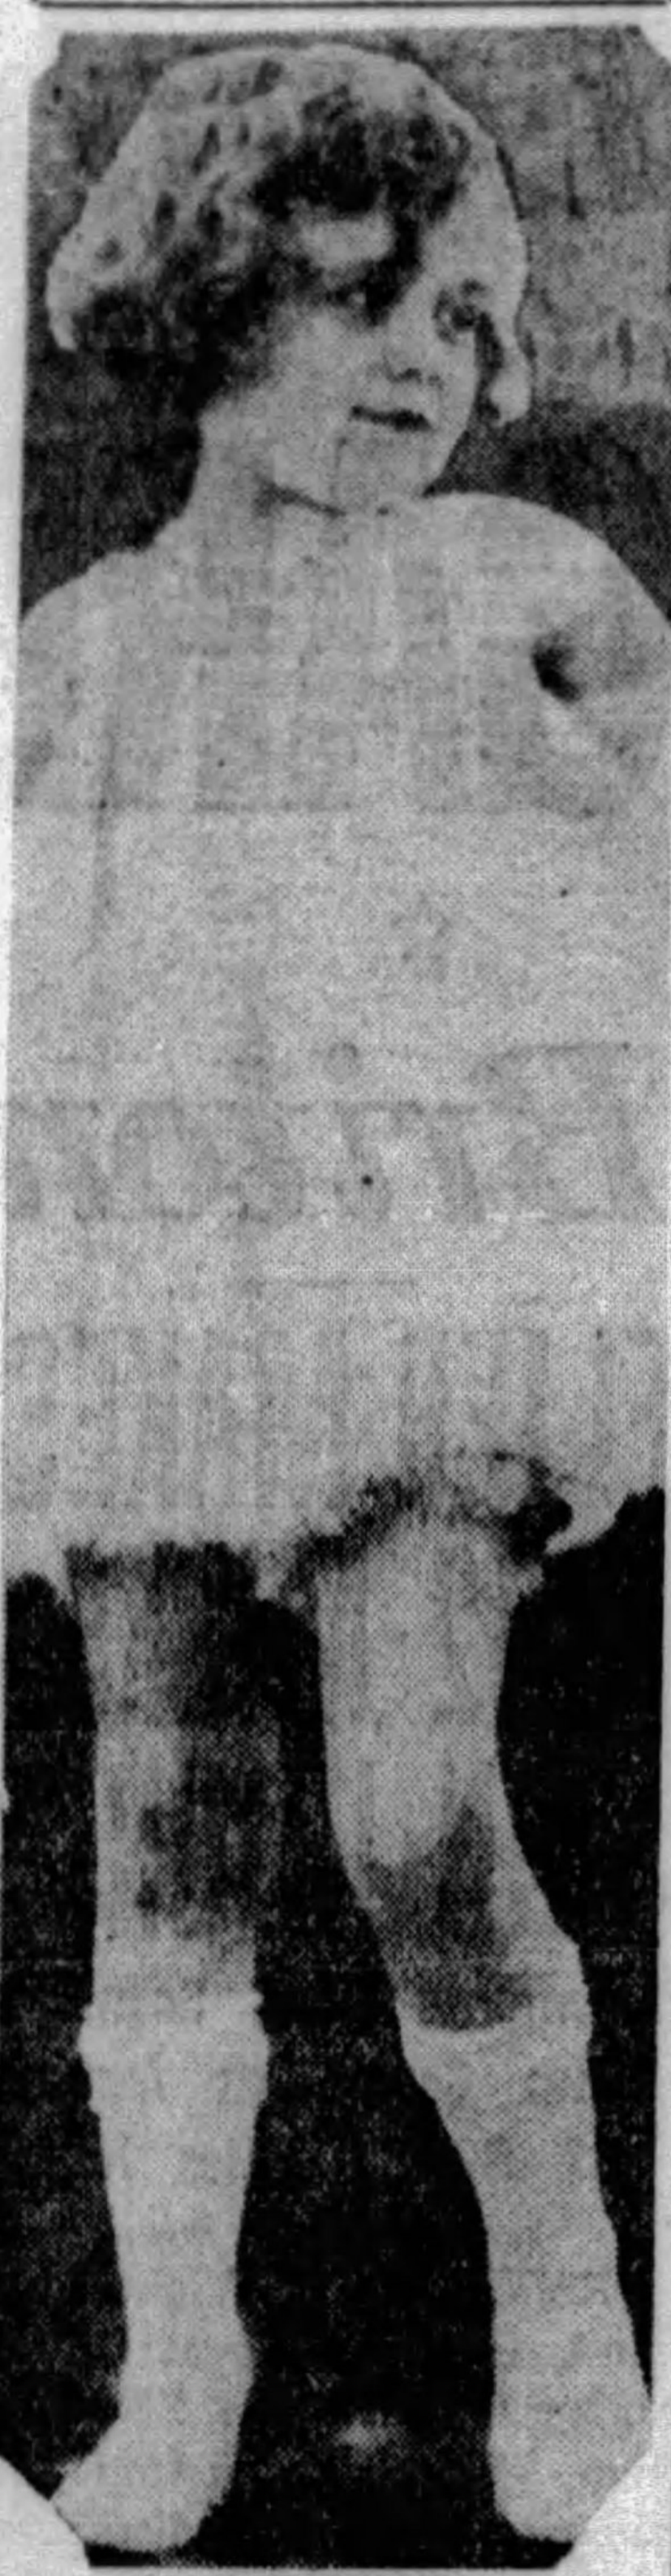
Dr. Eckener sails this afternoon on the Hamburg-American liner New York for Germany. He had not yet decided whether he would disembark at Cherbourg and go direct to Friedrichshafen via Paris, or go to Hamburg, where a big reception is planned.

In Germany Dr. Eckener will confer with two or three groups, each desirous of taking a leading part in organizing and financing the first trans-Atlantic Zeppelin air line, and endeavor to unite these. Once that has been accomplished, definite negotiations with interested American groups will then follow. A Spanish group, in the meantime, is seeking to organize a Seville to Buenos Aires line. Their option on the Graf Zeppelin expired some time ago and it is understood that Dr. Eckener has declined to renew that option.

Fire Endangers Bus Passengers

Passengers were endangered late yesterday in Manchester boulevard, when a gasoline fire in the garage of the Pennsylvania Transit Company threatened to spread to a bus which was stopped nearby. The passengers were assisted to safety by John Chrisley, 23, a Negro, of 1323 Hamlin street, who was later taken to Allegheny General Hospital for treatment of a severed blood vessel in the left thumb. The blaze was extinguished with little damage.

Personality!



MARIE PRATT

Although her big sister was eliminated in the senior beauty contest, as were all Pittsburgh district girls, Marie, 6, 2414 Grandview avenue, McKeesport, was selected "Junior Miss Personality" at the "Miss America 1929" beauty contests at Baltimore.

own in the ballroom of a Baltimore hotel today.

Six Western Pennsylvania girls took part in the beauty contest. In the junior personality contest, 6-year-old Marie Pratt, 2412 Grandview avenue, McKeesport, was the winner.

At the last minute Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, withdrew from the list of judges in the beauty contest. Carroll was quoted as saying, "No Miss America was picked. It wasn't a representative showing. What the judges did was pick the prettiest girl among the contestants."

Twenty-two of the 47 girls entered in the contest were said to have expressed their willingness to enter the new contest.

BRITISH FLIERS SET NEW SPEED

completed the course averaging 284.2 miles an hour.

Lieut. Rano Cardringher, another Italian, covered the first lap at 284 miles an hour.

Cardringher was forced to land and forfeited his chances in the race shortly afterwards. He landed safely, although traveling 280 miles an hour.

Official estimates said a million persons were on hand for the races, the tenth Schneider Cup competition.

Just two nations were represented as contestants, Great Britain, the defender of the cup, and Italy, the challenger. The United States entry was withdrawn a few days before the race

BRITISH FAVORITES

The British were favorites to retain their trophy principally because the Italian team only 10 days ago lost its premier racing aviator and what was considered its fastest plane in a preparatory test crash. The Italian sportsmen far from admitted defeat and in advance of the face placed heavy bets on their country's candidates.

LINDY FLIES TO AID HUNT FOR PLANE

James L. Shooks, a section foreman, said the plane appeared to be losing altitude.

NOT SURE

Shooks declared the plane passed from his sight and apparently landed, but, of that he was not sure.

The sound of the motors ceased, he said, but whether the engines stopped or whether the plane had gone beyond his hearing he was unable to say.

Some doubt was expressed by searchers that Shooks had seen the City of San Francisco.

They thought he may have sighted one of the planes which flew over the area near Bagdad Tuesday afternoon hunting for the wrecked racing craft of Major John Wood.

Several points in the report, however, aroused the searchers to action.

So far as known, no tri-motored plane participated in the hunt for Wood's ship, and little if any flying was done over the Providence Mountains in the search for the racer.

TIME FITS

It was pointed out that the missing air liner, piloted by J. B. Stowe, had a six-hour supply of gasoline when it left Albuquerque, and that the time noted by Shooks was about six hours after the plane left the New Mexico city for Winslow on its way to Los Angeles.

The air liner had a cruising speed of 110 miles an hour. Bagdad is about 500 miles west of Albuquerque as the crow flies.

Searchers believed that inasmuch as Stowe did not land at Winslow he might have reached as far west as the vicinity of Bagdad before exhausting his fuel. The plane was last seen at Grants, N. M., off its course and heading southward.

Two planes from Colton, Cal., were assigned to fly over the Providence Mountain area on the strength of Shooks' story. Shooks said he had been in the desert several days and did not know that the air liner was missing until he saw newspapers yesterday.

SOUGHT IN MEXICO

Stories of three persons along the international border near Columbus, N. M., sent two newspapermen about 50 miles into the almost inaccessible border country of Chihuahua, where a strange airplane was reported to have been sighted south of the line about 4 p. m. Tuesday. This area is some 200 miles south of the place where the City of San Francisco was last seen on its flight toward Winslow.

Although the aerial armada searching for the sky liner scanned about 50,000 square miles of territory in Arizona and New Mexico yesterday without finding a trace of the plane, the ships were destined for more work over that region.

Twenty-seven planes were at the Winslow airport and there were 20 at Kingman, Ariz., including 10 naval planes. Three army planes were reported at Barstow, Cal., en route to Winslow. The whereabouts of three Marine Corps planes, which left San Diego yesterday afternoon, was not definitely known.

Two planes were known to be at Gallup, N. M., and the reported take-off from there of 12 planes after dark last night was unexplained by T. A. T. officials here.

They declared they were not aware there had been that many planes there. Gallup reported them leaving for an unannounced destination.

FOUR SEEN NOT FLIERS

Air and ground searchers alike were plunged in gloom after numerous clues had painstakingly been run down, only to vanish into thin air yesterday.

In one instance four men, seen signalling a searching plane piloted by Lieut. D. W. Tomlinson, Maddux line executive and former naval flier, were found, upon further investigation, apparently to have been Indians merely waiving a friendly greeting.

Another report, originating from a source unknown, had developed to the point of bringing Mrs. George B. Raymond, of Glendale, the woman passenger, into a Hachita, N. M., hospital, before it was dissipated by investigators.

$10,000 REWARDS

Offers of rewards—now totaling $10,000—appeared to mean little to the Indians aiding in the search. They were reported soliciting wages for their services in guiding parties across the New Mexico lava beds.

Unless definite indication of the plane's whereabouts develops today, every able-bodied man in Gallup was expected to join in the hunt. Business houses there were canvassing their lists of employes for possible recruits.

Ford Tries Popcorn, Then Buys Ancient Popper

LINCOLN, Ill., Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Wesley Shaffer, itinerant popcorn vendor of Atlanta, near here, has re-established his belief in Santa Claus, whose real name in this case is Henry Ford.

Last week when Mr. Ford came to Lincoln for conferences regarding the removal of the old Postville court house here to his American village at Fort Dearborn, he stopped in Atlanta and bought a bag of popcorn from Shaffer. Mr. Ford noted the decrepit appearance of the popping machine and asked to buy it.

Shaffer at first refused to sell, but changed his mind after an offer of $200. Mr. Ford gave him $10 as a down payment.

Yesterday workmen arrived to start tearing down the old court house. They stopped in Atlanta long enough to load on their truck the popcorn machine, giving Shaffer the $190 due.

The machine was purchased 20 years ago for $30.

MACHINE GUNS AWE MOSLEMS AT PRAYER

Sabbath Passes Peacefully; Hopes Rise That Clash With Jews Is Near End

International News Service.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 7.—Hopes that the worst stages of the conflict between Arabs and Jews in Palestine have now passed were expressed today as the result of the peaceful passing of the Moslem Sabbath.

It was on the occasion of this religious celebration two weeks ago that the first clash broke out, and at each subsequent gathering of Moslems in the famous Mosque of Omar, the population has been fearful lest new uprisings follow.

However, with British machine-gun posts established at Jaffa Gate and the Damascus Gate, through which Arab worshipers from outlying villages were forced to pass en route to the temple, the day of worship passed off without incident.

UNREST FELT

The situation is far from normal, however. This is shown by the fact that very few Moslem villagers made the journey to Jerusalem for worship, and a comparatively small number of Jerusalem Arabs attended the ceremony. Whether fear of the British machine guns or other factors kept the Moslems from their worship is not known, but the Mosque of Omar attracted an exceedingly small number of the faithful yesterday.

New details have been received of the skirmish between British troops and heavily armed Bedouin tribes at Kfar, at the foot of Mount Tabor. It is now known that at least 10 Bedouins were killed, and a number of casualties are reported to have occurred in the British ranks.

Railway and telephone communications are now being restored throughout Palestine, and continued round-ups of unruly Arab tribes by the British forces are gradually having the effect of returning the country to something approaching a state of normalcy.

REVOLT FEARED

But in spite of this, the population is still in a state of extreme tension, and fears are continually expressed that the British forces may prove inadequate to handle the situation if a general revolt breaks out among the Arabs in the outlying and unguarded sections of the country.

The British authorities, however, claim to have the key positions well in hand, and have troops strategically located to nip any further insurrectionary attempts in the bud.

LEGAL CLASH FEATURES TRIAL

Lawyers' Battle Fails to Save Woman Ordeal of Visit to Place of Crash

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7.—Visibly shaken and said to be on the verge of a nervous collapse following the first day of her trial, Mrs. Alexander Pantages was to resume the courtroom ordeal today after she was forced yesterday by a court order to view the scene of the fatal automobile crash which led to her trial for murder.

The battle of attorneys, which yesterday enlivened the long drawn-out explanations of two medical experts as to what caused the death of Joe Rokumoto, Japanese gardener, was expected to be resumed today.

ATTORNEYS IN CLASH

According to Dr. Donald Cass, surgeon who performed the operation during which Rokumoto died, and Dr. Frank Webb, autopsy surgeon for the county, it was the shock of injuries suffered when Mrs. Pantages drove her car into Rokumoto's, together with the effects of the anaesthesia and operation that caused the gardener's death.

Then followed the legal battle of the day. From this opinion by the two medical experts both sides poured on a barrage of questions and cross questions, eliciting detailed medical explanations. From this scrimmage both sides claimed first blood of the legal battle.

TAKEN TO CRASH SCENE

The two doctors were the only witnesses of importance and the session ended in mid-afternoon when Judge Carlos Hardy, Mrs. Pantages, jury members and lawyers for both sides drove to the scene of the accident in Hollywood.

Defense attorneys failed in their effort to have Mrs. Pantages excused from the ordeal, pleading that she was on the verge of a nervous collapse.

boy and a Joe Armstrong girl," he declared.

Dismissing the charges brought against the Kline administration, Armstrong reviewed the accusations against the administrations of E. V. Babcock and William A. Magee.

"They indicted a lot of men," he said. "I think they convicted two. There are a thousand or more on the police force. You can't pick a thousand business men or lawyers or ministers without finding two that should be watched."

On motion of Armstrong, seconded by George J. Schad, the meeting pledged support to the referendum to increase the pay of police and firemen.

Kline, the principal speaker, told of the strike at the Liberty Dairy Products Corporation.

"While I was absent one day from the city, police were put on the wagons," he said. "When I returned they were taken off. Charles Kline is no strike breaker."

WINTERS CHEERED

The Mayor told of his fight for Sunday motion pictures in the parks, naming Daniel Winters, John S. Herron and W. Y. English as the only councilmen who did not oppose the proposition.

"After making your peace with your God on Sundays, I believe you are entitled to some recreation," he declared. "Make your peace with your God in your church. Then I believe some innocent pleasure should be allowed you."

Winters, candidate for controller against Evans and a South Sider, received an ovation.

"My opponent writes of himself as a great lawyer," said Winters. "Why did he ask the city to hire another lawyer to prosecute the garbage case?"

Winters challenged Evans to name the persons bribed in the American Reduction Company case.

"There are no judgments recorded against me," he said.

Other speakers were M. J. Muldowney, candidate for Council; Congressman Harry A. Estep, Robert S. Cain, sheriff candidate on the Kline ticket, and George J. Kambach.

FAVORS IMPROVEMENTS

Public improvements for the city were advocated by President of Council James F. Malone as part of his platform in a radio speech last night.

Remedy of downtown traffic conditions by construction of a cross-town traffic artery connecting Liberty Bridge and Bigelow boulevard, the erection of a bridge continuing the artery from Bigelow boulevard across the Allegheny River to East Ohio street, a widened Broad street in East Liberty from Negley to Highland avenues, a new traffic thoroughfare from the business section of East Liberty to Washington boulevard, development of a traffic plan requiring the construction of a new industrial highway on the North Side connecting East Ohio street with the new Ohio River boulevard, and the speedy development for construction of a subway from Water street near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Station, under Grant street to newly-widened Penn avenue, were among the projects favored by Malone.

Speaking in behalf of Judge Martin last night from Station KQV, Attorney Thomas P. Roberts, Jr., assailed the connection of police with vice and declared that one of the most important problems in city government is to bring an abrupt end to all suspicions of any alliances between racketeers, vice concessionaires, bootleggers and the law-enforcing authorities.

TWO BROTHERS ESCAPE JAIL

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 7.—Police of two states today were searching for two brothers who early last night escaped from the Burgettstown jail several hours after being brought here from Wellsburg, W. Va., where they were arrested, charged with beating an aged man and stealing an automobile in Eldersville, six miles east of here.

They are Otto Bennett, 18, and his brother, Melvin, 23, believed to be from West Virginia.

ACCUSED OF THEFT

According to Constable Albert Dukes, of Eldersville, the two went to the farm house of Nathaniel Bowes, near Eldersville, Thursday and finding him absent began ransacking the place. Confronted by Joseph McClurg, 73, they beat and tied him, and escaped after stealing clothing and $7.

A short time later, Dukes said, they stole an automobile from the garage of James Riddle, near the Bowes farm, and started toward the West Virginia line, abandoning the car a few miles away and walking into Wellsburg.

They were arrested a short time later by Wellsburg officials upon information broadcast by Constable Dukes, who brought them here late yesterday.

OUTSIDE AID SEEN

The constable served them supper in jail at 7 p. m., but two hours later, when returned to fix their cells for the night, they were gone. Locks of the cells had been picked open, but a large iron door leading from the cell room to an outer room was still locked. Police were unable to determine how they had escaped, unless aided from the outside.

One of the brothers, according to police, recently escaped from the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus.

WIFE RECEIVES SUICIDE NOTE

Mrs. Levina Frauman, of 1332 Columbus avenue, received a special delivery letter in the handwriting of her missing husband, Millard, today, saying he was going to "jump in the river," she informed police.

The letter contained a wrist watch, automobile driver's and owner's cards, belonging to the husband, with a note that he would have no further use for them, the wife said.

Frauman, 28, a baker, disappeared from home Labor Day without apparent reason, the wife told the Missing Persons Bureau. He had been injured in an automobile accident last winter and recently had complained of headaches, she said. They have a 4-year-old son.

Sentenced 30 Days For Driving Auto

Ernest Davis, 29, Negro, of Grace street, Mt. Washington, yesterday morning was sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse by Magistrate E. M. Hough, of South Side Police Station. According to the police, Davis had in his possession and was operating an automobile owned by Ben Sellers, of 440 Williams street, without the consent of the owner.

BLAST DAMAGES OAKLAND HOME

An explosion last night damaged the first floor of a house at 3204 Dawson street, occupied by S. L. Berkovitz and family. Members of the family escaped injury. A daughter, Sadie Berkovitz, who was using the telephone, was thrown from the instrument. A large front window was blown out. Police set the damage at $500.

Wearing apparel was damaged by a blaze which broke out in the plant of the Liberty Cleaners and Dyers, 3801 Liberty avenue, last night.

Sentences Mother Despite Parade Of Children

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 7.—In the hope of winning Judge William Parker to leniency, Mrs. Mabel Myers, of Oil City, mother of five children, brought all the youngsters to court. They ranged in age from 2 to 10. Mrs. Myers had pleaded guilty to two liquor counts. Judge Parker fined her $200 and sentenced her to 10 months to the county jail. The court said if there was no one to care for the youngsters, they could go to the County Home.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, another Oil City liquor defendant, drew six months in jail, $200 fine and costs.

WORLD COURT MOVE NEAR

GENEVA, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—The League of Nations last night received a cablegram from American Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, indicating his intention to submit to President Hoover for signature, the special protocol providing for adhesion by the United States to the World Court of Justice.

The message explained that the protocol later would be sent to the American Senate for ratification. It was adopted here two days ago by the delegates of 40 countries, belonging to the court. Approval by the Assembly of the League of Nations was expected as a formality.

The cablegram from the Secretary of State reached the League through the American legation at Berne.

The protocol was prepared by the famous American jurist, Elihu Root to overcome the objections contained in the Fifth American representation, which demanded American veto privileges on the right to ask for advisory opinions.

Sympathetic interest by the American government has been assumed from the first, and official information was given in Washington that the protocol was satisfactory to the government.

Woman Hangs Self, One Dies of Poison

Mrs. Mary Munas, 42, of Lawndale avenue, McKeesport, was found hanging in the cellar of her home yesterday, the coroner's office reported. Despondency over ill health is thought to have caused the act. She leaves her husband and two children.

Mrs. Anna Warbuton, 22, of Highland avenue, Monessen, died yesterday in the West Penn Hospital. She took poison August 22, according to deputy coroners.

ARREST NEAR IN $500,000 DEAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(INS.)—Two long years of litigation and financial unscrambling faced six well-known New York banks today as search continued throughout the nation for Charles D. Waggoner, president of the bank of Telluride, Col., whose amazing credit deal almost cost the institutions half a million dollars.

Representatives of the New York banks who were deceived into paying the $500,000 to Waggoner's bank by means of spurious telegrams and credentials, revealed today that it will require months of work to untangle the financial snarl that the deal involved, in order that the funds may be returned to the rightful owners.

Waggoner was traced to a point near Grafton, Neb., 60 miles west of Lincoln, but there evaded his pursuers. The bank executive, who is alleged to have swindled the six institutions, not for his own gain but to return his own bank to a state of solvency, is believed to be traveling in an automobile. A grand larceny charge has now been drawn up against him on formal complaint of the Harriman National Bank, one of the institutions which obeyed the telegraphic orders to pay huge sums to Waggoner's bank.

DENVER, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Although confused by a maze of information regarding the whereabouts and financial transactions of C. D. Waggoner, president of the Bank of Telluride at Telluride, Col., authorities today held the theory he took desperate measures to save his friends, depositors in the bank, from financial loss.

The officers based their theory on a telegram to C. W. Downtain, cashier of the bank, which the bank president's wife said she sent for him yesterday from Wray, Col.

The message in code was received by Downtain and said:

"I had this money sent you for the depositors. See that they get it before somebody starts something and do it confidentially. You have enough for everybody."

Downtain said he did not receive the money referred to in the telegram.

Dog Ordered Tied After Biting Woman

Mrs. Agnes Kolendo, 25, of 182 South Sixteenth street, was bitten on the right arm yesterday by a dog said by police to be owned by J. Weissman, of 151 South Fifteenth street. A physician cauterized the wound, and Weissman was instructed by police to keep the animal tied.

SHIP BUILDERS DENY PLOTTING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—President Hoover is determined that the present negotiations for naval disarmament shall not be obstructed by the activities of shipbuilding corporations pecuniarily interested in the construction of American vessels of war.

Revealing that he had asked Attorney General Mitchell to determine what action is open to the government, the chief executive late yesterday called upon three large shipbuilding corporations for explanations of their positions with respect to allegations made by William D. Shearer, a naval expert, in a suit for compensation, that he acted as their agent in opposing naval reductions at the Geneva conference of 1927 and elsewhere both before and after that time.

THREE FIRMS SUED

The three companies—the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, the American Brown-Boveri Electric Corporation and the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company—are defendants in a suit instituted by Shearer on August 22 in the New York Supreme Court, claiming $303,885 compensation for services from December 10, 1926, to March 27, 1929, and that of this sum he had already received $51,230.

In response to the President's statement, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company last night issued an emphataic denial of the Shearer charges, through Homer L. Ferguson, its president, and asserted that it approves of Mr. Hoover's disarmament policies. E. G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, termed Shearer's suit "wholly without merit," and said the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation would promptly comply with the President's request for a declaration as to Shearer's allegations.

WILLING TO TALK

Shearer himself said he was entirely willing to appear before a congressional investigating committee, and added that "there is much that is unknown that I can tell about this case when the proper time arrives."

President Hoover denounced Shearer's methods in no uncertain terms and asserted that unless the companies involved are able to show "an entirely different situation from that which is purported in this suit, we are compelled to consider what measures can be proposed to free the country from such influences."

Jewel Salesman Robbed

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Two young robbers held up a jewelry salesman on the lower East Side and escaped with jewelry valued between $10,000 and $20,000.

CHILD AWARDED TO AUNT

Through a writ of habeas corpus granted by Judge James H. Gray in Common Pleas Court, Clair Rose White, 8, is to be taken from the custody of her uncle, City Fireman Joseph Carlin, 42 Nobles lane, Carrick, and St. Basil's Parochial School, and placed in St. Xavier's Academy, Beatty, Pa., by her aunt, Miss Marie Jane White, 5500 Elm street.

Miss White has been the child's guardian since the death of both the little girl's parents, who died about a year apart several years ago, but the uncle and his family have made a home for her. Miss White testified she paid the Carlins $25 a month for the child's support. She said the school was overcrowded and the little girl did not make good marks last year, but when she wanted to send her to the private school the Carlins refused to give her up. After hearing both sides and talking with the little girl, Judge Gray said he thought it would be for the best interests of the child to go to St. Xavier's.

CHILD, 3, DIES OF BURNS

Joan Hummell, 3, daughter of Patrolman Newton Hummell, of 309 Copeland avenue, North Braddock, died early today in Braddock General Hospital from burns suffered Wednesday, when her clothing became ignited from a stove in her home.

September 4, 1928, a brother, Raymond, 4, suffered a fractured skull when struck by an automobile near his home, and while in the hospital, occupied a cot near his sister, Irene, 19, who was injured when a train struck an automobile in which she and three others were riding. Another girl in the party was killed.

In a crowded lunch-room the other day a local politician was talking about the current campaign. "We think," he said, "everyone, like ourselves, is all worked up about the fight. Yet, if you asked a majority of the women in this room to name the four candidates for mayor and four of the men running for Council I'll bet they'd all fail in the test."

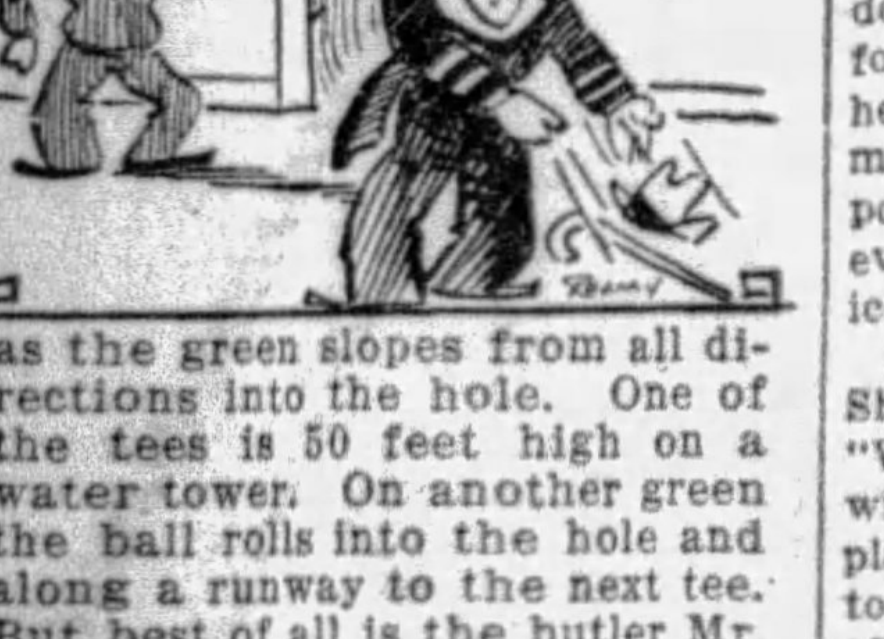
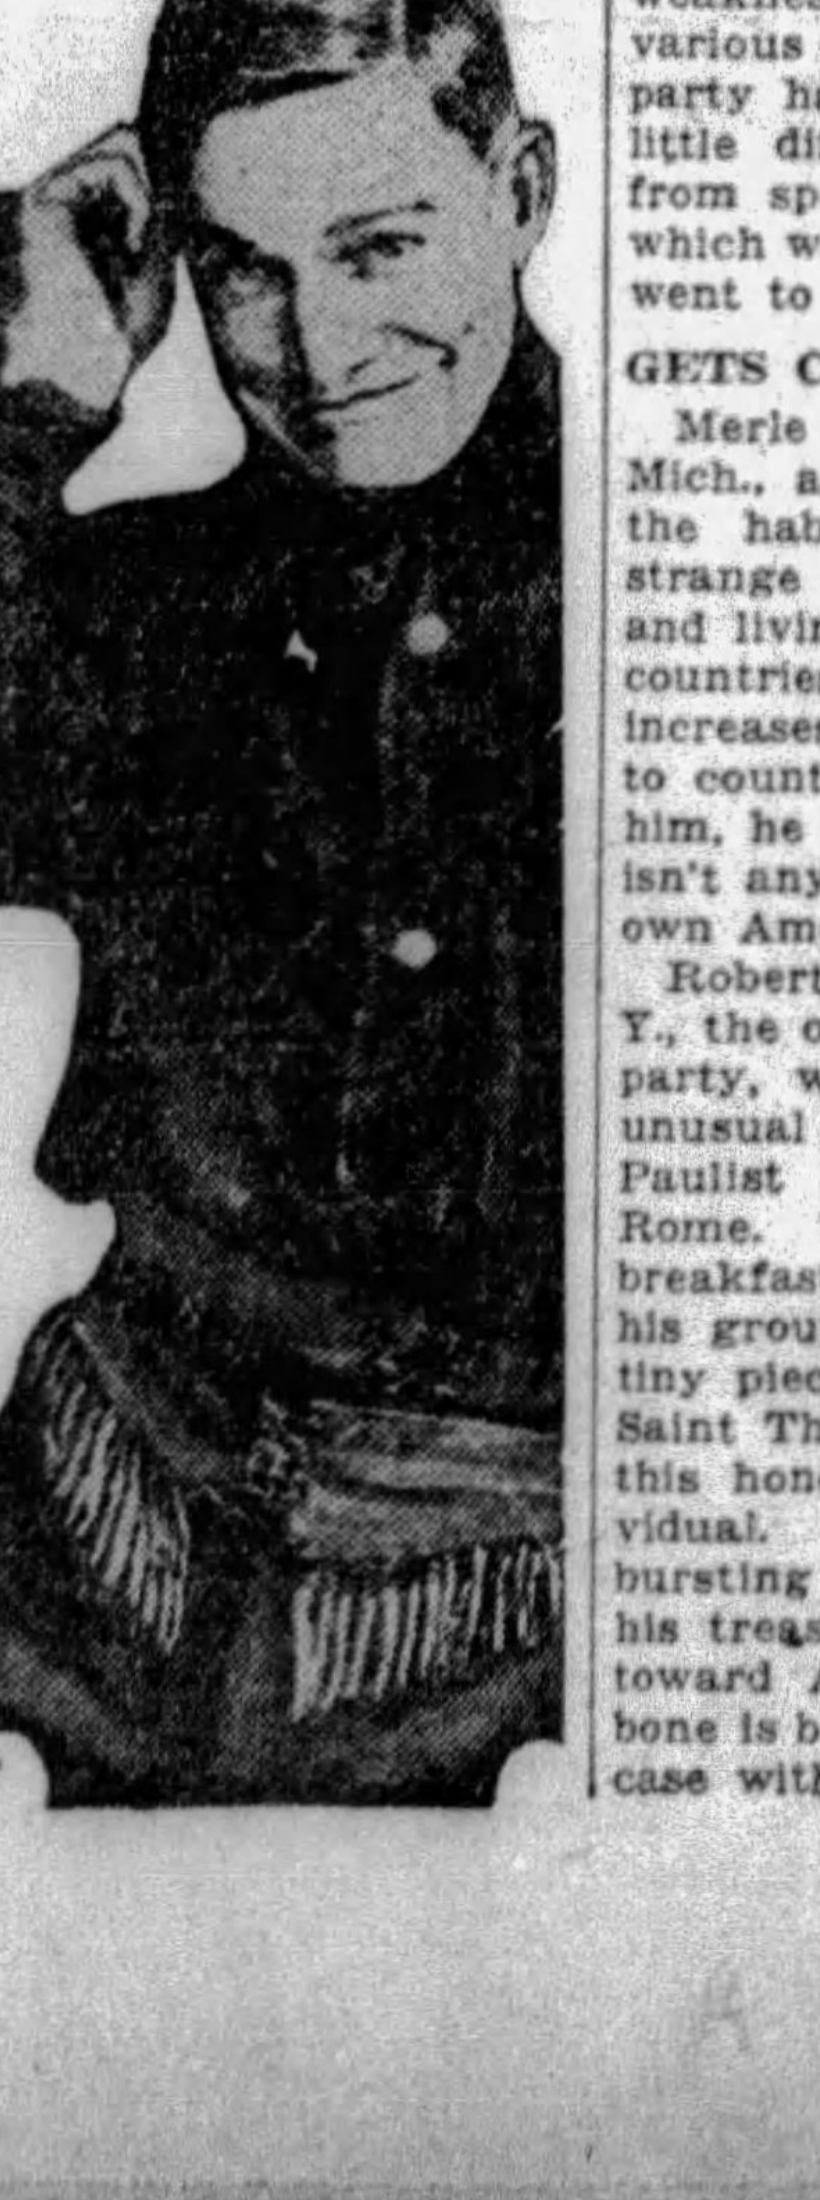
A PITTSBURGH friend of Joe Cook, the well-known comedian, recently visited Mr. Cook's New Jersey home and returns with marvelous tales of the comedian's estate. He has, for one thing, a trick golf course. If your ball lands on the green it rolls into the cup as the green slopes from all directions into the hole. One of the tees is 50 feet high on a water tower. On another green the ball rolls into the hole and along a runway to the next tee. But best of all is the butler Mr. Cook employs. He is a solemn man, dressed in considerable livery. He gravely takes the hat and coat of the visitor, walks ceremoniously across the floor and drops them on the floor.



Will Rogers Says



BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 7.

This world's court is up again. Some think it's great, and some think it's terrible, and I am just one of the ninety per cent of our population who don't know what it is.

The more I read about both sides, the less I know about the middle. Each nation that goes into it has it understood with a reservation that anything the court does shall be binding, except in cases pertaining to them.

But everybody is agreed on one thing and that is, if we ratify it, it would be crowning achievement to finish out the great career of Mr. Elihu Root, a great man, and splendid statesman.

Others think we could pay him our obligation in a cheaper way.

Yours, WILL.

AMERICAN PLAYERS FEATURED IN ALL-GERMAN TALKING VERSION OF "LUMMOX"

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate).

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.

While Victor McLaglen was on his recent visit East, he trailed to Washington to see President Hoover. Seeing the President was okah. Knowing how to address him was another matter. Vic hadn't thought of this until 'twas too late for a conference. After an uncomfortable moment, the big boy addressed Mr. Hoover as: "Your Worship." And the President didn't seem to mind 'atall.

Collier, Jr.

In November, an all-talky version of Herbert Brennon's production, "Lummox," is to be premiered in Germany. Winifred Westover, Ben Lyon, Dorothy Jordon, William Collier, Jr., Edna Murphy, et al, actually speak German. The showing of "Lummox" as a 100 per cent German talky will stamp this offering as the first American made outloud to be shown in that country. If I'm not too incoherent.

The man responsible for this is Fred Zelnik, German stage and screen director. Mr. Zelnik rehearsed his German actors to speak the lines in the picture. He then ran a silent version of the production and the players spoke with the moving lips of the American emoters. The result is perfect. The German words fit the lips of the screen traipsers and the lines are spoken with emotional skill. It is logical to reduct that "Lummox" will be as interesting a hit in Germany as it should be in this country.

Chester Morris Meets Success

CHESTER MORRIS, who swept to celluloid popularity with "Alibi," has been engaged to play a "disagreeable" featured role in Alice White's new flick, "Playing Around." Mr. Morris has certainly skyrocketed in this screen racket. He came West only a few months ago at a salary of $1,500 a week. Today, he rakes in $4,500. Which is speeding alone.

Early in August, Mary Astor and Charlie Morton got in an argument over the now sniffed at 18-day diet. Mary defended the diet. Charlie ha-haed it. He claimed the only way to melt off weight was by exercise. Mary did a lil' ha-ha-ing herself. Whereupon, one word tumbling into the heap, the two bet $50; Charlie, that he could exercise away 20 pounds by Sept. 1; Mary, that he couldn't. Morton, at the time of the bet, loaded the scales at 190. He's six feet and a half. Came Sept. 1. Charlie weighed in. He weighed 167 pounds! Subsequently, being a fem of her word, Mary forked over 50 bucks to him.

Leslie Fenton Forsakes Career

One of the curiously interesting stories to drift around the colony since it became a colony is that of Leslie Fenton. Les is a young lad who burst into the limelight years ago when he made a big hit in some Fox picture or other. Shortly after, he skidded into a nervous breakdown and landed in a sanitarium for endless months. Upon leaving, he returned to Hollywood and, after much effort and many bitter disappointments, got the foothold that eventually led to his histrionic services being in demand again.

He played in "Underworld," "The Showdown," a Conrad Veidt special, "Woman Trap," in "Paris Bound" with Ann Harding. He had been playing with an idea, too—an idea to skip to Europe. To a little island off the coast of Spain. Eventually to Germany to visit Conrad Veidt and work in German pictures.

About six weeks ago, Let decided it was now or never. So, together with two friends, he booked passage on a tramp schooner bound for Italy. Recent word received from the trio says they are on their island. And it's swell.

Fenton's friends said he was crazy to chuck a lucrative career for such mad adventuring. Les agreed with them. And chucked it. One of these days he may return. Then, again, he may not. And there are those, who called him loco, who envy his daring greatly.

Mr. Richman Sings a Song

SCREENALITIES: Georges Carpentier tripping around the Roosevelt dance floor with Dorothy Ward. Miss Ward is the youngster Phyllis Haver "discovered" clerking in a local 10-cent store and got her a job in one of her flicks. Don't know what she's doing now. . . . Mickey Neilan arriving with Lois Moran to join in the nocturnal as-you-like-it . . . Fanny Brice table-ing with her husband, Billy Rose, Oscar Levant and Roger Davis . . . Harry Richman singing and getting a thunderous hand . . . Jimmy Tolson, ditto. Jimmy is a 12-year-old from San Francisco. His dad is a druggist. He came to Hollywood in a friend's care, seeking a chance to sing in the flicks. No one gave him a hearing. The friend knew Harry Richman and through him won an audience with Richman, Joe Schenck and John Considine, Jr. Result: Schenck signed the boy to a long-term contract. Jimmy is a natural born melody artist. The way he puts a song over is great. Schenck plans to launch him in short flicks and, later, feature uns. . . . Bebe Daniels airplane-ing over Hollywood. That fem is crazy for air . . . Marceline Day cabling Sister Alice she was plenty seasick on the voyage to Honolulu . . . And—that's all.

FLAG WINNERS STUDY ART

By FLOYD E. WILLIAMSON

Escort of Flag Champions Going Around the World as Guests of the Hearst Newspapers. (Special Cable.)

FLORENCE, Italy, Sept. 7.—The American flag champions, winners in the contest conducted by the United States Flag Association and the Hearst newspapers, took time off yesterday from the round of official receptions and entertainments to drink in the wonders and beauty of ancient Italian art.

In the local galleries and museums they beheld with genuine awe and delight the paintings of Michael Angelo, the bold strokes on the canvases of Rubens, the sublimity of Correggio's Madonna and the Holy Family in Egypt, and the priceless art treasures collected by the Midici family in the centuries gone by.

EAGER FOR JOURNEYS

Although the youthful American travelers have had more than two months of intensive roaming about in Hawaii, Japan, China, the Philippines, Ceylon and Egypt, their eagerness and enthusiasm are still undaunted. Their chaperone, Mrs Gregory, at times becomes fearful that her juvenile charges are becoming wearied, but on days when sightseeing is on the program, she finds them first on the scene, keenly awaiting the start on the explanatory trips.

Piquant Mary McGonigal, the girl champion from Troy, New York, expressed the general thought of the young travelers when she said:

"We're simply in heaven, viewing these wonders and art treasures in this land where history has been made for so many centuries."

Mary is but 15 years of age, but already she knows more history than many teachers. Occasionally she corrects the guides or others who make errors in dates or other details. Pretty Alma Groves, of Byronsville, Ga., is no less interested in sightseeing, but she also has a weakness for shops and styles in the various countries through which the party has passed. She has had no little difficulty to date in keeping from spending her entire allowance which was a part of the award which went to her as a champion.

GETS CATHOLIC RELIC

Merle Clarke, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., appears chiefly interested in the habits of the peoples in the strange lands which he has visited and living conditions in the various countries. His patriotism constantly increases as he goes from country to country. His trip has convinced him, he is glad to relate, that there isn't any place on the globe like his own America.

Robert Sullivan, of Syracuse, N. Y., the only Catholic member of the party, was the recipient of a most unusual honor tendered him by the Paulist Fathers while he was in Rome. While being entertained at breakfast with the other members of his group, he was presented with a tiny piece of bone from the body of Saint Theresa. Only once before has this honor been accorded any individual. Robert is literally almost bursting with pride and is guarding his treasure closely as he carries it toward America. The fragment of bone is beautifully mounted in a gold case with a glass covering.

Back Again

Bernard Gorcey, well known to theatergowers for his portrayal of Isaac Cohen in "Abie's Irish Rose," will appear next week in the Pitt in the George Sharp production of that popular comedy.

MAYER GUEST OF HOOVER

By KENNETH CLARK.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Louis B. Mayer, vice president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is a guest of President Hoover at the White House. The President and Mr. Mayer are old friends.

Mr. Mayer had been invited to spend the week-end at the presidential summer camp at Rapidan, but the visit was canceled as Mr. Hoover decided to remain in Washington to consult with members of the Republican National Committee who are arriving for the meeting here Monday. The President then asked Mr. Mayer to be his guest at the Executive Mansion last night.

GOES TO SHORE

Mr. Mayer will go to Atlantic City today to remain until Monday when he leaves for Los Angeles. He will arrive home Thursday over the Santa Fe Railroad.

During his visit to Washington, the film magnate has been entertained at a round of social functions by members of the diplomatic corps, Congress and high government officials. The Chilean ambassador, Senor Don Carlos G. Davila, whom Mr. Mayer entertained in Los Angeles recently, had a dinner in his honor on Tuesday. Senator Capper, of Kansas, invited a number of senators to meet Mr. Mayer at a luncheon at the Capitol Wednesday, and last night Mr. Mayer had a dinner for 30 guests at the Willard Hotel.

NOTED GUESTS

Among the prominent guests at Mr. Mayer's dinner were Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican National Committee; Secretary of Labor Davis and Mrs. Davis; the Chilean ambassador, David E Kaufman, American minister to Bolivia, and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, ex-assistant attorney general.

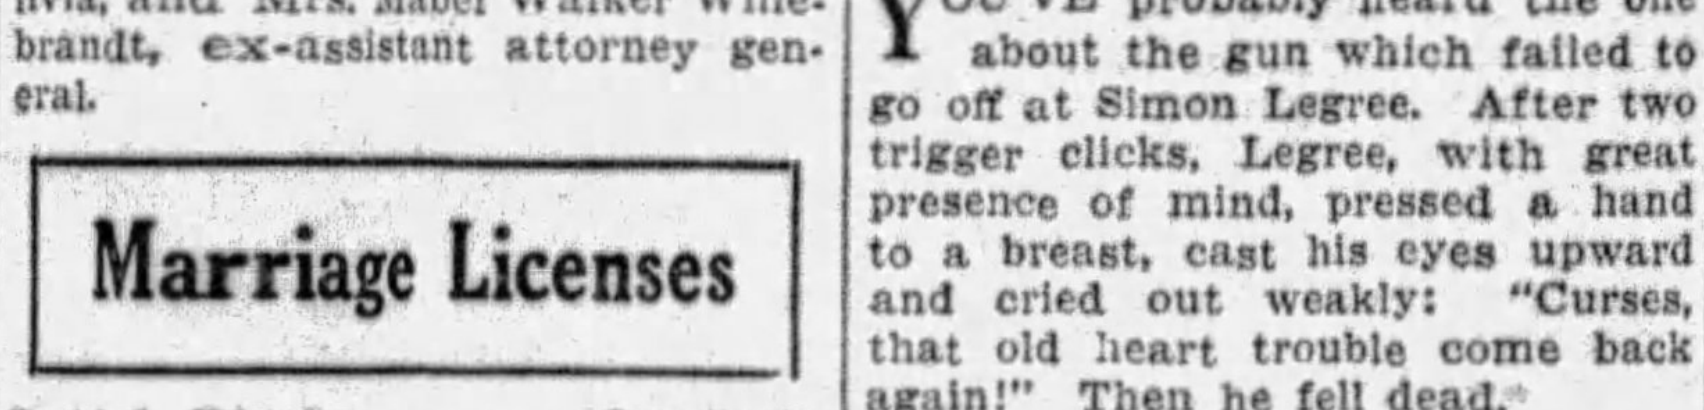
UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES



DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

Walter Winchell On Broadway

Freedom

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.

No more heart-burnings—I am sane again,
And life goes swiftly with unhurried feet.
I can bear, undisturbed, the silver rain
Beating on budding flowers to make them sweet.

I can bear even moonlight and white stars
Dancing like fireflies—fallen is love's load
From off my shoulders, and there are no bars
Love built to keep me from the open road.

It may be that my heart has turned to stone.
I only know I do not feel the pain,
And I am well content to walk alone
Unless—unless you call me back again.

—Jean Foy.

HAW!

THE best of the current gags, we think, is the one concerning the two Jewish competitors, who resorted to everything but murder to outdo each other. They had shops directly across the way and slashed prices ruthlessly or did this and that until both went without sleep plotting what to do next.

Then one night a Jewish fairy came to Mr. Goldfarb's bedside and said: "Mine frand, I'm a ferry vot kin geev you anything you heart desires. Mit my wand and gat you your wish, but I'm wunning you, wot ever you wish fer your compatitor gets double!"

"Dot's okay by me," was the sly retort, "I wish dot I go blind in one eye!"

IN FEWER WORDS

They were belittling some of the cartoonists and other newspaper "comedians," who desperately took a gag, joke, nifty or pun where they found it. "You'd think," ventured one grumbler, "that they would be ashamed of themselves!" "That isn't it at all," responded another, "they simply have not yet learned to blush at picking a contemporary's pocket."

OOP!

TO which a third furnished the big chuckle by Gold-Dusting that famous observation in this manner: "Ah, gentlemen. Actors and cartoonists—two of the grandest professions in the world—ruined by amateurs!"

PORTRAIT

Among other pets of the Broadway, Fifth and Park avenue crowd is Mary Coward, who certainly was misnamed. Mary vocalizes delightfully and accompanies herself at the Steinway for most of the radio stations throughout the country and, after hours, when in Manhattan, she is persuaded to enliven this or that party.

Mary is always gay and has the most contagious smile you ever did see, but she has no idea how pretty she is, for she is blind.

When she was 5 Mary was felled by a playmate, who was toying with a shotgun which he "didn't know was loaded."

ADD MERCILESS TRUTHS

And many a Broadway "celebrity" who has a $1.50 sandwich named after him cannot buy one.

PRESENCE OF MIND

YOU'VE probably heard the one about the gun which failed to go off at Simon Legree. After two trigger clicks, Legree, with great presence of mind, pressed a hand to a breast, cast his eyes upward and cried out weakly: "Curses, that old heart trouble come back again!" Then he fell dead.

Aleck Woollcott, however, knows a funnier incident. It was several seasons ago in "Bulldog Drummond." The villain was supposed to gain gratified possession of a revolver and fire at A. E. Matthews (playing Drummond). There was to be no report. Matthews was to smile and say contemptuously: "My good man, I would scarcely have let you amuse yourself with that toy had I not known it was unloaded."

Only, on this night, the villain picked up the wrong pistol and fired two shots which sprayed the heroic waistcoat with powder. Of course, that did not hurt Matthews himself any, but it did considerably impair the line just ahead. So Matthews looked at the fellow and taunted: "You're a damn bad shot, my good man," and then sauntered off.

PARDON HIS GLOVE

Far be it from us to belittle the craft, but it remained for a columnist to reach the height of conceit at a grand Broadway banquet the other yawning. Abel Green, of Variety's staff (now Yurrupbound), was being toasted by an army of Broadway pals, wags, wits and clowns, who made it a hilariously funny night. But when a Broadway paragrapher was called on to say something, he chirped, "I just want to say that I am having a fine time. In fact, I never laughed so much since I read my last column."

IN CASE YOU DIDN'T KNOW

THOSE kind of books, plays and people are no longer called "subtle" but "smuttie."

ADD BROADWAY DRAMAS

"Dear Walter Winchell: You won't find any gags or dirt in this letter—just my little story. And, Walter, I am so lonely and hurt inside that I can't keep things to myself any longer. Only an hour ago, I saw you and the rest of the crowd, people I once knew so well, and to whom my name meant much.

"I am referring to the 'Sweet Adeline' opening last night. It was at intermission and you all were on the walk, laughing, shaking hands and all dressed up. And I? I was in a dark doorway watching it all across the way.

"Gee! The whole devil-may-care mob! And when Tex Guinan came flaming out, why, it was all I could do to restrain myself from rushing over and shouting: 'Hey! Gang!' But the second act bell rang, I guess, for you all went in laughing and so merry. At any rate, something is going to happen soon, and I'll let you have the scoop!!!!!—From One of Your Pals, believe me."

SOTTO VOCE

F. J. W.: I saw it, too.
Flora Martin: The rhymes don't and the last stanza is sour, anyway.
Frank Selden: Nope.
Jack Larwen: Mme. Walker's daughter has the place since her mater died.

NIFTY

HARRY REICHENBACH knows a theatrical manager who got so sick his heart swelled up to the size of a bird seed.

CAPSULE CRITICISM

Among other sentences that speak volumes, or as we prefer calling them, "Crisp Cracks from Critical Cusses," was Coleridge's caustic comment concerning Kean's Hamlet.

"Seeing Kean's Hamlet," said Coleridge, "is like reading Shakespeare by flashes of lightning."

Attorney Heads Committee to Canvass District in Fight For Lower Levy on Wages

The federal tax on earned incomes must be reduced. Today the first recruit was enlisted in the Sun-Telegraph's campaign for the voluntary circulation of petitions in residence districts urging Congress to revise downward the tax on the incomes of professional people, salaried men and women and wage earners.

Jacob Shulgold, attorney, of 6334 Forward avenue, will direct the canvass in his district and has been named chairman for the Murray avenue section of the Fourteenth Ward.

Every citizen in that populous district will be asked to sign a petition. A committee appointed by Attorney Shulgold to assist in his work will engage workers to carry on the canvass in business concerns and in a house-to-house visitation, so that all will be given an opportunity to sign.

COMMITTEE NAMED

Members of the committee are: Sol S. Goldstein, alderman, 1919 Murray avenue; Karl W. Huth, banker, 6441 Monitor street; Samuel Adler, druggist, Phillips and Murray avenues; J. L. Lichter, delicatessen dealer, 2705 Murray avenue; J. A. West, real estate, 1925 Murray avenue, and E. W. Hepner, radio and electrical dealer, 1711 Murray avenue.

District workers have been directed by Chairman Shulgold to make their reports and return their signed petitions to the nearest member of the committee. The work will be divided to prevent duplication in the canvass.

"The residents of my neighborhood are grateful to the Sun-Telegraph for its efforts in championing the cause of the people who are burdened by the present system of taxing earned incomes," said Attorney Shulgold.

VOLUNTEERS WANTED

Nearly 500 signatures were reported today from the printers' committee organized by Robert L. Forsythe, Jr.

The Sun-Telegraph repeats its call for volunteer chairmen to organize committees in residence districts and in the various lines of business enterprises. Blank petition forms will be supplied and suggestions made to facilitate the canvass. The names of the volunteers will be announced as soon as received. A postal card to the Income Tax Department, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., is all that is necessary to enlist in this patriotic cause.

JACOB SHULGOLD

U. S. NARCOTIC PLAN FAVORED

GENEVA, Sept. 7.—The first formal acceptance of the American project for limiting the output of manufactured drugs has been recorded. The League of Nations yesterday received a communication from Consul Viriato Figueredo-Lora, of Costa Rica, stating that his government accepted the principle of the American plan.

The project, known as the Crane plan, reached the League through the Netherlands government, to whom former Secretary of State Kellogg had forwarded the scheme submitted by C. K. Crane, of Los Angeles.

The League distributed copies to the delegates of all nations, although its advisory committee on the traffic in opium and other dangerous drugs sought to bury the proposal.

The Costa Rican consul pointed out that his government's action was manifest proof of its ardent desire to co-operate in the most practical immediate manner for the solution of the problem of the international fight against narcotics.

2 Special Sermons By Rev. Emerson

Briton Puzzled at U. S. English, But Thinks It's Ripping, By Jove—What?

ALFRED P. PERRY is a young English newspaperman and holder of the Walter Hines Page Fellowship in Journalism for 1928. Under this Fellowship, which was established some years ago by the English Speaking Union of the United States with the object of promoting fuller understanding of America in Great Britain through the medium of the press, British newspapermen are attached for periods amounting in all to one year to the staffs of leading papers in this country. During the three weeks which he is spending as a guest of the Sun-Telegraph Mr. Perry is writing his impressions of America and Pittsburgh from day to day.

By ALFRED P. PERRY

The first peril which besets the unwary Briton in this country is the language. Having been taught from childhood that Americans speak English, he assumes quite unjustly that this must be precisely the same brand which he talks at home.

It does not enter his head that words which he uses every day may have a very different meaning or no meaning at all on the other side of the Atlantic ocean.

So he takes no trouble to prepare himself for any conversational difficulties such as he might expect reasonably to encounter in a land 3,000 miles across the sea.

NEED TO PREPARE

That such preparation is advisable for those about to visit Cousin Jonathan is proved to the visiting Briton by his first walk down a New World street. People tell him to go "three blocks south and two west" instead of "third turn to the right, and straight on for a hundred yards." He finds that he is on the sidewalk, not the "pavement," which has now become the "street" of home. Drugstores have replaced "chemists" and they seem to sell everything except drugs. If he wants to cross the street in safety he finds that he must ask for a pedestrian tunnel, not a "subway." And then, if he asks for "the underground" or "the tube" people will gape at him until they realise from his explanations that what the poor boob wants is the subway!

Most of his friends will understand that when he talks about a "tram" he means a street car. But they are likely to be puzzled when he tells how he was nearly run down by a "lorry," unless they have been in England and know that this word means a truck. And if he goes into a store to ask for "a reel of cotton" he may cause some misgiving as to his sanity until he explains that what he wishes really is a spool of thread.

SLANG NOT STRANGE

However, it does not take the tenderfoot long to learn the trails of this linguistic jungle, for the racy slang of the west is not entirely strange across the sea, thanks to the enterprise of Hollywood.

But every rover must hope that all differences of speech and customs will not disappear, for they add such spice to travel.

After all, this language stunt is really rather "ripping." It would bloody well bore me stiff to hear the same bally words in every blinkin' spot I blew into. These standardizing Johnnies are talking tripe through the backs of their necks. What we dashed well want in this ruddy world is more jolly old variety—what?

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Dorothy Jarvis to Be Guest at Debutante Luncheon Oct. 24

THIS torrid weather—and certainly the middle of summer could do no more—is having no appreciable effect on plans for the fall and winter. Dates must be taken far ahead, of course, if they are to be taken at all, particularly those for debutante parties, and a talk about events scheduled for October, November or December may cool the air just a little. At any rate, we can feel fairly sure that the heat won't be a problem by that time.

One of the newest of the scheduled parties for the buds is a buffet luncheon down in Sewickley. Mrs. William McBride, of Grant street, is arranging to entertain on October 24 for Dorothy Jarvis, debutante of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Jarvis, of Sewickley. Later that same afternoon, as you probably remember, Susan Potter O'Neil will make her bow to society at a tea, which her two grandmothers, Mrs. George Latimer Potter, of Rogers Ford, Md., and Mrs. Edward O'Neil, of "Wisteria," Sewickley, will give at "Wisteria."

Another October date taken is for a wedding, that of Anna Knevals Childs and Arthur P. Woolfolk. Anna, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howe Childs, of Fifth avenue and Woodland road, has chosen Monday, October 21, for her wedding, the ceremony to be performed that afternoon at 5 o'clock in Calvary Episcopal Church. Mr. Woolfolk is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Junius A. Woolfolk, of Louisville, Ky.

AN interesting wedding of yesterday took place over in New York when Mrs. Eleanor Semple Messler, daughter of the John Bonner Semples, of Linden avenue, Sewickley, was married to Samuel Alexander Gayley, of Philadelphia. The ceremony was performed at 5:30 o'clock at the Semple apartment in the Sherry-Netherlands, in New York, by the Rev. Dr. Owen Davies Odell, pastor of the Sewickley Presbyterian Church. Mr. and Mrs. Gayley sailed last night for England, and they are planning a motor trip through England and Scotland. When they return, they will live in New Town square, Philadelphia. Mr. Gayley was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1924.

RETURNED to Sewickley are the Charles Doyles and their daughters, Rebecca, who is to be a debutante this winter; Nancy and Virginia, of "Vine Acres." The Doyles have been abroad for most of the summer and stopped for a visit at Southampton on their way home.

EXPERTS READY TO ADVISE IN AIR MARKS

Many Letters Received Concerning Proper Method; Corporations Join Move

By MAX HENRICI

Washington county's plans to get more prominently on the air map through providing signs for the guidance of aviators are revealed by a letter from J. H. Nicholson, principal of the West Alexander High School. Mr. Nicholson asks for specifications for "air-marking" a building.

Mr. Nicholson has been told—and the information should be kept in mind by others planning to mark their towns—that the Department of Commerce specifications may be obtained on application to the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, Oliver Building, Pittsburgh.

EXPERTS AVAILABLE

The corporation, co-operating with the Sun-Telegraph in the campaign to get every town in the Pittsburgh district marked, will, if desired, send experts on aviation matters to address chambers of commerce, service clubs, town meetings and the like.

Alfred Heimburger, president of the Oakmont Aero Club, has had "OAKMONT" painted in aluminum letters 12 feet high, with an arrow pointing to Rodgers Field, on the roof of the garage at Maryland avenue and Tenth street, Oakmont.

The name "BETTIS FIELD," with an arrow pointing to the field, has been painted in large letters on the roof of a building on the property of John Pheiff, 89 Hazlett street, Lincoln Place.

DU PONT COMPANY AIDS

The Sun-Telegraph has received a letter from the DuPont Company, of Wilmington, Del., stating that it has painted "WAYNESBORO" and an arrow pointing to the nearest airport on the roof of its new acetate rayon plant at Waynesboro, Va. The airport, the company states, is on a direct line between Pittsburgh and Miami, Fla. The letters of the sign are chrome yellow and 20 feet high.

The company has qualified for the Guggenheim Fund certificate of distinguished service to aviation, which is signed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and is awarded to those who put up "air-marks" complying with the government specifications. It is hoped that many of these certificates will come to the Pittsburgh district.

PASTORS' FUND DRIVE GETS UNDER WAY

Only Rich Members of U. P. Church to Be Solicited; $1,500,000 Campaign Goal

About 5,000 of the wealthier members of the United Presbyterian Church of the United States will be asked to contribute $1,500,000 to be used as a supplemental endowment fund for retired preachers. Its attainment will mean a pension of at least $600 annually to each minister reaching the age of 65.

The drive, inaugurated today, will reach into many states of the union, and will be directed by an executive campaign committee whose chairman is T. J. Gillespie, Jr., of this city.

Among the members of the executive committee are several other Pittsburghers, including the Rev. Dr. J. A. Alexander, John C. Hill, J. P. McKinney, Carlton G. Ketchum and McClean Work.

The selection of 5,000 communicants of the church to bear the burden of the endowment was made so that the other members of the church in the country would be unhindered in their work of assisting the present pension plan. To this, called the Board of Ministerial Pensions and Relief, the church pays 7½ per cent of the minister's salary and the minister pays 2½ per cent. In many cases, it was explained, when the time for retirement came, this fund failed to provide a minimum of $600 a year. The endowment fund to be created will make up any shortage. The maximum pension will be $2,000 a year.

The executive committee announced plans for the campaign at a meeting yesterday in the Keystone Club. Besides the local members, those who attended were R. E. English, Grove City, Pa.; T. A. Stewart, Salem, N. Y.; S. A. Fulton, Milwaukee, vice chairman; Earl R. Lewis, St. Clairsville, O.; the Rev. Dr. H. J. Rose, New Wilmington, Pa.; W. [illegible] Graham, Philadelphia, and the Rev. Dr. R. W. Burnside, Philadelphia.

The next meeting will be held in Columbus, O., Tuesday.

CHURCH ADDS 2 TO STAFF

The First Presbyterian Church of Homestead has added two new workers to its staff. Miss Louise Brooks has been engaged as the church secretary to take the place of Miss Mary Morley, who recently resigned. Miss Brooks is a graduate of the Presbyterian School for Christian Workers. She comes to this district from Kansas City, where she had been engaged in similar work.

Frederick A. Welty, a former member of the noted Westminster Choir, which returned from a recent tour of Europe, will direct the church's musical activities. Mr. Welty received his musical training from the Westminster Choir School, Dayton, O., where he was connected with the First Presbyterian Church of Piqua, O.

Prior to his work at the Westminster school, Mr. Welty was a high school teacher at Lima, O., his home. He also sang in the leading choir of that city and received training from Prof. Mark Evans, its director, and director of the Lima Choral Club, that has won many prizes at Welsh eisteddfods in Ohio and Indiana.

These new additions to the staff will take their places almost immediately, according to the pastor of the congregation, the Rev. Edward M. Krapp.

SERMONETTE

"HOLDING THE LIGHT"

Text: Ephesians, 5:14—"And Christ shall give thee light."
By REV. KARL A. STEIN, D. D.,
Pastor of Grace Reformed Church,
Bayard and Dithridge Streets, E. E., Pittsburgh, Pa.

LYING prostrate upon his hospital bed, in great pain and agony, the nurses were busily engaged in adjusting the bandages, when the patient, seeing their difficulty, said: "Perhaps I can hold the light so you can work more easily." That patient was none other than the distinguished scholar and late President of the University of Chicago, Dr. Ernest De Witt Burton, and those simple words uttered a few hours before his death typify this great man's life, "Holding the light" that others might see their work and perform it more efficiently.

REV. KARL A. STEIN, D. D.

Thank God that there is a light to hold.

Jesus Christ standing in the temple among the flickering tapers, burning as symbols of the Light to come, cried out, "I am the light of the world." He is the day spring from on High, the bright Morning Star. By the light of his matchless character he showed men the Father, and gave a new value to the worth of human life and elevated the greatness of Faith and Hope and Love to new and greater heights.

Thank God for men and women who will hold this light that Christ shall give, so that others may find their way through the darkness and gloom of doubts and fears. At this time of the year there are many thousands of young people leaving their homes to enter the colleges whose portals are thrown open to receive them and lead them forth into a new world of adventure. The influence of Christian parents and teachers and companions will be as a light shining into the perplexities of the untrodden path. Some one is holding light for them.

The doors of our Churches are again thrown open, and people are invited to come. Why go to Church? The Church is holding a light whose illuminating radiance no man can afford to neglect. What men need today is not only information, but illumination. Science can inform us about the marvelous structure of this universe—it can give us facts and data and measurements and definitions, but when we have received this, is there nothing more we need? Religion comes and says, "I cannot define and measure the great invisible spiritual world, but I am holding the light and under the influence of its Radiance you and I can work out the problem of love and faith and hope in all the experiences of our lives. The Church may not be able to give you a satisfactory answer for every problem that confronts you, but the Church can put you in touch with HIM, who opened men's eyes and put new hope into their souls and infused a new motive into their lives, Jesus, who guided men to the very heart of God in whom we live, move and have our being.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Wisecrackers and Lovers

LOTS of girls are starving for romance. Why deny it?

It is difficult for a man to believe that a woman may be "fed up" on attentions and kisses—and, at the same time, starving for love. But, that's exactly the present-day situation.

* * *

How can a woman hang any illusions on the flippant wisecracking, young wag, who is determined to pattern himself after William Haines, and tries to brighten up her most inspired moments with a jolly little quip, or a bit of roguish buffoonery?

HELEN ROWLAND

There is nothing subtly alluring about a man who appears to be so full of vitamines that he's spilling back-flashes and droll sayings every minute of the time. Wisecracking has done to romance what jazz has done to music.

* * *

Airy persiflage and right adinage are all right, in their way and in their place—but their place is not under a harvest moon, or in a thrilling setting, against a romantic background.

No man can be a good lover and a confirmed wisecracker, too.

You can't make a Prince Charming out of a man, who insists on playing First Clown at every party, and Merry Andrew or Harlequin, from early morn to bye-bye time. Too much "animation" gets on your nerves, and gives you that tired feeling.

* * *

You can't, by the wildest stretch of imagination, make a hero out of a man who is continually springing a "gag," at the most intensive moments.

But that's the average modern young Lothario's idea. He would rather be FUNNY, than President! He would rather take castor oil, than be caught sighing. To be SERIOUS about anything—or any woman—is, to him, just being "ga-ga."

* * *

He works so hard at being scintilating, facetious, and peppy, that you'd fancy he was being paid for it. And, you can't make a Romeo out of a man who glances around for an audience every time he makes what he considers a refreshing remark. Ho-hum!

* * *

There's nothing exciting—nothing to write home about—in being kissed by a man who bursts into a wisecrack before your liprouge is dry on his cheek. Besides, a wisecrack is usually 98 per cent crack and 2 per cent wisdom; and it's difficult for anybody to be funny and sparkling, every minute, without stepping on somebody's tender feelings or jabbing somebody's vanity.

* * *

Romeo never played to the gallery. He went in stealthily by the backgate, talked in whispers, managed to look eager or melancholy, and never once tried to be "witty" or to startle the girl with his repartee.

* * *

The "Peppiness Boys" have spoiled the love-game. That's why the average girl gazes upon the third finger of her left hand, with a hopeless, faraway look in her eyes. That's why she goes to the movies, to get a few vicarious thrills—or falls for an older man, who has not forgotten that love-making is a serious business. Not to say, a Fine Art.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Led by Harry, Family Council Decides to Set a "Tiger Trap"

NOEL VERITZEN shared my amazement at Harry Underwood's announcement that "there would be nothing to hinder the baiting of the tiger trap." I saw this by his widened eyes, fixed upon Harry. But when I looked at Lillian I saw that she was smiling comprehensively at her husband, and knew that she had fathomed his plan.

"Elucidate, Harry," she bade him, laughing. "You don't want an ascension record around here this morning."

"It's very simple," her husband retorted. "You've all heard of staking out a deer or a young buffalo in a trap, so that a tiger, seeking his prey, would be caught by his own greed. Well, that's what I propose doing. I'm going to get Mary, Olina and Georges under the same roof, with the Underwoods and the Grahams as guards, and then stake out one of the three as a decoy."

"Not Mary!" Noel's voice rang out imperatively.

"Don't mock my chivalry, boy!" Mr. Underwood's facial muscles twitched into a grin. "Neither Mary nor Princess Olina. Prince Georges will be the victim of whom we can quote, 'The bleating of the kid excited the tiger.'"

Noel was on his feet, his face strained and resolute.

"I haven't any idea what your plan is, sir," he said respectfully, "but I do wish to ask one thing of you. If there's any danger to Prince Georges in this, I want to take his place. Can't it be arranged so that these men would think I was the man they wanted?"

He was so earnest and so boyish in his gallant gesture, which we all knew to be as sincere as his own loyal soul, that no one of us facing him had the impulse to smile at his naivete.

"That's awfully white of you, Neol," Mr. Underwood said, "but it simply couldn't be done. However, with my plan there'll be a minimum of danger to the prince, and we'll have mighty good chances of rounding up the lads who are playing this little game. If we can only get our hands on one or two of them, the danger is practically over. Getting caught is the last thing they count on, or their royal master in Trees, either."

Lillian put the question which I knew was as close to Noel's lips as to mine.

"This 'under one roof' business that you're planning. It will have to be a big one to house all of us. Where—?"

He bowed mockingly to her.

"And of course you haven't the slightest idea," he said, and I caught the answering glint in her eyes which told me that she had no need of his answer, but had asked the question to relieve Noel's mental tension and mine.

"Even so, I'd like to have it in words of one syllable or thereabouts," she told him.

"Do you think the hotel will be big enough?" he asked quietly while Noel and I gasped.

"Big enough, surely," she returned, "but won't it be rather rough on the hotel?"

"Not the way I've planned it," he returned with assurance. "Nobody in the house except the ones we take into our confidence will ever know a thing about it. Of course, I'll have to let the manager and a trusted employe or two in on part of the scheme, but it [illegible] hotel [illegible] criminals. Now, here's the scheme."

He leaned back in his chair and put his hands together, finger-tips joined, a favorite attitude of his when explaining something.

"Of course, we were going into the hotel anyway in a little while," he said, "and it will simply mean hurrying up a bit for Mesdames Graham and Underwood. We can take care of Mary there most effectively. Then I shall insist that Princess Olina take a suite near us with her supposed uncle and aunt. They will guard her with their lives, if there is any need of guarding, which I doubt. It isn't Olina they are after, as long as they figure that Georges is in love with Mary. Then on one of the floors of the hotel where there are a number of transient rooms, I shall have Prince Georges take an outside suite opening on one of those balconies. Do you see my plan?" He turned to Lillian.

"I think I do," she said. "I've often thought it would be an easy thing for a thief to go from one of those balcony rooms to another—except that—"

"Except that it would take a very desperate man intent on murdering a certain person to do it," Mr. Underwood finished. "The chances of capture are too great for any ordinary sneak thief. And no guests at that old-fashioned, moderate-price hotel have jewels valuable enough to attract a desperate burglar. But if Prince Georges goes openly to live at the hotel, and they find out that it is possible to obtain a room next to his with a balcony connecting—why I'm counting on their falling into the trap."

Heel-less Shoes

Tennis players at Vichy wear low, heel-less shoes of white canvas that are worn with silk lacings that cross back and forth and tie around the ankles like ballet shoes.

Longer Gloves

The longer glove has proved exceedingly popular both here and in Paris this season.

Odd Fashions in Bedding

THE color craze has at last crept into bed with us and to look our best asleep we must have sheets of becoming tint. Getting away from the traditional white sheets and pillow cases is difficult, yet the adventure has its charms. Of course all the fittings must match and also reflect the color scheme of the bedroom. The contrasting note is frequently found in the quilt. This sounds wintry, but in the quilt revival there is a fascinating choice of summer quilts dainty in appearance and just the right weight for a cool night. These nights do come in the cottage by sea or in the hills.

Nile green sheets and pillow cases with wide hems are topped with nile green blankets having white striped borders in narrow stripes, or a Grecian key or plaid design. Or a green embroidered dimity spread having bouquets of pink wild roses, or little white rosebuds, the edge finished with deep points buttonhole stitched in the green. Folded over the foot of the bed may be a quilt of nile green silk in rose design and filled with the lightest and softest of down, literally as "light as a feather and as warm as toast."

Quite the latest thing out of the [illegible] is the newest idea in patchwork quilts. One for the nile green room for instance, would be of the nile green silk with the patchwork design in white silk. Instead of the work being patched in it is stitched on in quite a modern way, but the effect is pretty and unusual.

There are some new heavy linen spreads that have a large plaid design marked off in color and in the center of the large plaids a single flower motif is painted with waterproof paints that are in no way injured by laundering. The spread is a German idea and comes in several attractive colors. Daintily patterned cretonne and chintz spreads with a new double ruffled effect on three sides, the fourth tucking in over the pillows are quite popular and inexpensive.

The dainty lingerie spread used over the silk slip is always the most expensive as well as the most attractive summer bed covering. The loveliest are, of course, from France and those with the finest embroidered effects run into three figure prices. The candlewick spreads, and the spreads with stamped colored floral and center wreaths are among the lesser priced covers offered in many popular colors.

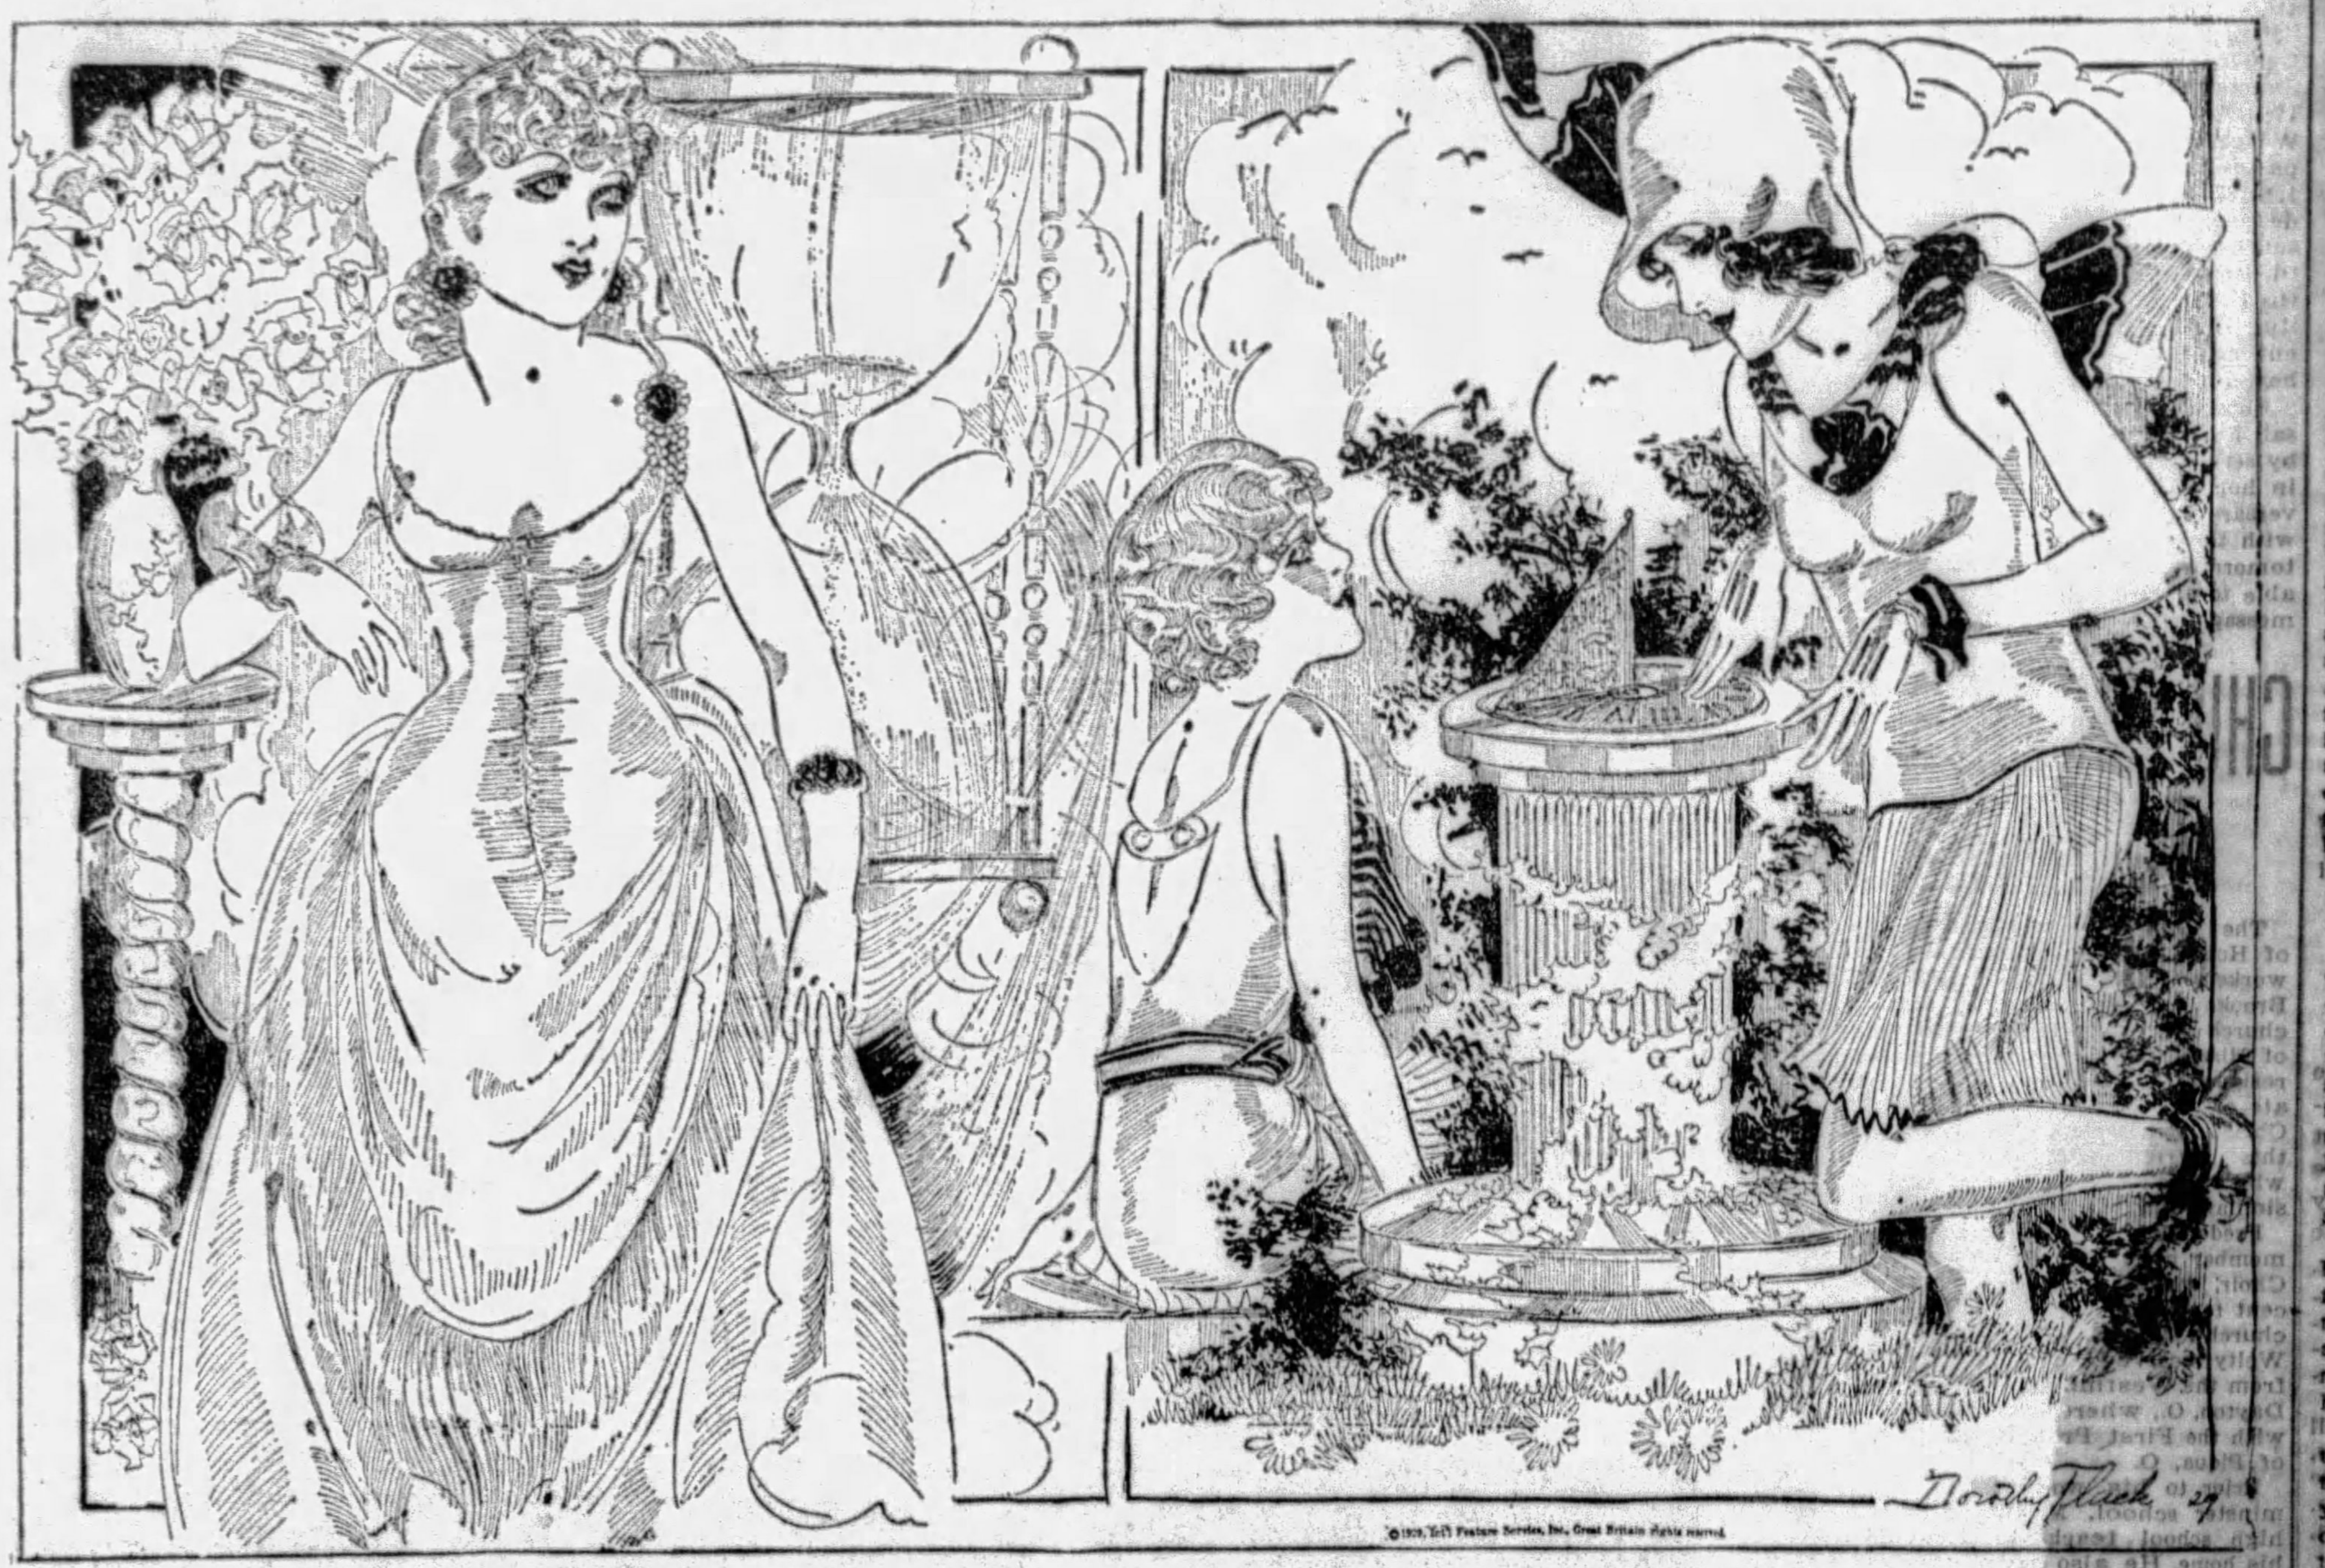
HOUR-GLASS AND SUN-DIAL

Drawn by DOROTHY FLACK



Dorothy Flack 29
©1929, Bell Feature Service, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

DID you ever go through the family album and look at all the old pictures and suddenly find yourself comparing Grandmother's photograph to an hour glass? How can you help it! Truly, they do look alike with the tiny wasp waist and the bustles and ruffles and hoops!

How times do change! The modern girl is the sun dial! No hour glass figure for her! She seeks the sunshine and loves it! And just as slim as the "hand" on the dial is she in her unhampered modernity!

But — here's the secret! Way down in her heart she's as old-fashioned as Mother Eve! When thoughts of love begin to chase themselves around her head and it finally dawns on her that it's her destiny, then she reverts to type, and just as Grandmother yearned for home and love and tiny arms clinging to her, and rose-leaf fingers holding trustfully to hers, so does Miss Sun Dial yearn!

And even though they are as far apart as the poles in dress, their hearts are exactly alike!

Fashions change, the world moves faster, but Love and hearts ever remain the same! If they didn't I'D hate to think what would become of us all!

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A Young Man's Dinner Invitation.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Would you be so kind as to give me the correct form for inviting a young gentleman to my home to dinner? The gentleman knows my family, and I am very much interested in him. But he is not, as the moderns say, "fast."

Miss A. F.

SINCE your letter shows that you are interested in giving this invitation in the very best form, do let me suggest that the very best form is for your mother to write an informal note to the young gentleman and invite him to dine at your home. This is about the way the note would be worded:

Dear Bob:

We would be very happy if you will dine with us at our home, very informally, on Tuesday next, July the thirtieth. Will you? We dine at half after 7 o'clock, and since we have wanted to have you with us for some time, we are being very selfish and having you just with the family.

Friendliest greetings from us, and anticipations of seeing you on the thirtieth.

Cordially yours,
Mary Jones Ferrand.

An Inconsistent Plan

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have a very dear friend who is to be married in the near future and I would like to have a shower for her, but as my home is so small it is impossible to have it there. Her parents live in a large house. Would it be proper for me to have it there—her mother is willing?

READER.

IT would seem inconsistent and out of keeping with the idea that you are the hostess for you to plan to have the shower at the home of the guest of honor. Why not plan to have a smaller party and have it at your own home, or give a tea and have it in a private room of a hotel perhaps?

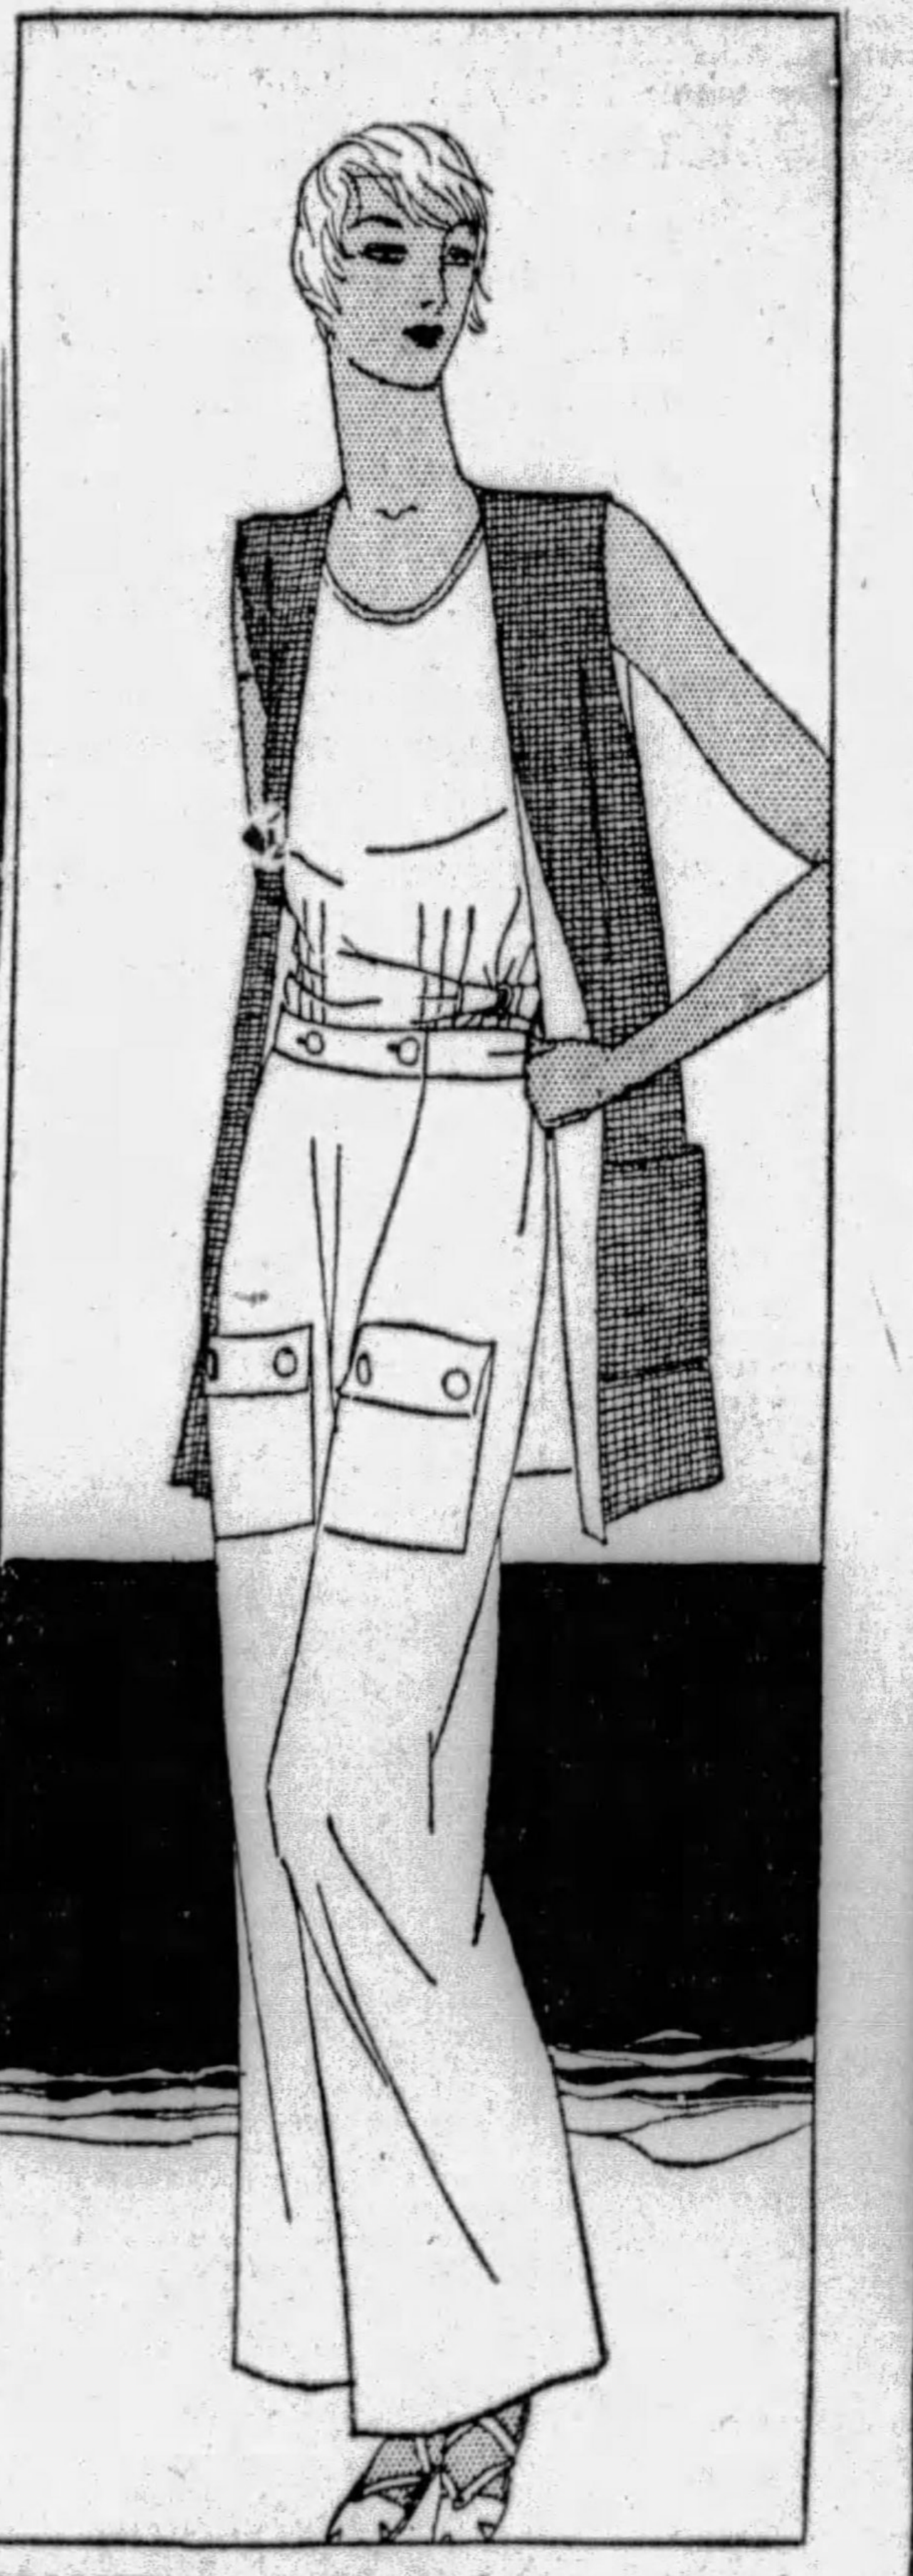
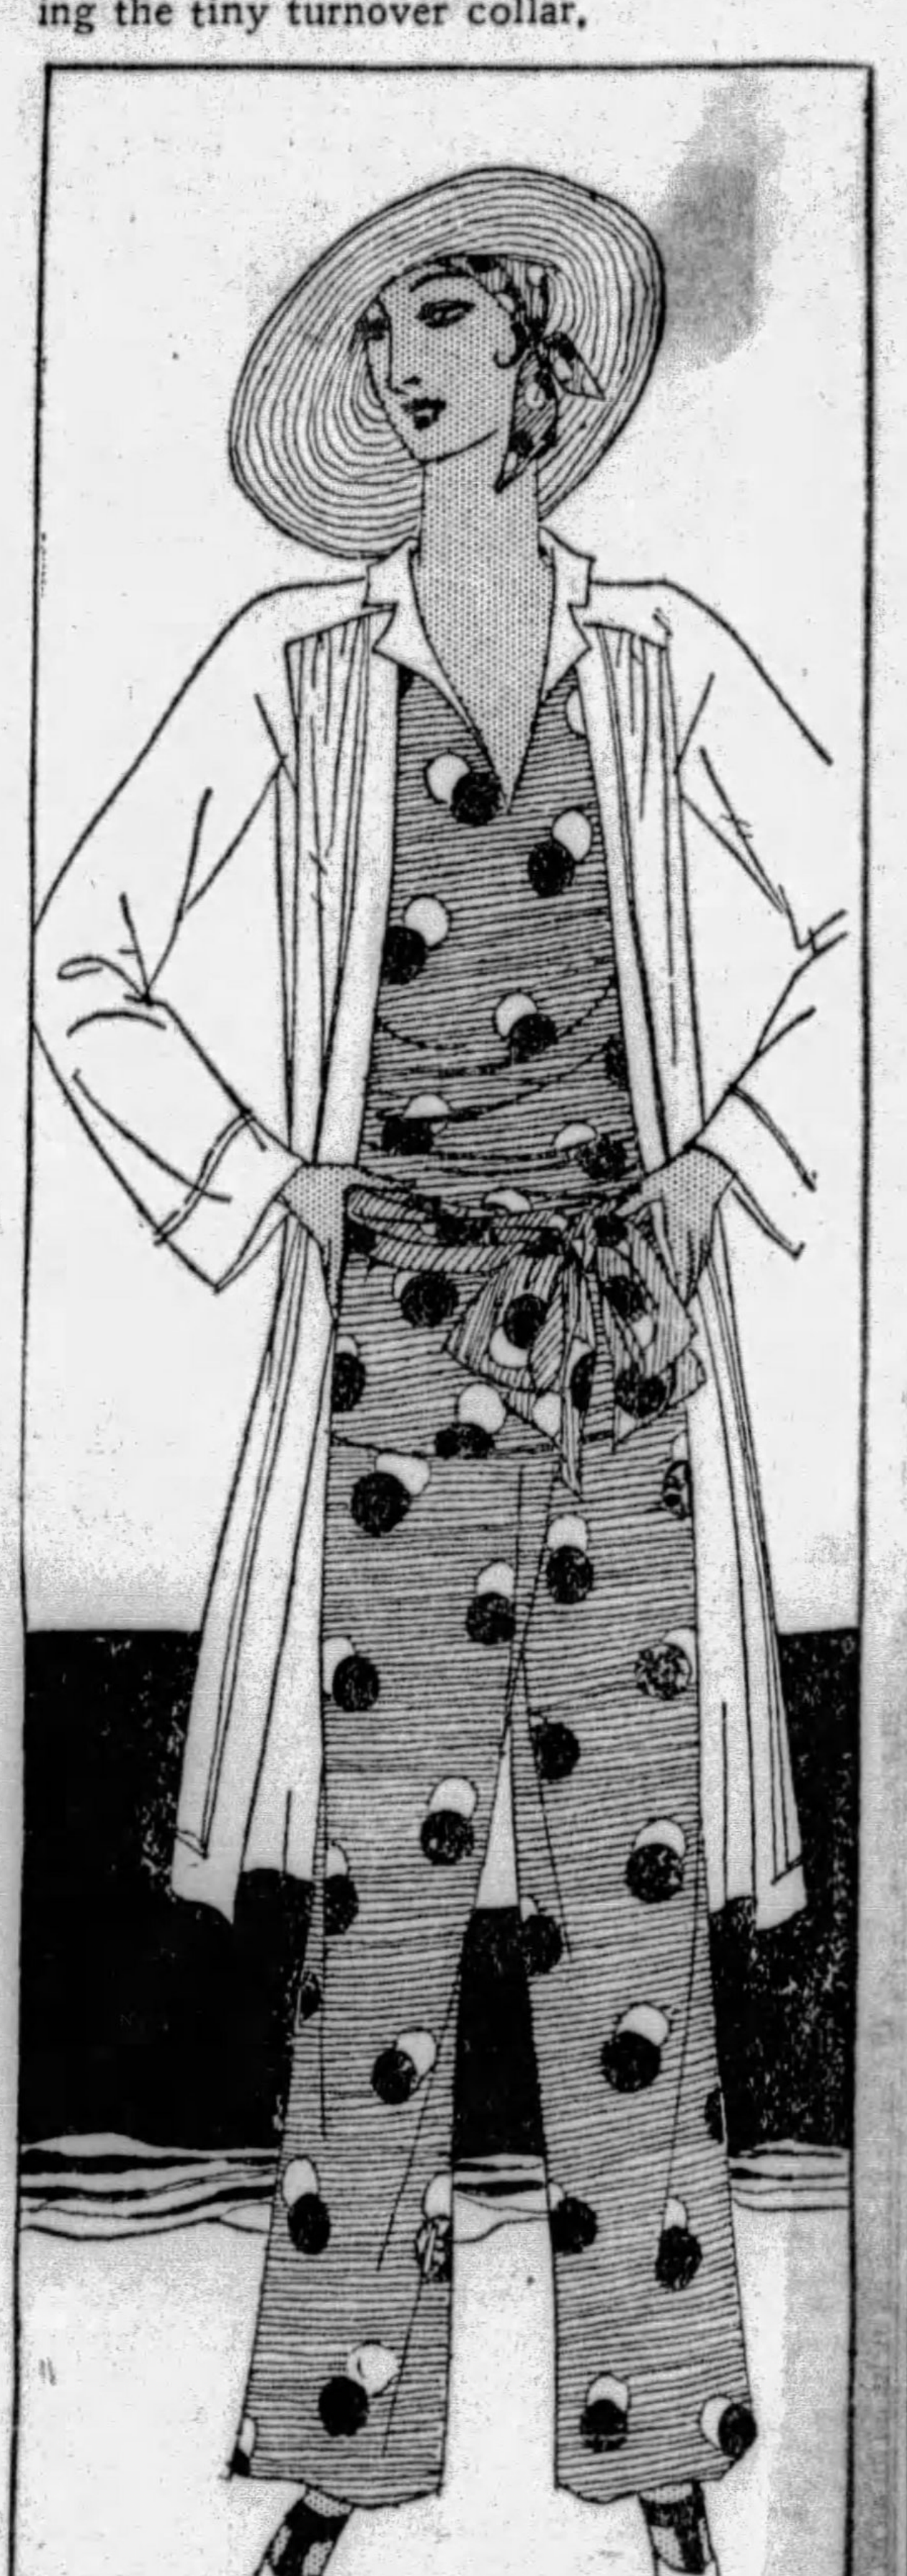
IN CREPE AND TUSSORE: BY MME. SCHIAPARELLI

Sketched at Deauville



BRIGHT tan tussore, almost orange in hue, is used in the model above. Note large patch pockets and little side straps on bodice.

DOTTED bright blue crepe makes pajamas pictured below, and white crepe makes the knee-length coat, besides furnishing the tiny turnover collar.



Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

PARIS, Sept. 6.—Mermaids in pyjamas! This really seems the only possible description of the delectable visions that are now decorating the plages from the Adriatic to the Atlantic.

If one renders proper obeisance to the great god Sun, in return one is granted a coat of genuine tan.

And what more suitable costume could there be for these solar rites than the gorgeous pyjamas, some of which, if they could be compared with Joseph's coat of many colors, would no doubt make that famous garment look like drab and dreary sackcloth!

THIS summer has seen a revival of many fabrics that have been in the discard for several seasons.

One of the most welcome of these has been that material of unbleached silk, called either shantung or tussore, delightfully cool and comfortable. Tussore has been much used for beach pajamas this year, and, with crepe, seems to be the most popular medium for beach ensembles at the moment of writing.

ONE of the most successful and prolific designers of pyjamas is Schiaparelli, and examples of her brilliant and flashing talent are much in evidence at Deauville, which place continues to maintain its popularity as a summer resort for the ultra-fashionable. So we present for scrutiny today two of the most recent and delightful pyjama suits made by Schiaparelli and sketched on the plages at Deauville.

THE model at the right is of bright blue crepe, printed with large dots in white and dark blue. White crepe makes the knee-length coat, and is used for the tiny turnover collar on the jumper.

For the second model, Schiaparelli uses bright tan tussore, in [illegible] slip [illegible] orange shade, with [illegible] amusing details [illegible] the large patch-pockets and little side straps on the bodice.

The [illegible] little sleeveless jacket of bright green [illegible] orange [illegible] also flaunting huge patch-pockets.

The sandals are of bright green [illegible] the jacket.

Horoscopes

Sunday, September 8.

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds happy auguries for things of church and the clergy, and also for those in the employment of others. Diligence, fidelity and worth may look for recognition and substantial rewards.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of advancement and recognition from employers, with substantial returns for faithful and steady effort and hard labor.

A child born on this day may be equipped for success in life through its own efforts and perseverance. He may be versatile and clever.

Religion is a spring, that from some secret golden mine derives her birth.—Henry Vaughan.

Monday, September 9.

MONDAY'S astrological operations point to intricate and perplexing problems in business matters, with intrigue and subtlety predominant. There may be many petty irritations and annoyances, although personal affiliations may bring compensations. Although these may assume sudden and spectacular phases.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of small anxieties and complications in business, but their purely personal relations will be pleasant as well as profitable. The latter may have quite unforeseen or spectacular developments.

A child born on this day may have some unique accomplishments or talents which may bring it into the limelight or into sensational publicity.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Sound, Clean Teeth Will Assist Health

A MAN may get along without hair. He may lose a foot or a hand. I venture to say, however, he wouldn't miss one of these nearly as much as he would miss his teeth if they were suddenly removed.

DR. COPELAND

It is given to most of us to lose one tooth at a time. The socket fills up and the loss is forgotten long before another tooth is extracted. What our teeth do for us, however, is so important that the loss of a single one is a real misfortune.

I never look at a portrait of George Washington without recalling how much trouble his crude dentistry caused him. Fortunately for us, the dentists have made much progress. The most important part of their work is in the way of preventive dentistry. By skillful attention to the teeth they are kept in condition to resist disease.

But if we are called upon to have all our teeth extracted, very fair substitutes are provided by the clever dentist. Certainly they are a lot better than a wig and more useful than an artificial hand.

One of the first duties resting upon you is the proper care of the mouth. What you do with your teeth and the care you take of them determine to a great extent what you are and how long you will live.

I shall assume that you make your regular visits to the dentist. It is a great mistake not to do so. A cavity which is most trifling to begin with will grow speedily into a hole that will destroy the tooth.

It is indeed true of the mouth that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Decay of a tooth can be traced back to the spoilage and fermentation of tiny particles of food. Because of the lack of care these particles remain in place for a long time in the spaces between the teeth. The soil is prepared for the action of bacteria and chemical products which will attack the structures of the teeth.

In planning the teeth Nature was very foresighted. The outside layer, known as the enamel, protects the sensitive dentine and the nerves which are capable of causing such pain.

About the best training for health given the children is the care of the teeth. The toothbrush has done much to preserve the health of the American people.

Massara Fails to Attend Big Banquet Given in Honor of Rico

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

In a hold-up of the Casa Alvarado, Capt. Courtney, of the Chicago detective force, is shot and killed by Rico, gang lieutenant. Sam Vettori, leader of the gang, fearing for his neck, berates Rico for the "gunplay." Rico promptly usurps Sam's position with the approval of the gangsters. In the uproar that follows the murder, the gangsters keep in hiding and Tony Passa, ex-choir boy, loses his nerve and leaves to inform his parish priest. He is killed on the church steps by Rico's bullets. Rico, with Vettori, Otero and others of the gang, visit Tony's home to view the body. Detective Flaherty arrives and questions Rico, who is defiant. Sam Vettori resents Rico's rise to power, but he must now bow to his wishes.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIV.

THE gang gave a banquet for Rico in one of Sam Vettori's big back rooms. The table was 15 feet long and was covered by a fine white cloth. Red, green and white streamers hung from the chandeliers and Italian and American flags were crossed at intervals along the walls. At 11 o'clock the notables began to arrive. Killer Pepi in a blue suit and a brown derby, with his woman, Blue Jay, on his arm; Joe Sansone, gunman and ex-lightweight, in a Tuxedo, followed by his shadow, Kid Bean, a Sicilian, dark as a Negro. Then Ottavio Vettori, Sam's cousin, not yet 21, already famous as a gunman and spoken of as a potential gang chief.

Then Otero, Blackie Avezzano and Bat Carillo, all with their women. They stood about stiffly, a little uncomfortable in their fine clothes, and tried to make conversation. The men, like all specialists, talked shop. Ottavio Vettori declared that the police were a bunch of bums. Killer Pepi agreed that they were. Joe Sansone said that the federal men were just as bad, only smarter and crookeder. Killer Pepi agreed that they were. Ottavio Vettori didn't agree. He said that the federal men were dumber and harder to fix. This brought on an argument.

When Sam Vettori came in the men were all shouting.

"What the hell!" said Sam, "ain't this a fine way to act at a banquet? You act like a bunch of gashouse bums. Cut the chatter."

Ottavio made a noise like a goat.

"Baa! Baa!"

Everybody laughed. Otero took out a quart bottle of whisky, drank from it and passed it to Seal Skin; she drank and passed it to Ottavio. The bottle circled the room and returned empty.

"You sure came prepared, you birds," said Sam. "Did any of you guys bring a lunch?"

"Baa! Baa!" bellowed Ottavio.

"My God, ain't that cute!" said Killer Pepi's girl.

"Hell, that ain't nothing," said Pepi, "listen." Pepi put three fingers in his mouth and blew a blast that made their eardrums ring.

"Lord," said Ottavio, "the cops! Baa! Baa!"

Three waiters came in, each carrying two quarts of whisky. They put the bottles on the table and went out.

"That's an appetizer," said Sam.

"Aperitif," Joe Sansone corrected.

Ottavio slapped him on the back.

"What's that, little Joe? What the hell lingo is that?"

Joe pushed him away.

"You dumb birds don't know nothing. Swell people don't say appetizer; they say aperitif."

"The hell they do! Well, I expect you know all about it. You used to be a bellboy at the Blackstone."

Everybody laughed. Killer Pepi blew a blast on his fingers. His girl looked at him admiringly.

"How did you ever learn to do that?"

"Aw, that ain't nothing."

"Say, Sam," said Carillo, "when do we eat?"

"When the boss gets here," said Pepi.

"Well, he better step on it because I'm so hungry I could eat dynamite," said Ottavio.

"Keep your shirt on," said Pepi.

"Haven't got an old soup sandwich in your pocket, have you?" asked Ottavio.

Everybody laughed. Ottavio was the recognized wit of the Vettori gang. All that he had to do to get a laugh was to open his mouth.

Sam Vettori took one of the quarts from the table and sent it around the room. It came back empty.

"What the hell you suppose is keeping Rico?" asked Carillo.

"Keep your shirt on," said Pepi.

"I go see," said Otero.

As he went out, the Big Boy came in. He had on a big raccoon coat and his derby was on the side of his head. Sam Vettori rushed over and shook hands with him.

"What the hell you doing here?" he demanded.

"Me, I came to see the fun. Things are looking up, Sam. Things sure to God are looking up. I think we got 'em whipped."

Sam Vettori smiled broadly and poured the Big Boy a drink. Well, well. If the Courtney business blew over he was sitting pretty. All things considered, he hadn't done so bad. Time after time he had seen old gang leaders go down before younger men. But here he was hanging on, getting a 50-50 split, and taking no chances. Rico was the goods. Damn him and all his kind, but he was the goods.

"Yeah," said the Big Boy, "you got the Old Man on the run and Flaherty's about ready to do the Dutch Act. It's gonna blow over, Sam. You heard me speak. It's gonna blow over I want to see Rico."

"He ain't showed yet," said Sam.

"Damn smart boy," said the Big Boy.

Sam smiled.

"Yeah," he said, pouring the Big Boy another drink, "damn smart kid. He's young yet, but I can show him the ropes."

The Big Boy didn't say anything. He just looked at Vettori.

Otero came running in, followed by two waiters, one of whom was carrying a big ulster and a derby; the other was carrying a woman's fur coat.

"Here he comes," cried Otero.

Kid Bean, who had collected a crowd in the middle of the room and was walking on his hands to amuse them (he had once been an acrobat), jumped hastily to his feet and backed up against the wall. The crowd followed him. Killer Pepi said:

"All right now. Everybody yell like hell when he comes in."

Rico came in slowly, talking to Blondy Belle, the swellest woman in Little Italy. She was a handsome Italian, bold and aqualine. Her complexion and eyes were dark, but her hair, naturally black, was blondined, and this gave her an incongruous and a somewhat formidable appearance.

Rico was greeted by an uproar, pierced by Killer Pepi's shrill whistle. The Big Boy went to meet Rico and shook hands with him. Sam Vettori smiled and nodded, very affable, then went out to get things started. The Big Boy said to Blondy Belle:

"Got yourself a regular man, did you?"

Blondy took hold of Rico's arm.

"Surest thing you know."

The Big Boy laughed.

"What'd you do with Little Arnie?"

Rico took out a cigar and bit off the end.

"She ditched him," he said.

The Big Boy meditated. Blondy Belle had been Little Arnie's woman for a long time. Little Arnie ran the biggest gambling joint on the North Side, but he had been slipping for a year or more. He wasn't right; nobody could trust him.

"How did Little Arnie take it?" asked the Big Boy.

"He took it standing up," said Blondy Belle.

"Well, what could he do?" said Rico.

Killer Pepi, Ottavio Vettori and Joe Sansone, as the most important men in the gang next to Sam Vettori, came over to shake hands with Rico.

"A million dollars ain't in it with you," said Pepi, looking his boss over.

Rico was wearing a loud striped suit and a purple tie. He still had on his gloves, yellow kid, of which he was very proud, and his diamond horseshoe pin had been replaced by a big ruby surrounded by little diamonds. Ottavio envied him his gloves. But Joe Sansone was not impressed; he knew better.

"Yes, sir boss, you sure are lit up," said Ottavio.

"Here's the half-pint," said Killer Pepi, pushing Joe Sansone forward.

Joe shook hands with Rico.

"Yes, sir" said Ottavio, "the half-pint's a good boy, but he and Gentleman Joe're too swell for us."

Rico looked around the room.

"Joe Massara here?"

"Ain't seen him," said Pepi.

"He won't be here," said Joe Sansone; "he's busy."

Neal Forsythe Proposes to Ann Marie While at Roadhouse Dance

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ann Marie Macy is the "easy" type of girl who is continually imposed upon. Young and pretty, she dreams of a future as an artist, saving from her earnings by painting cards and working in her father's bookstore, but, as her selfish, flapper sisters, Alice and Jeanie, borrow her dresses for their own ends, so her brother, Howard, borrows her savings. The art course plan is shelved when Ann Marie uses the money in extricating Howard from an entangling alliance with Leota Ingram, the town's bad girl. Even her mother's pendant is pawned to pay Howard's fare to the West when he loses his bank job. Neal Forsythe, dashing Don Juan, visiting the wealthy Lawlers, wins Ann Marie's heart. Mrs. Lawler forbids her son to further accompany the Macy girls, calling them "night-time friends." Alice evens accounts by getting herself engaged to John Lawler. To celebrate, Johnny, Alice, Ann Marie, Neal, Jeanie and Brookie have a party at a roadhouse.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XX.

SOME people are "tight" with their money. And some people just don't have the money to spend.

That evening at Simonds' roadhouse Ann Marie made up her mind that the reason Neal did not break his $20 bill was because he was poor. And not because he was the tightwad that Johnny said he was.

He told her just how poor he was as they danced together, weaving in and out among the packed couples on the floor.

"I live in one room at the top of an apartment house in New York," he said, his voice low and deep against her ear. "It's just a question of time when I'll be illustrating stories for the big magazines. Even if I do say it, myself, I sure can draw better than a lot of the boys who are pulling down big money—"

How absolutely romantic and thrilling, thought Ann Marie. . . . Living in one room in an attic—well, in what you might call an attic—and waiting for Big Opportunity to come knocking at the door.

"I can't give you anything but love, Ba-a-aby,

"That's the only thing I've plenty of—Baby—" sobbed the saxophones in the orchestra, while slender, high-heeled feet and large flat-heeled feet in pairs beat out the measure.

"I can't give you anything but love, Baby," said Neal, his lips moving against the soft, brown-gold hair that covered Ann Marie's right ear. "'That's the only thing I've plenty of, Baby'. . . How about it, Ann Marie?"

Ann Marie's heart turned a flip-flop in her breast. She leaned back in the man's arms and gave him a wide, soft, startled look. . . . Was he asking her to marry him? Was he telling her how poor he was and asking her to share his poverty? Or was he just spoofing her?

He was smiling down into her face as he sang. She didn't know whether he was serious or not.

They went on dancing.

Through Ann Marie's head flashed visions of love in an attic. Of bread and cheese and kisses. Of all the romantic and lovely things that girls have dreamed about since the beginning of time. . . . Of rain beating on a roof, a grate-fire in the room beneath it, and of breakfast for two laid out on a little table in front of the fire. . . Heaven on the instalment plan!

"How about it, Ann Marie?."

"I don't know what you mean," the girl breathed. "I don't know what you mean."

"Yes you do." His mouth was against her cheek. He kissed her quickly so that no one should see. "Yes, you do."

She did. She knew that he was asking her to marry him. . . . The miracle of miracles had happened!

"Oh, you know I love you," she said at last in an unsteady whisper. "You know I'd rather starve to death with you than live on—on—on chicken and mushrooms with anybody else—" And then she made herself laugh so that she would not cry. She was so happy.

"I can't give you anything but love, Baby—" wailed the saxophones.

"That's the only thing I've plenty of—Baby—"

Ann Marie opened her eyes to a cold, wet Sunday the next morning. A high wind was blowing the boughs of the sycamore tree outside her window against the pane, and the house was filled with the smell of smoke. The fire-place in the front parlor always smoked when the wind was in the north.

"I hope it won't smoke tonight," she thought, stretching herself under the blankets.

For Neal was coming to see her that night, and she wanted everything to be perfect for him.

She spent the whole morning dusting the room, snipping the dead leaves from the plants in the windows, plumping up the cushions on the couch.

At noon Alice and Jeanie came down to eat Sunday dinner in their kimonos and bedroom slippers, much to the disgust of Mrs. Leezy.

"It ain't respectable for 'em to run around the house half-dressed all day on the Sabbath," she complained bitterly to Mr. Macy. "If they was mine they wouldn't do it—and leave me to tell you so!

He shrugged his shoulders and looked more meek and helpless than usual as he got out of his easy chair and started to the table.

"What can I do about it?" he asked in his mild way. "You know they never listen to anything I say to them."

Mrs. Leezy snorted. "Haw! —I'll bet I'd be master in my own house or know the reason why!" she declared hotly. "If them girls belonged to me I bet you they'd dress theirself!"

After dinner she left the dirty dishes standing on the sink, put on her street clothes and left the house. Every now and then she rebelled—and this was her way of doing it now.

"The worst of it is that the boys are coming over for supper," Jeanie groaned, as she stood in the bay window of the Front Parlor and watched her vanish down the street. "I suppose we'll have to pitch in and do up the dishes."

"Not me," answered Alice. "I don't care if they never get done. I'm going to wash my head."

Ann Marie and Jeanie did the dishes and cleaned up the kitchen.

"I think I'll ask Neal over for supper, too," decided Ann Marie, "and make some waffles."

But that afternoon at 4 o'clock Neal telephoned her.

"I want you all to myself tonight," he said to her. "Johnny says I can have his roadster, so I'm coming over to get you. We'll go out to Simonds' and have some more of their chicken salad sandwiches, hmm?"

Ann Marie thought of his $20 bill and his cheap room in New York.

"No, I won't go there," she answered. "It's too expensive."

Ann Marie hated thick dishes herself.

But she was one of those women who want to take care of the man they love—to help him save his money and get ahead. There was really not enough of the gold-digger in her. She was too "easy."

"We-e-ell," she said slowly, "I will go to Simonds', then, on one condition—that you'll go Dutch treat."

"Pay your half of the bill?" he asked, and he didn't sound as surprised as she had thought he would be.

"Yes."

"All right—if you insist upon it," he said. "After all, you've got to know I'm no million-dollar baby some time, I suppose. See you later."

Ann Marie went down the hall to the back parlor where her father was taking his Sunday afternoon nap, with his newspaper folded across his stomach so that it rose and fell with his breathing.

She bent over him and shook him gently.

"Peter," she said, "will you let me take five dollars?—I hate to ask you for it."

He gave it to her without a word, fell back upon his pillow and began to snore again the minute his eyes were closed.

Alice was sitting in her room, manicuring her nails, when Ann Marie went upstairs.

"Come here a sec!" she called through the doorway and Ann Marie walked in.

"I couldn't help hearing what you said to Neal Forsythe over the phone just now," she said, studying the pink and polished tips of her fingers, "and I just want to tell you that you're a sap, a simp and a nit-wit!"

Ann Marie flushed.

"Why?"

"Offering to pay half the bill tonight when he takes you out to dinner!" she cried scornfully. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself!—And if he lets you do it he ought to be ashamed of himself, too! He didn't pay for a single thing last night, and that was bad enough! But to let a girl split a bill with him—And he hardly knows you, too!"

Ann Marie bit her lip.

"You don't know what you're talking about," she said, after a minute. "He knows me a lot better than you think he does. . . . You are just peeved because you're crazy about him yourself! And if he'd had money you'd have given him the chase of his life—But he didn't, so you let him alone!—Well, I don't care how poor he is! I'm going to marry him!"

Alice let out a shout of shrill laughter. "Does he know it?" she asked.

"He ought to know it!" Ann Marie came back to her. "He proposed to me last night while we were dancing—"

"Well, that was nice of him," Alice broke in. "But let me ask you this—if he can't buy you a chicken sandwich and a cup of coffee at Simonds', how is he going to support a wife?"

Ann Marie had no answer for her.

"I'll tell you how!" Alice said forcefully. "Dutch treat! That's how he's going to do it!—Just the way he's managing tonight's trip! You'll work and support yourself—and he'll support himself, maybe! Why, Johnny says he hasn't a cent to bless himself with and he won't go to work! Borrows money from Mrs. Lawler all the time!—That's why he didn't dare to bring you home that night when she bawled you and me out! He was afraid she'd be sore at him and stop lending him money to live on! That's your bridegroom for you!—That's your fifty-fifty sweetie!"

Ann Marie nodded. She knew that Alice was telling the truth. Not because Alice was truthful, but because what she said simply bore out what Neal had told her himself.

"I don't care what you say about him," she answered gently and thoughtfully. "I love him . . ." She couldn't go on. Her love was so new and so wonderful that she couldn't talk it over this way with Alice whose god was money.

"Well, be sure you can afford him!" Alice trilled out as she closed the door of her own room and began to get dressed.

CARNEGIE BUYS RUSSIAN ORE

TIFLIS, Georgia, U. S. S. R., Sept. 7.—(AP.)—The Georgian government manganese trust today signed an agreement with the Carnegie Steel Company for delivery from Chiatouri of large quantities of manganese over a period of five years. During the first year the Carnegie company will take from 60,000 to 75,000 tons of ore, and during the remaining four years 50,000 tons annually.

It was stated that the Carnegie company bought this manganese to improve Brazilian manganese which it obtains from its own mines. The Georgian government is continuing negotiations for the sale of other quantities of ore to other large American corporations.

Wisconsin Plant Sets Output Record

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—During August the Wisconsin Division of the Inland Steel Company established a new output record, according to E. G. Jones, general manager. The Milwaukee mill producing sheet steel turned out 7,142 tons during the month, comparing with the previous high figure of 7,056 tons.

Prospects are that we will continue at capacity production the balance of the year, Mr. Jones said.

LONE STAR GAS LIFTS HIGH RECORD

Stock Continues in Urgent Demand; Blaw-Knok Sells Up Near Its Previous Top

Lone Star Gas continued to dominate the trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, attaining a new high record price at the opening of business.

Trading in Lone Star was again on a heavy scale, equaling yesterday's pace, when more than 7,000 shares changed hands. The initial sale at 52 was an overnight gain of 1½ points. The figure attracted a little profit-taking, which carried the quotation down slightly in the subsequent dealings, but this decline was retrieved later. Arkansas Gas also displayed a firm tone, but remained inconspicuous as the Lone Star trading held the center of the stage.

Blaw Knox was the strong member of the industrial section, moving up sharply on a strong demand induced by reports of further expansion plans and larger earnings for the second half of the year. Above 60, the stock was within striking distance of the high record established in the trading last week.

In other quarters the list was steady and quiet. Dealings were generally of the odd-lot variety, with fluctuations being confined to fractions.

Britain Is Discouraging Buying of U. S. Bonds

By B. C. FORBES

THE attitude of British financiers, businessmen, publishers and other influential leaders is reflected by this fact:

Little space is devoted by the newspapers to American securities, notwithstanding that the holdings by Britons have increased tremendously since the war and especially in the last few years.

WHEN I mentioned the paucity of American stock market news and quotations during a little lunch given me in London there was at first an awkward silence.

Then an American occupying a high position in London for his American company confided:

"Yes, it no doubt strikes you as strange. But the feeling over here is that it is policy not to boom American securities. Our markets here have suffered quite a bit from the sending of money from this country to your market, so it is not considered good business here to do anything avoidable to stir up further interest in American stocks.

"Those of us who try to keep in fairly close touch with America are well aware of the enormous amount of money that has been made in American stocks—and some of us have been fortunate enough to get some of the profits. Only occasionally, however, are articles published in British papers drawing attention to the record made by many American companies."

A WELL-READ Englishman filling a very responsible position expressed cordial approval of the policy of the British papers. He pointed out that Britain has had no adequate excess of capital since the war and that home developments had often been discharged by the difficulties in attracting capital.

I FOUND a very general tendency to ridicule the long-sustained advance in American shares and to describe the whole movement as a colossal bunco game, engineered by scheming capitalists for the ulterior purpose of fleecing the public who had been induced to rush in and pay fantastic prices for many stocks. "A Yankee trick" was a term popularly used.

WHILE I was in Britain an article written by one of Britain's foremost publishers under some such heading as "Shall Wall Street Gobble Up Britain?" was extensively advertised.

Britain's ruling class is aroused as never before by the gigantic strides the United States has made in world finance and in world industry. Recent attempts to prohibit the acquisition of British shares by Americans reflect the prevailing state of mind in Britain—as well as in most parts of Europe. Our colossal wealth, as well as the spectacular activities of our financial and industrial magnates, are often referred to sneeringly. Our wealth is called "vulgar." Some of the coups achieved by Americans in the way of acquiring control of foreign enterprises are criticized as being prompted by an ignoble desire to take advantage of peoples who are temporarily down.

ON the other hand, one does occasionally meet a Briton broad-gauged enough to analyze fairly what is happening and to see that the advent of American capital is calculated to bring genuine benefits. It is recognized that, if American managers succeed in introducing improved manufacturing, distributing, advertising and other methods, the effect upon home management will be gracing and that the ultimate effect will be helpful all round.

EVERYWHERE in Europe one encounters the severest criticisms of America's tariff actions. "You demand that we pay you millions and millions that we spent in fighting a war that was as much your war as ours, but you do everything you can think of to make it impossible for us to pay you," is the gist of Europe's complaint and contention.

ANOTHER point. The deeply-rooted conviction in Europe is that all existing debt and reparation plans will collapse long before they have been fulfilled. Notwithstanding the concessions made by this country, it is extremely rare to hear one expression even remotely savoring of gratitude. "We have been impoverished, you have been made rich" is the common plaint.

WHATEVER Europe can do to form cartels or other combinations to checkmate the "American invasion" will be done. You can depend upon that.

It is well for all of us that America possesses the business brains she does possess.

Ford Co. Sales for August at Peak

DETROIT, Sept. 7.—A new high peak for August domestic sales was reached during the last month by the Ford Motor Company. A total domestic sales figure of 165,547 Ford cars and trucks topped all previous August records.

Coupled with record sales during July, the Ford Motor Company announces a total of 336,523 Ford cars and trucks sold in the United States in the last two-month period.

This is the largest total of sales for the corresponding two months period in the history of the company. Indications at present prospect for September indicate another record breaking month.

Leaders Say Gas Law Is Imperative

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7.—California's conservation law is constitutional and its enforcement not only feasible and logical but imperative if the state's natural resources are to be conserved for public welfare, state officials, their legal advisors and executives of the industry agreed, in brief discussion of gas conservation following manufacturers and industries committee luncheon at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Du Ponts Extend Ammonia Interests

WILMINGTON, Sept. 7.—E. I. Du Pone de Nemours 100 per cent-owned Subsidiary-National Ammonia Company has acquired the Pacific Ammonia and Chemical Company. Business of both companies will be conducted under the name National Ammonia Company. Pacific Ammonia is the largest manufacturer of anhydrous ammonia on the West Coast, while National Ammonia occupies the same position in the territory east of the Rocky Mountains.

Foreign Exchange Market Is Quiet

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Trading in the two hours of business was extremely quiet with irregular changes. Sterling was in large supply, but was quoted 1-16 higher for cables. French and Italian both shaded off slightly while further gains were made on Switzerland and Holland. Far Easterns showed a better tone. Uruguay, which was a weak feature in the South American group in the past few days, rallied ¼ per cent. Canada yielded 1-16 to 99.37.

Weather Conditions.

There was little change in temperature east of the Mississippi, and, while it is still cold in the Canadian Northwest, North Dakota, Montana and Wyoming, the temperatures are moderating. Light to generous rains occurred at many places throughout the country, and it is raining this morning over a considerable portion of the Plains states. At New Orleans 10.74 inches fell yesterday afternoon and last night, and it is raining there this morning. While the barometer is rising slowly over that section, thunderstorm conditions still prevail and there is a probability of rain this afternoon. The western high is centered over South Dakota and covers most of the plains, the Rocky Mountains and the Canadian Northwest.

River Conditions.

The rivers are still stationary. Generous rains occurred over the upper Allegheny and over the Beaver River. Stage at Pittsburgh, 9.6; Dam No. 2, 8.4; Dam No. 6, 7.5; Dam No. 9, 7.8, and Dam No. 12, 3.1. The dams are up.

Interest Evinced by Drop In Reserve Credit Since Rate Rise.

SHORT but a few days, it is now a month since the Federal Reserve Bank of New York raised its rediscount rate from 5 to 6 per cent and lowered its buying rate on open market bills by ⅛ of 1 per cent. In the meantime, it is interesting to note that the total of reserve credit outstanding in the New York district has been cut from $454,778,000 on August 7 to $442,628,000 as of last Wednesday. True, the bank has bought bills, but the increase of $66,054,000 in such holdings has been more than offset by reduction of more than $7,000,000 in holdings of government securities and of $80,598,000 in rediscounts. In the same interval the statement covering operations of the 12 regional banks shows the total of reserve credit outstanding increased by $82,584,000, which would appear to indicate that credit is being released liberally only where needed for other than speculative purposes.

Wall Street looked upon the terms announced by the Treasury Department on its new refunding short term notes as taking the form of something of an experiment. So far as the 4⅞ per cent rate was concerned it fitted in with expectations, but the tax exemption feature was a kind of surprise element. It was this feature that was looked upon as making the new issue more or less experimental in character, the point being made that wealthy individuals heretofore have not been interested greatly in government short term certificates. The tax exemption ruling, it was assumed, was intended to stimulate demand, and response thus far it is indicated has justified the move.

A WEAKENED interior structure, rather than anything disturbing in the way of news, was ascribed by the rank and file of the Street's observers as having paved the way for the sharp break that overtook the market Thursday. This contention was strongly supported by the vigor with which the general run of speculative leaders came back in the course of yesterday's session. Since the beginning of the year the market has experienced eight or 10 sudden reactions such as swept over the list Thursday, several of them just as drastic, but has come back in a manner to establish the leaders in new record territory. Three solid weeks of advance which had carried many stocks up 20 to 70 points, called for some measure of correction, and for that reason the slump was regarded as a health-giving tonic.

So far as the bearish prophecy put forth by the head of a prominent statistical agency was concerned, few in Wall Street were disposed to accredit much of the selling that forced prices down to nervousness on that score. Comment on the dire forecast varied little, no matter where one went, generally taking the form of the assertion, "Oh, well, one can't help but be right ultimately if he keeps talking along the same line long enough." So far as any reaction of the proportions called for in the survey is concerned, Wall Street realizes that it will come some day, but as usual probably when least expected.

AMERICAN SMELTING has been in favor in many quarters for some time and at least one large commission house has been daily giving this stock preference over Anaconda. Recent buying was impressive at times and resulted in attracting a substantial outside following. Improvement in the copper metal market would naturally be of vast benefit to Smelting, and there now are definite signs that copper producers will get the metal higher.

Banking interests identified ith Safeway Stores are credited with having been leading buyers of the stock during the past week. It has been estimated the company will earn between $10 and $12 a share this year, with $15 possible in 1930 in view of plans for expansion. There has been some talk of closer relations with some large food product combination as well as rumors of expansion in Canada, but these lack confirmation.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

FALL SPURT IN FLAT GLASS EXPECTED

Mixed Tendencies Seen In Industry; Outlook Brightens for Plate

Window glass manufacturers and distributors alike welcome the advent of September, as it is the month when real buying in that branch of the flat glass industry is expected to begin, according to the National Glass Budget.

QUIET SUMMER

The summer months have been rather quiet with production in the early months running somewhat ahead of consumption, but gradually changing until the present time when demand is equal to or leading production. And if the experience of past years is to be repeated, there should be a healthy increase in consumption over the amount produced from now on to the first of the year.

As there is little prospect for any increase in the amount of this product manufactured, it follows that the increased demand will have to come from stock already in the hands of manufacturers and jobbers; consequently a reduction in stocks of window glass now held is expected. Stocks in the hands of jobbers are believed to be near normal. That places the bulk of the present stock in manufacturers warehouses.

SHIPPING PROBLEM

This would seem to indicate that jobbers may continue to buy as they need glass on the assumption that an order placed at any given time can be immediately filled and they be relieved of keeping a complete assortment of stock on hand. This line of reasoning might be a safe one to follow if orders are confined to the smaller sizes and poorer grades of glass, but it is a very dangerous one if orders run into a large, or even a fair proportion of the more popular brackets. It must be remembered that stocks of glass in manufacturers' hands, as usually interpreted, means all they have—good, bad and indifferent. This being true, the alert jobber will not, at this season of the year, take a chance on immediate shipments, but will anticipate his requirements and round out his stock so as to be ready for an emergency demand and not at the mercy of uncertain shipping conditions. There is little doubt but that the jobber who follows any other course is facing trouble.

PLATE GLASS TRADE

Plate glass in its various distributing phases—jobbing, mirror and automobile—may be reported good, with the manufacturing trend showing no change. It is reported that the new car models are striking the popular fancy of the buying public which, if true, means a larger demand for cars and a corresponding increased use for plate glass. The situation as it exists is satisfactory and the prospects good.

In the wired and rough rolled branch, conditions cannot be reported as satisfactory. The situation as outlined a week ago, has changed but little, if any, since. It is hoped, however, that the picture may soon change and distributing conditions take on a more favorable aspect. Such a change is greatly needed as stocks of this kind of glass are above normal and require stabilizing influences rather than disquieting ones to dispose of them at a satisfactory margin of profit.

Water Shortage May Close Ohio Mill

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 7.—A possibility that some departments of Mahoning Valley steel mills may have to suspend operations, due to lack of water, is seen here by manufacturers.

Youngstown district had gone 14 days without rainfall and a lowering of the Mahoning River, on which hot mills of the district depend, is making cooling operations in mills difficult.

A reservoir in Mahoning River existing for such shortages has already been drained of more than half of its water supply. Sheet mill operations will be hardest hit should drought continue.

RICHFIELD GETS NEW WELL

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7.—On Kern Front the Richfield Oil Company has just completed its thirteenth consecutive successful well, bringing in its Kern No. 9 for 300 barrels from 2,128 feet. Kern No. 11 is pouring foundation; No. 14 is building derrick, and No. 16 is rigging up.

At Huntington Beach the Paige No. 1 is rigging up and the Deltergolay No. 1 is cementing casing at 3,513 feet.

At Santa Fe Springs the Howard No. 1 is rigging up cement casing at 6,412 with bottom at 7,973 feet. [illegible]ke No. [illegible] is drilling at 7,110 feet, Howard No. 2 at 6,386 feet, Howard No. 5 at 6,375 feet, Mayberry No. 1 at 4,040 feet, Wardman No. 1 at 6,371 feet and Wardman No. 2 at 3,912 feet.

Heavy Construction Projects Decrease

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—The value of heavy construction projects announced in the past week totaled $42,895,000, a decrease of $70,963,000 over the previous week, says the McGraw-Hill Construction Daily. The decline does not reflect a change in the general trend, which is virtually the same as for the corresponding period last year, asserts the publication.

DEFENSE GIVEN TO CRITICS OF CHAIN STORE

Movement to Cities and Resentment at Prices Cause of Rapid Growth

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The chain store idea continues to sweep through the country, as chains increase their sales more rapidly than independent organizations.

As Americans raise their living standards and take on additional luxuries, they seem inclined to watch their outlays for necessities, and rebel against unwarrantably high prices.

Robert W. Lyons, executive secretary, National Chain Store Association, ascribes the rapid multiplication of chain systems in the retail field to four underlying economic factors.

CAUSE OF GROWTH

In referring to these conditions, Mr. Lyons says:

"First, the movement of our people from the country to the cities with the consequent concentration of sales areas, making possible the efficient maintenance of central distributing warehouses and a new application of the science of merchandise turnover.

"Second, the facilitation of the cash and carry mechanism by the introduction of the automobile.

"Third, public recognition of and resentment at the steadily rising costs of the necessities of life during a period when manufacturers were fabricating more cheaply than at any time in the history of the world.

"Fourth, instalment buying with its upward revision of the standards of living through wider distribution of the luxuries, and the consequent necessity for more careful budgeting of family expenses in the field of necessities."

OBJECTIONS TO CHAINS

The rise of the chains has naturally raised a storm of protest among small and inefficient merchants which have been crowded out. Much of the complaint, which has been echoed in legislative halls, is emotional in character. Mr. Lyons summarizes the objections which have been raised as follows:

"That if the chain system is to continue it will wreck countless businesses which are unable to readjust themselves to the new order.

"That the chain stores are drying up the springs of opportunity for the young men of our land.

"That the chain stores are paying starvation wages.

"That the chain stores pay less taxes than their similarly situated competitors.

"That the chain stores are not 'community minded.'

"That the chain store growth implies a not far distant monopoly.

"That the chain store is mechanizing and depersonalizing our civilization."

As a matter of fact, the real conflict is less between little business than between efficiently managed enterprises and inefficiently managed concerns.

STORE REQUIREMENTS

Mr. Lyons, writing in Food Chain Store Merchandising, stresses the subjoined seven factors which he says account for the success of both chain stores and affluent independent merchants:

"A retail store must be well located—must have ready access to consumers.

"The store must be attractive in its exterior and interior design and must constitute a happy trading place for its customers.

"It must maintain a steady supply of adequate stocks of good and saleable merchandise.

"The factor of service must be carefully weighed and measured in relation to the needs and demands of customers and the requirements of competition.

"The relations of employes to consumers must be carefully studied and intelligently disciplined and developed.

"Good management, which suggests the proper correlation and direction of every department of the business, must be present.

"Prices must be reasonable."

Mr. Lyons feels that the key to chain store success is explained in the words, standardize, simplify and economize.

Cotton Carryover For July Lower

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Department of Agriculture today reported that the total carryover of cotton on July 31 was 2,313,000 bales. The report shows a total of 2,123,700 bales of American Egyptian cotton and a total of 182,100 bales foreign grown.

The total carryover reported in 1928 was 2,531,582 bales, 2,415,208 bales of this being American upland. American Egyptian cotton was 5,905, the total foreign grown being 110,469.

National Standard Income Improved

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—National Standard Company earnings after all charges including taxes, depreciation, etc., for the 10 months ended July 31, 1929, were $600,046. This compares with earnings for the same period a year ago of $436,900. So far this year the company is showing an increase of 37.34 per cent.

Big Third Quarter for Screw and Bolt

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

RECORD profits are expected for the third quarter of this year by the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Corporation. Operations are at 80 per cent of capacity. This rate is rarely exceeded since it is practically impossible for demand to be at full capacity for all types of the company's products.

In the first half of 1929 net profit after all charges was $1,668,476 or $1.11 a share on the 1,500,000 shares of stock. Third quarter earnings will be at a higher rate than this and orders now on the books indicate a good volume through the end of the year so that the last half may be substantially better than the first six months.

Earnings for the entire year are expected to be considerably in excess of $2.25 a share. A good volume of business, together with the economies resulting from the consolidation of Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt with Colona Manufacturing Company and Graham Nut and Bolt last March, has been responsible for this year's expansion in profits.

Previous Years Beaten

THE current year's profits will greatly exceed the combined results of the three individual companies in the past. In 1928 profits were $2,270,134 or $1.51 a share on the basis of the present capitalization. This compared with $1.56 a share in 1927 and with $1.70 a share in 1926.

The present dividend rate of $1.40 annually is being earned with a good margin. An entire year's dividends have been earned in the portion of 1929 already passed.

Some of the economies due to the consolidation will not be fully shown in profits until next year. The original Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt plant on the North Side and the Graham plant on Neville Island are adapted to the production of slightly different types of products so that savings in costs are being made possible by the concentration of certain operations at one or another of these plants.

Dick's Propeller

THE tests on the Dick's aeronautical propeller are still being made. Production is now small. The output of this new product will be gradually expanded toward the end of the year. It is expected that an output of commercial proportions will be attained early in 1930.

The product represents a revolutionary change in the design of aircraft propellers. It is made of pressed steel, welded in such a manner that exceptional strength is claimed to be obtainable with a large saving in weight.

Colona Manufacturing

THE pipe industry has been working at a fairly high rate during most of this year so that the Colona Manufacturing Company, one of Screw and Bolt's recently acquired subsidiaries, has enjoyed a good volume of business. This company makes thread protectors which are used to prevent damage to the ends of pipe during shipment.

The Colona plant is located at Monaca, Pa. Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt also has plants at Gary, Ind., and at Chicago, Ill.

The organization's customers are engaged in a wide range of activities so that unsettlement in a single industry cannot seriously disturb Screw and Bolt's earnings. The customers include railways, steel companies, public utilities, shipbuilders and structural steel companies.

Financial Position Improved

WORKING capital was materially increased during the first half of this year. Notes amounting to $670,000 were paid off. Current assets increased from $8,463,989 on December 31, 1928, to $10,265,210 on June 30. Current liabilities dropped from $1,973,829 to $1,190,150.

At the beginning of the year cash and loans on call totaled $2,168,071. By June 30 cash was increased to $3,637,057.

The only funded debt consists of $3,993,000 of 5½ per cent debentures due in 1947. This is against physical properties valued at $9,061,370 after depreciation.

Club Aluminum Co. Earns Cent a Share

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Club Aluminum Utensil Company and subsidiaries report net income of $3,184, equal to one cent a share on 271,240 shares of no-par capital stock, for the year ended June 30, as compared with $853,530, or $3.14 a share, in the preceding fiscal year.

William Burnette, president, states that the cooking utensil department earned $181,295 last year, before federal taxes, but this was offset by experiments and developments in new lines of merchandise. He was confident that during the current year satisfactory earnings would be shown by the three divisions.

Chicago Tool Net Shows Improvement

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Net profit of Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company, for seven months ended July 31, 1929, was $818,710, after depreciation, Federal taxes, etc., equivalent after allowance for dividend requirements on the $3.50 preference stock, to $2.18 a share on 199,469 no-par shares of common stock. This compares with net profit in corresponding period of 1928 of $455,090 which computed on present share basis is equal to 36 cents a share on the common.

Traylor Predicts 'Money Squeeze'

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank, states that everything points to a money squeeze between now and October 1, when the peak of the fall demand should be reached. Mr. Traylor says the fall demand for money, which ordinarily does not come until about October 15, will be reached much sooner this year, pointing out that the cotton crop is moving ahead of its schedule.

Shubert in Pact With Pathe Firm

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Negotiations are underway between Shubert Theaters Corporation and Pathe Exchange, Inc., for a working agreement by which Pathe will aid financing of certain Shubert productions and will receive in return moving picture rights and outlet for production in a chain of 150 Shubert theaters.

California Mining Valuation Lower

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—State Division of Mines reports California 1928 mining output worth $332,224,233 against $366,781,394 in 1927. The report also shows petroleum decreased in value $30,736,818 although production increased from 231,195,774 barrels to 231,811,465 barrels. Natural gas production increased from 224,686,940,000 cubic feet worth $20,447,294 to 260,887,116,000 cubic feet worth $22,260,947.

Tarafa Says Sugar Prices are Ruinous

HAVANA, Sept. 7.—Colonel Jose M. Tarafa, member of the Cuban export sales Commission, declared that the executive committee considers the present prices for sugar ruinous, and it will not sell sugar until prices reach remunerative basis. There will be no dumping so that any markets will be flooded, he continued. For the present the committee will demand the differential existing with the United States.

More Ice Cream Eaten In 1928

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Ice cream consumption in the United States broke all records last year, according to the Department of Agriculture.

Total consumption in 1928 is estimated at 348,048,000 gallons, compared with 335,628,000 gallons in 1927. Estimate is based on reports from 2,258 ice cream factories. Increase last year was distributed through all seasons, but was largest in the last six months of the year. In the first quarter of 1928 consumption was 4.3 per cent greater than in the first quarter of 1927; in the second quarter it was 1.3 per cent greater, in the third quarter 7.2 per cent greater, and in the fourth quarter 4.4 per cent larger than in the corresponding quarter the year previous.

The per capita consumption, it is estimated, was 2.90 gallons in 1928, as compared with 2.85 gallons in 1927, and 2.77 gallons in 1926. Per capita consumption in 1919 was estimated at 2.49 gallons and in 1910 at 1.04 gallons.

STEEL BUYING RECESSIONS SLIGHT

General Downward Trend In Seasonal Production Expected to Be Small

By B. E. V. LUTY

It is too early for the autumn pace of the steel trade as a whole to be observed. The question is whether the vacation period had much influence in curtailing or postponing steel buying. Vacationing was, as usual, most pronounced toward the close of the period, which came to an end only last Tuesday morning.

Judged by the rate of buying of the last few weeks, the steel industry would now be in line for a considerable decrease in production. Judged by such conditions as can be observed in steel consuming lines it is marked for only a slight and gradual recession and these conditions might possibly be offset by fresh demand arising from sources that cannot now be scrutinized.

PRODUCTION DOWN

September opened with the rate of steel ingot production no more than about 10 per cent under the all-time peak rate of last May. The probability is that the general trend will be slightly downward to the end of the year, with the possibility of a slight bulge in October. A total decrease of 18 per cent from May to December would put the December rate equal to that of last December, when conditions were considered very good. Unless a very poor year is coming, steel production always increases from December to January.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce puts total production of cars and trucks, United States and Canada, at 516,522, against 517,792 officially reported for July. Regularly the preliminary statement has fallen short of the official total compiled after the middle of the month and assuming the same variation this time there was a slight increase in August, which is in accordance with seasonal precedent, computed by averaging the last five years. The same figures call for a slight decrease in September and that is altogether likely to occur. These are fine points, however, for the records show on an average very little variation in the four months July to October inclusive, November and December regularly having sharp decreases.

AUTO OUTPUT HIGHER

In the first six months of the year production was 46 per cent over a year previous and one-third over what would be expected on the basis of last year's total production with allowance for an increase at the average rate of the last five years. Each month of the six followed average seasonal variation with remarkable fidelity. Since then there has been slightly more than the average seasonal decrease, despite the fact that Ford production has increased. Thus in the matter of automobile steel demand there are three points, the usual seasonal decrease, the slight extra decrease, and the decline in average weight of car to be supplied with steel. In the first half of the year the automobile industry accounted for about 23 per cent of all the steel made and thus there is a material change indicated as to total steel demand. The sheet industry, however, appears to have made up part of its loss for sheet production in the last two months has been heavier than would be expected in view of the automobile situation.

RAIL PRODUCTION OFF

Other decreases in steel requirements are familiar. Rail production has undergone a further and more marked seasonal decrease, with the usual prospect of increasing production in the late weeks of the year as the annual rail buying movement should begin within a month. Agricultural implement works are running at slightly lower rates than in the first half of the year. Freight car shops are now very near the end of their large orders.

Against the decreases enumerated, there is an increase in lap weld operations at pipe mills, from under 50 per cent last May to about 80 per cent at the present time. Line pipe business going to pipe mills began to increase in June and there has been a rather steady flow since, with quite a substantial volume in the last fortnight. There have been a few larger lines, with many small main lines and numerous feeder and branch lines, chiefly for natural gas. Butt weld operations at pipe mills have averaged about 60 per cent for months, involving standard or merchant pipe chiefly.

PIPE LINE PROJECTS

Two natural gas lines Texas to Chicago, are in project, 22 or 24-inch, nearly a thousand miles. Neither is likely to come to a head this year and the parties may have to combine forces, as two lines are out of the question. One is the Empire, Cities Service, or Doherty line, the other being the Central States. Over a month ago there was an erroneous report that the latter line went into details, that 191,000 tons, costing $18,000,000, was involved, the length being 950 miles.

In all finished steel products prompt deliveries have lately been obtainable. The steel business is back to its familiar condition in that respect. For six years, until early this year, prompt deliveries were almost always obtainable in all lines, and hand-to-mouth buying is naturally the rule again.

Finished steel prices are steady all along the line but, of course, are not buoyant. No difficulty would be experienced by consumers in placing contracts for delivery over the last quarter of the year at current prices.

On the basis of Iron Age reports for the first eight months the year's total production of pig iron and ferro alloys may be compared as unlikely to be below 42,000,000 tons or above 44,000,000 tons. A new record is thus assured, and that has become unusual in pig iron, there having been only two record years since 1913, these being 1916 and 1923. In 19 years through 1913 there were only five that were not record. Pig iron has not grown like steel because wrought iron manufacture has decreased, castings are approximately stationary and more scrap is used through the swing from Bessemer to open-hearth. At 43,000,000 tons this year would be 7 per cent over 1923.

Great Western August Net At Record

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Earnings of Chicago Great Western Railroad for August are estimated by an official to have been the largest for any August in history of the road. In August, last year, gross revenues were $2,259,400, and net railway operating income $456,476.

Largest gross for August in the last six years was in 1927, when company reported revenues of $2,310,018. Largest August net railway operating income in the same period was in 1925, when $517,339 was reported.

PAIGE TO OPEN CANADA SHOP

DETROIT, Sept. 7.—Establishment of a Canadian Graham Paige plant in the near future was announced by Russell Valpey, general sales manager of Graham Paige Motors Corporation, at a convention of Graham Paige Canadian dealers in Toronto.

"Ontario registrations," stated Mr. Valpey, "of Graham Paige cars for the first seven months of the current year showed an increase for all makes in that province of approximately 15 per cent."

Further indication of the expansion of Graham Paige facilities is contained in announcement today of the opening of a factory branch at El Paso, Tex. A. L. Pierce has been named vice president in charge of Mexican sales in the state of Chihuahua and Harry B. Lang, vice president and general manager.

GENERAL TRADE QUIET HERE

The holiday and unusually warm weather for this season of the year have tended to retard the movement of fall merchandise, both at wholesale and retail, according to R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Trade Review. The opening of school, however, has stimulated the sales of children's wearing apparel to some extent. Jobbers of dry goods, men's and women's wearing apparel and shoes report sales rather quiet, although business as a whole appears to have averaged better than a year ago. The jewelry trade shows slightly more activity, with a volume somewhat ahead of a year ago. Lumber and building material lines continue to be quieter than last year. Business with jobbers of groceries and provisions continues to be somewhat slow.

There has been comparatively little change in the rate of industrial operations, which are being maintained at a comparatively high rate, with steel mills operating much higher than a year ago. The production of window glass has been at a very low rate and not much improvement in the rate of operation is expected this month, although demand is showing improvement.

The plate glass plants continue to operate at a rate considerably above the seasonal average, with demand holding up exceptionally well. Manufacturers of electrical and radio equipment continue to operate at a very fair rate, and with the active season in radio equipment approaching, the prospects in that line are looked upon as excellent. There has been a slight reduction in the output of crude oil, with prices showing but little change.

A slight increase in production of bituminous coal was reported last week, but demand from industrial sources continues slow, although domestic sizes are showing a little more activity. Prices show a little change, with Western Pennsylvania grades of run-of-mine coal quoted as follows per net ton at mines: Steam coal, $1.25 to $1.75; coking coal, $1.50 to $1.75; gas coal, $1.65 to $1.75; steam slack, 80 cents to 90 cents, and gas slack, $1 to $1.10.

There has been no particular improvement in collections, which jobbers report averaging slow.

MORE FICTION ON BUSH RESIGNATION

WHEN there is nothing savoring of the sensational behind a sudden shift at the head of a baseball club, such as the recent resignation of Donie Bush as manager of the Pirates, some of the busybodies and street gossipers from whose wild stories the game is never free, may be depended upon to invent a series of startling reasons for the change. It was to have been expected that the mere announcement that Bush had resigned would prove entirely too tame for the sensation seekers, and that, rather than submit to a situation so disappointingly commonplace that it left them nothing to talk about, they would proceed to manufacture a few tales for immediate and general circulation.

Fred Fussel

A New York newspaper publishes the latest yarn to have its source in Pittsburgh. It is to the effect that Bush resigned in disgust because the club owners "remitted a fine imposed on Pitcher Fred Fussell for violating the rules of discipline, and reinstated him," and because he was ordered by the same officials to "reinstate Paul Waner in the lineup after he had benched that player for inferior work."

OF COURSE, it's all poppycock. In the first place, Fussell was neither fined nor suspended, so that there could not have been any remittance or reinstatement. He was merely sent home to Pittsburgh from the East by Bush because he was suspected of being responsible for an incident that occurred on the seaboard trip. When it could not be proved that Fussell was guilty he was naturally sent East again to rejoin the club.

The Waner story is even more ridiculous. When Bush, lifted Paul out of the lineup temporarily, the move met with the approval not only of the club owners, but also of Waner himself, who said publicly that he welcomed the set-down because he felt that it was good for the team and that a rest would help him to get back into his stride.

FROM another fiction-dispensing source comes the absurd story that Bush and Pitcher Burleigh Grimes "were at loggerheads and could not get along together."

That this rumor is absolutely without foundation is shown by the wonderful pitching that Grimes did for Bush in 1928 and 1929, and by the fact that Donie never tired of praising Burleigh as the greatest pitcher he had ever seen and one of the hardest workers in baseball.

Burleigh Grimes

FAR from having any differences with the outgoing manager, Grimes was the loudest in expressing his regrets at Bush's departure, and gloomily told his intimates here that he was being separated from one of the best friends he ever had in baseball. The above are just samples of the bunk that has been going the rounds since Bush's withdrawal from his local post. More fake stories are concocted and circulated in connection with the diamond pastime than with any other sport or business on the globe.

FREQUENTLY it hppens that a minor league player who stands out with a record that appears to qualify him for purchase and trial by a major league outfit, proves to be an athlete who has been up before but failed to stick. He looks great on paper in the minors, yet it would be only a waste of time and money to bring him up to the big show.

Pacific Coast League averages present a case in point. They show Boone, of the Missions, to be leading the league in batting with the lofty mark of .395. Very impressive on the surface, and enough ordinarily to start the big league magnates bidding for the slugger's services, but the hefty average doesn't stand for so much when it is learned that the man who holds it is none other than Ike Boone, who has been tried and cast adrift by the Giants, Red Sox and White Sox.

THE same Coast League averages show that Gus Suhr, San Francisco first baseman, who may be bought by the Pittsburgh club, has been ousted from the home run leadership by Vergez, of Oakland, who has 40 round trippers to his credit. Suhr has 36, and Boone 37. Smead Jolley, of San Francisco, has dropped to eighth place with 22.

Jolley, however, leads the league in total number of hits, with 248. Boone is second with 242 and Suhr third with 235. Hollis Thurston, of San Francisco, tops the pitchers with 18 won and eight lost, and Fred Haney, of Los Angeles is first in stolen bases with 42.

Harold Carlson

HAL CARLSON, former Pirate pitcher, now with the Cubs, will bear testimony to the truth of the assertion made by Johnny Evers when the Braves were in Pittsburgh on their second Western trip that a ball player will not get the worst of it if he trusts to the fairness of some of the magnates. Last year Carlson was pretty much of a bust. He worked only 56 innings and pitched but two complete games. As a result this season's contract called for a cut in salary.

CARLSON took it without complaint, but set about in a determined manner to engineer a comeback. Luck was against him at first. He was able to win only one game up to July 8. On that date, however, the tide turned, and Carlson has since won eight games out of 10 pitched, defeating every other club in the National League except the Pirates and Reds.

Those eight victories were not the only reward that Carlson received for his hard work. In recognition of his faithful efforts to regain his winning form, the Chicago club has torn up Hal's original 1929 contract and given him a new one in which the slice originally taken from his salary is restored. Besides he has qualified for a world series share by keeping himself on the Cub roster. It pays to keep on trying and giving your best.

IN SPITE of his midseason injuries and the resulting long period of idleness, Burleigh Grimes would be getting far better results than Willing, dentist of Portland, Ore., neither of whom has ever reached the finals before, will fight it out today for the thirty-third amateur golf championship of the United States.

As a result, either the great Pacific Northwest or the broad plains of the Middle West will acclaim the next successor to the South and Bobby Jones, out of the finals for the first time in six years.

Johnston, playing the steadiest golf of his career, advanced to the deciding round by conquering the veteran 1914 champion, Francis Ouimet, of Boston, 6 and 5, in the semi-finals. Dr. Williams defeated Henry Chandler Egan, of Medford, Ore., 4 and 3, after withstanding a sensational closing challenge by the 45-year-old ex-champion in the afternoon round of the match.

JOHNSTON PLAYS WELL

Johnston, leading all the way, was never less than four up after the ninth hole and ended the match on the thirty-first green in the afternoon, but it was not until the thirty-third hole that Dr. Willing was able to gain the decision over his fighting fellow Oregonian, Egan, who went down in a blaze of glory if any golfing veteran ever did.

Although it was in vain, Egan put on the most dramatic thrill of the entire tournament when he cut more than half of Willing's margin away in the afternoon. Willing was 8 up as he overwhelmed his rival in the morning round, became 9 up at the nineteenth and retained that margin at the twentieth but from there on he had the battle of his life to stand off the spectacular comeback of the man who wore the amateur crown exactly 25 years ago.

From a tired, badly whipped veteran who semed to be just going through the motions, Egan suddenly came to life, won four holes in a row as the big gallery broke into a tumult of applause and cut Willing's margin from 9 up at the twentieth to only 4 up at the twenty-seventh, as they made the turn toward home.

It was mostly a battle of stymies over that exciting stretch, as Willing's game cracked for the time being from his rival's desperate comeback. A dead stymie cost Egan a half on the nineteenth hole and he lost a chance to win the twentieth, after being trapped, by failing to get down a five-foot putt.

EGAN'S SPURT FINE

Egan's spurt then began to get results on the twenty-first, where Willing drove to the rough and put his second in a trap and conceded the hole after missing a long putt for his par four. On the twenty-second Egan rammed in a 10-foot putt for his birdie and another win. The ex-champion pitched to within four feet of the pin on the 160-yard twenty-third. He missed the putt, but half stymied Willing and grabbed his third hole in a row. Two smashing woods put Egan on the 502-yard twenty-fourth green, while Willing found the rough with his second, chipped short and conceded the hole after again being stymied. Egan himself was partly stymied on the 110-yard twenty-fifth that drops abruptly down to the shore, but sliced around to clinch a half in threes.

The crowd was now in full cry, cheering for Egan after every shot. Going to the troublesome twenty-sixth, Willing again was wild off the tee and then dubbed his brassie completely, sending the ball over

MONDAY—IT LOOKS FORWARD AND BACKWARD AT THE SAME TIME.

MEYERS BOWL FIGHT CARD COMPLETED

With the signing of John DeMino and Warren Farrow, two 155-pound lads for the opening six-round bout, the Meyers Bowl card for next Monday night's show has been completed.

Maxie Rosenbloom, contender for the light-heavyweight title, now vacant, tackles a rugged Negro heavy who answers to the name of K. O. Brown, in the 10-round main go of the show. Maxie is expected to arrive here Monday morning and Brown may beat Maxie into town by a day.

Frank Florian, of Cleveland, is in the eight-round semi-final with Young Jack Dempsey, of Conneaut, O. Bob Moody, Negro heavyweight, of Freeport, meets George Pancka, of Homestead, in one of the six-round bouts.

The postponement of the scheduled opening show of the indoor season at the Moose Temple, downtown, last night, because of the very warm weather, is causing Promoter Francis Flynn plenty of worry. Flynn requests that all ticket holders exchange ducats that were bought for last night's show for tickets for the next fight, scheduled for two weeks from last night. Ticket holders wishing refunds will be accomodated at his gymnasium, Sixth street and Penn avenue.

Dan Billick, Duquesne featherweight, is leaving for New York tonight, where he will train for his eight-round bout with Mickey Hart, at the Broadway Arena, New York, September 17.

At Erie—Henry Firpo and Harry Fuller drew, 10 rounds; Joe Trippe defeated Larry Madge, 6 rounds; Eddie Kaufman defeated Matty Oldech, 6 rounds; Moxie Miller and Young Hardtack drew, 4 rounds; Frank Bojorski defeated Marty Marlow, 4 rounds.

At Chicago—Sammy Mandell defeated Luis Vicentini, 10 rounds; Clyde Chastain and Jackie Brady drew, 10 rounds; My Sullivan defeated Alf Ros, 10 rounds; Joey Medill and Stanislaus Loayza drew, 10 rounds.

At Paterson, N. J.—Paul Chevalier defeated Harold Mays, 10 rounds.

At New York—Mickey White defeated Duck Oliva, 10 rounds; Marty Silvers and Artie DeLuca drew, 10 rounds.

Pitcher Voted Most Valuable M.-A. Star

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Stub Rase, Cumberland pitcher, was designated as the most valuable player in the Middle-Atlantic League last night when votes cast by the league's official scorers were counted here. Rase, who has won 22 games and lost four this year, received 57 votes.

Each official player named 10 players, the first man on the list receiving 10 votes, the second player nine, and so on down the line. Other players who stood well to the top of the list were:

Joe Morrisey, Clarksburg shortstop, second, with 52 votes; Bill Josephs, Charleroi shortstop third, 42; Fred Lucas, Charleroi outfielder fourth, 27; Bill Walwer, Wheeling outfielder, 23; Dave Black, Cumberland second baseman, 21, and Eddie Lowell, Wheelfirst baseman and Bill Gwathmay, Wheeling pitcher, each 20.

MANDELL BEATS LUIS VICENTINI

CHICAGO, Sept. 7. — (AP.) — Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, scored a one-sided triumph over Luis Vicentini, one of the new ranking contenders, in their 10-round non-title contest in the Chicago Stadium last night. Mandell defeated the Chilean in every round.

The ease with which Mandell turned back the South American blasted any hopes Vicentini might have had for a match with the title at stake. Vicentini, the conqueror of Tommy Grogan, Ray Miller and Armando Santiago, was dangerous for the first five rounds, but from then on, to the finish, he seemed to regard his task as hopeless.

Clyde Chastain, Dallas, Tex., welterweight, was held to a draw by the rugged Jackie Brady, of Syracuse, N. Y., in the opening 10-round bout of the card. Chastain weighed 148½, Brady 145½.

The sharpshooting Sullivan, of St. Paul, leading middle western welterweight, pounded out a victory over the rough Alf Ros, Spanish welterweight, in another 10-rounder. Sullivan weighed 151 and Ros 150½.

ROBIN RELIEF HURLER OUT FOR SEASON

Kent Greenfield, one of Uncle Robbie's reserve pitchers, is out for the remainder of the season, it was reported today, following his accident at Forbes Field yesterday when the hurler, running for Hank DeBerry in the second game, sprained his left ankle in trying to get into third base.

Kent was carried off the field by his teammates. His injury was so severe that the Pirate physician ordered him taken to St. John's Hospital, North Side, where he spent the night. Greenfield may be able to leave the institution today, but he will play no ball this season.

A great play by Rolly Hemsley, on what probably would have been a foul ball, figured in the action that brought pain and injury to the flinger. DeBerry singled in the seventh with one out, and Billy Rhiel, Youngstown boy, batting for Moss, also singled, Greenfield stopping at second.

The resourceful and clever Eddie Moore tried to cross up the Buccos with a safe bunt; Eddie popped a ball about five yards down the third base line. Like a cat, Hemsley pounced for the rocket, which appeared to be bounding into foul territory when the fleet catcher snatched it. Holly saw a chance for a force play provided he could keep the ball in fair territory and his pretty play was rewarded as Traynor caught his shot and touched the bag just as Greenfield tried to slide in. The spikes of the pitcher caught in the soil and he catapulted himself headlong with his left foot twisted beneath his weight.

Catcher John O'Connell accepted the chance to catch for Baltimore with much gladness. The hustling Verona boy seems to be just about ready for major league duty, and he probably would prefer to be active in Class AA ball than to be sitting on a major league bench. Moreover, the athletes don't travel 300 miles on dirt roads in the International League.

In the thick of their long ordeal, the Pirates and Robins will battle in a single game this afternoon at Forbes Field. At the conclusion of the contest the two teams will head for Brooklyn, where tomorrow a single contest will be staged. Back in Pittsburgh Monday, the weary travelers will resume hostilities in the Oakland Orchard with single games that day and the next.

Uncle Robbie's athletes and the Men of Ens divided a doubleheader yesterday. Burleigh Grimes tried to achieve his eighteenth triumph in the first game, but instead he sustained his fifth defeat. The score was 6 to 5. Jess Petty measured the Robins for an 8 to 1 setback in the second game.

KREMER, DUDLEY SET

Today's scrap probably will bring together a pair of sturdy righthanders. Remy Kremer has the Ens' pitching slip while Uncle Bobbie is expected to rely upon Clise Dudley, the promising young lad from Dixie who has given the Buccos much trouble this year.

Listless ball in the heat helped to subdue the Buccos in the early scrap of yesterday. Grimes himself slipped up a bit on one occasion, his failure to get to first base on a cover play allowing Gilbert a basehit which drove in what proved to be the winning run. Comorosky muffed a fly in the same inning that hurt the home cause.

Babe Herman was credited with a lucky homer that also militated against Grimes and his mates. The de luxe hitter drove an ordinary single to center in the third with two out and Clarke on second. The sphere bounded high past L. Waner and Babe made the circuit of the paths behind the pitcher. So you will see that Grimes didn't have much in his favor.

IRA COMES THROUGH

Ira Flagstead tried hard to get the Buccos on an even footing in the eighth when with two out and two on he doubled to left. The two runs that went over put the Pirates within one of the fog, but Flagstead was stranded.

Johnny Morrison saved the game for the Robins in the ninth. Brother Lloyd nicked Watson Clarke for an infield hit and Paul sacrificed. The Brooklyn strategists yanked Clarke and John Dewey rushed to the scene. The erstwhile Pirate star made Traynor and Comorosky hoist fly balls to end the game, although Commy's drive was close to the left-field fence.

Petty had a comparatively easy time in the second game. Ray Moss, who fooled the Buccos on two occasions this year, could not get by in his latest attempt. He eventually came out for Pinch-hitter Billy Rheil and McWeeny and A. Moore finished.

Capt. Traynor started the first offensive of the second game when he pried off the second with a single. Pie was quickly erased at second on Comorosky's drive to Gilbert, but Hemsley singled and Sheely came through with a three-

Athletics Buy Pitcher From Omaha

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—John McGrew, righthander, with Omaha Western League club, has been purchased by the Athletics, Manager Connie Mack announced last night. McGrew, one of the top-notch pitchers in the Western League, will report to the Mackmen when the next training season rolls around.

McGrew is the third Western League player bought by the Athletics in the last few weeks and is highly recommended. Mack did not divulge the price paid.

McGrew is a brother of Slim McGrew, the six-foot-seven recruit who was up and down with the New York Giants and the Washington Senators.

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Team tennis hits the local high point this afternoon with Steel City racqueters catching it out in contests involving large issues in the P. T. A. Inter-Club League.

The upper division of the circuit finds Dave O'Loughlin and his crack P. A. A. array entertaining Karl Wolfe's South Hillsmen on the Winged Head lot in a joust that the Red and Gray must cop by a 9-0 count if they are to fight their way into a deadlock with Edgewooh and land themselves in a play-off for the championship of Section I. Another tussle of import brings together Russ Unger's Mount Lebanon aces, titleholders of Section II, and the University Club combine on Don Mattern, tail-enders in the upper half on the Varsity rectangles. The victor in this affair cavorts in Section I next year, and as both aggregations rate this "a consummation devoutly to be wished," a vast deal of action can be logically predicted.

Rounding out the card, Jimmy MacKay will take his Minnetonkans from Verona to East Pittsburgh to mingle with Westinghouse Seconds in the reeling off of a fracas postponed from August 17.

MATCH POSTPONED

The P. A. A.-South Hills imbroglio was originally billed for June 8, but soggy courts on that date prevented the joust's being cared for on the Mount Washington lot. Later Capt. Wolfe requested that the melee be shifted to the Winged Head bailiwick due to the poor condition of the South Hills turf. After considerable negotiating, arrangements were finally completed several days ago and indications are that the rival outfits will be able to flash their speediest line-ups, vacationers having returned to close gaps existing in the respective ranks since early summer.

Presentation of full strength means that P. A. A. will come to bat with the three O'Loughlins—Dave, Dr. John, and Billy——, Al Whitey McLain and Sullivan, Jack Moore, veteran chop artist, being otherwise tied up for the afternoon. The O'Loughlins and Bialas will unquestionably occupy the first four positions on the Red and Gray singles list, with choice more or less open as to the remaining selections. The necesity of registering a clean sweep in order to break into the titular running leaves Capt. O'Loughlin small margin for speculation; unless his initial guess is the correct one, the perennial P. A. A. claim to loop laurels will pass by the board.

This renders the task of nominating his man-to-man performers a ticklish one and that of pairing off his proteges in doubles—a branch of the pastime for which they have displayed small aptitude this year—exceedingly hazardous. It is possible that John and Billy O'Loughlin will appear in the number one dual fray while brother Dave joins force with Bialas or Lauler in the second notch and the third twain to be composed of an entirely new coalition.

SOUTH HILLS STRONG

South Hills will offer a powerful front to offset the rehabilitated P. A. A. machine. E. A. Knoche will perform at number one, with Carlton Hughes and Henderson following in the order named. Thereafter will troup Creighton, Cooper, and Thomas or Wolfe, any one of whom may spill bad news into the Winged Head camp. The Hillsmen likewise boast a potent top doubles duo in Knoche and Hughes. Indeed, if P. A. A. rides in with shut-out victory in the face of the Hills opposition, a genuinely signal achievement will have been rung up by the O'Loughlin crew.

University Club and Mount Lebanon will not account for a complete match today, only the first four singles tilts and the number two doubles debate bring on the card. The remainder of the engagement, if any remainder be needed to determine the victor, will be staged at Mount Lebanon some evening next week.

Frank McClintock, Charley Woods and Don Mattern are certain starters for University Club in this afternoon's event, with Unger, Blakeley, Rumsey, and Hartman or Alcorn likely to bear the banner of the visitors. On paper, the Mattern delegation appears to possess a slight advantage, but the Lebanonites have pulled a throng of surprises in the course of the campaign and may have still another in the ample bag of tricks.

PLAN FOR MATCH

Plans for the proposed Pittsburgh-Clarksburg Inter-City joust at Clarksburg this month are still rather vague. The Steel City squad has written Bill Weber, Mountaineer leader, to suggest Sunday, September 14, for the session, but thus far no reply has been received. Whether or not anything definite ultimately will be accomplished toward bringing the two undefeated combinations together remains to be seen. It is to be hoped that a meeting can be arranged, for Inter-Urban clashing is one of the keenest stimuli toward racquet interest that the game can lay claim to.

W. O. W. NINE, VERONA CLASH FOR TITLE

By TOM BIRKS.

With a trip to West Baden, Ind., as the Greater Pittsburgh Class A elimination champion going to the winner, the W. O. W. nine, defending champion and winner of the Pittsburgh Central League title, and the Verona Community nine, winner in the West Penn loop, await the "play ball" call this afternoon at Community Field, Verona, in the final game of the Class A elimination series conducted by the National Baseball Federation.

This should be one of the greatest finals ever, since two great hitting, fielding and defensive clubs are thrown together. Verona will throw at the defending champions Harry Powley, the boy who will leave after the game for a tryout with the New York Giants. Powley has compiled a wonderful record. He has pitched the entire series, and has pitched shut-out ball in every game. He beat Immaculate Heart, 11-0; Mine Safety, 2-0; Swissvale Firemen, 6-0, and the J. J. Boyles, 6-0.

DUNN TO HURL

Opposed to the Verona ace will be Chuck Dunn, who also has pitched all the W. O. W. games in the series, defeating Homestead Aces, Stephens-Jenkins and the Crawfords. Sandlotters knowing the caliber of these clubs realize that Dunn's feat, like Powley's, is worthy of mention.

W. O. W. with the Cholko boys, Jedina and Hargest will be a tough problem for Powley, while Restelli, Bill Bright, Helfrick, Pavlick and Moritz are hitting the ball hard for Verona.

It should be a wonderful game. Manager Bright and the Verona officials are making preparations to handle the greatest crowd that ever attended a game at Community Field.

SMILERS WIN

The Pleasant Valley Smilers, winners of the second half flag in the City League, evened the play-off series with the North Side Civics at Wilson Field last evening, defeating the Civics, 3 to 2, in a well-played game.

The Civics won the opening game Thursday evening, 3 to 4, and hoped to bring the series to a successful conclusion last evening. But Jacoby was in fine form, and held the Civics scoreless until the eighth inning. Two runs went across in that frame, making the score 2 to 1 in favor of the North Siders, but the Smilers came back in their half of the inning and duplicated the Civics' feat of scoring two runs. Jacoby then held the Civics scoreless in the ninth inning.

JACOBY HITS HOMER

Mitchell, on the mound for the Civics, also hurled fine ball, being touched for four hits. A home run by Jacoby, coming in the eighth inning with a man on base, won the game for the Smilers and was the most damaging blow struck off Mitchell.

The Smilers scored in the second inning to open the action. In the ninth, when Aymer was called out at the plate with what would have been the tying run, Harp Vaughn, scrappy Civic infielder, rushed at Umpire Ahearn and a free-for-all scrap, which did not last long, resulted.

The deciding game of the series will be played next Tuesday at the Salt Works grounds. The score:

The Steelers scored three runs in impressive fashion in the first inning, but the Milkmen kept after the Steelers' hurlers, hammering out a total of 15 safe hits. Laboon, after his poor start, tightened and limited the Steelers to five safe hits.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

GAMES TO PLAY

CUBS—25—With Pittsburgh, 1; with New York, 4; with St. Louis, 2; with Brooklyn, 4; with Cincinnati, 7; with Philadelphia, 4; with Boston, 3.

PIRATES—24—With Chicago, 1; with New York 4; with St. Louis, 7; with Boston, 5; with Philadelphia, 3; with Brooklyn, 4.

TWELVE and one-half games ahead of the Pirates, the Cubs can clinch the pennant by winning 13 out of the 25 games. The Pirates could not pass them even if they won all of their 24 remaining games. The standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
CHICAGO	100	54	.649
PITTSBURGH	99	55	.643

IF the Cubs win only 12 out of their remaining 25 games the Pirates would have to win 24 out of 24 to finish in a tie. The standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
PITTSBURGH	99	55	.643
CHICAGO	99	55	.643

AMERICAN LEAGUE

GAMES TO PLAY

ATHLETICS—23—With New York, 2; with Cleveland, 4; with St. Louis, 4; with Detroit, 3; with Washington, 3; with Chicago, 4; with Boston, 3.

YANKEES—26—With Philadelphia, 2; with Cleveland, 5; With St. Louis, 4; with Detroit, 5; with Washington, 4; with Chicago, 4; with Boston, 2.

FOURTEEN and one-half games ahead of the Yankees, the Athletics still need only 11 victories out of 23 games to clinch the pennant. The Yankees could not pass them even if they won all of their remaining 26 games. The standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
PHILADELPHIA	101	53	.656
NEW YORK	100	54	.649

IF the Athletics win only 10 out of the 23 games, the best the Yankees could do if they won all of their 26 remaining games would be to tie them for the lead. The standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
PHILADELPHIA	100	54	.649
NEW YORK	100	54	.649

(EVERY GAME THE PIRATES AND YANKEES LOSE FROM NOW UNTIL THE END OF THE SEASON MEANS ONE LESS VICTORY THE CUBS AND ATHLETICS WILL NEED TO CLINCH THE PENNANTS IN THEIR RESPECTIVE LEAGUES.)

EIGHT NAMED FOR FEATURE

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—The elusive 3-year-old turf championship, tossed about from thoroughbred to thoroughbred, comes up for another argument today at the thirty-seventh running of the Lawrence Realization over the beautiful Belmont Park course.

Eight owners have elected to send forth the best in their stables in quest of the crown once won by Clyde Van Dusen, only to change to the head of Blue Larkspur and later to Beacon Hill and The Nut, when the pride of the E. R. Bradley Idle Hour Farm was forced to retire for the season, and with today's race goes the last big opportunity for the 3-year-olds to exhibit their ability before the racing public.

At the end of the mile and five furlong route, known as the Lawrence realization and won by thoroughbreds of turf fame, lies a pot of gold that is expected to net the winner close to $25,000. Many a good horse has added to his laurels in the historic stake event, but to Man O' War goes the credit for covering the course in the fastest time. The super-horse stepped the distance in 2:40 4-5 in 1920.

When the field of eight face Starter Mars Cassidy tomorrow The Nut, from the Warm stable, is expected to be well established in public favor. Carrying only 119 pounds and a lover of the distance, the former Harry Payne Whitney color-bearer is going to be a hard horse to beat to the wire.

Flaunting the popular Whitney colors will be the sprinter Beacon Hill, which won the Travers at Saratoga only to fall before The Nut a few days later.

Martinsburg Wins Second Half Flag

YORK, Pa., Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Martinsburg clinched the second half title of the Blue Ridge League race by blanking Hanover yesterday, 5 to 0, and will meet Hagerstown, winners of the first half, in a post-season series to decide the championship.

Hanover, leading most of the way during the second half, slumped near the end and lost their last chance in yesterday's game.

The first game of the series will be played in Hagerstown on Monday, September 9, and the games will then alternate in each city until one club has won four games. The Blue Ridge League season closes today with double-headers all over the circuit.

Portland Shots Win Over Mounted Police

CAMP PERRY, O., Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Crack pistol shots of the world's most famous police organization bowed yesterday to American marksmanship at the national rifles matches here when the Portland, Oregon police team defeated the Royal Canadian North Mounted quad by a score of 1,123 to 1,054.

HAGEN-SMITH WIN, 8-6

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Walter Hagen and Horton Smith, international stars, defeated Pete O'Hara, of the Westmoreland Country Club, and Dave McKay, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, 8 up and 6 to play, in their four-ball best ball exhibition match before a gallery of 1,000 at the Pittsburgh Field Club yesterday.

The British and North and South open champions had things all their own way from the outset, Smith playing the better golf of the two. On their individual balls, Hagen had a 70, one stroke more than the course record, Smith scored at 71, McKay tallies a 75 and O'Hara carded 77.

Going out, Hagen and Smith became 5 up on the first five holes, although they were interrupted by a terrific rain on the third hole, and added another hole before the turn was reached. The tilt ended on the twelfth hole.

The Pittsburgh Field Club's course was in perfect shape for the event. Their cards:

Palfrey Sisters Win Girls' Doubles Title

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—The Palfrey Sisters, of Boston, Sarah and Mianne, won the girl doubles tennis championship of the United States yesterday for the third time. The Palfrey's defeated Helen Marlowe, of Hollywood, Cal., and Carolin Babcock, Los Angeles, 6-2, 5-7, 6-2, in the final round on the turf courts of the Philadelphia Cricket Club.

For achieving this national honor, gained by them in 1926 and 1928, the Little Palfreys will have their names inscribed on the huge challenge cup, a perpetual trophy, which stood in all its shining glory filled with pink roses on a table beside the championship court. The winners will receive tiny reproductions of the trophy.

English Women Net Stars Win Matches

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Women tennis players of Great Britain's Wightman Cup team won all three matches in an international exhibition with United States players here yesterday. The one bid of America's racqueteers against the English was in the match between Miss Betty Nuthall, the English champion and Miss Mary Greef, Kansas City. Miss Greef forced her adversary to three sets before the English girl won, 6-1, 5-7, 7-5.

Mrs. Phoebe Watson, Britain, easily disposed of Miss Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, Calif., 6-2, 6-4. The British doubles pair of Mrs. B. C. Covell and Mrs. Dorothy Shephard-Baron defeated Miss Ruth Bailey, St. Louis and Miss Edith Cross, San Francisco, 6-0, 6-2.

Three more matches will be played today.

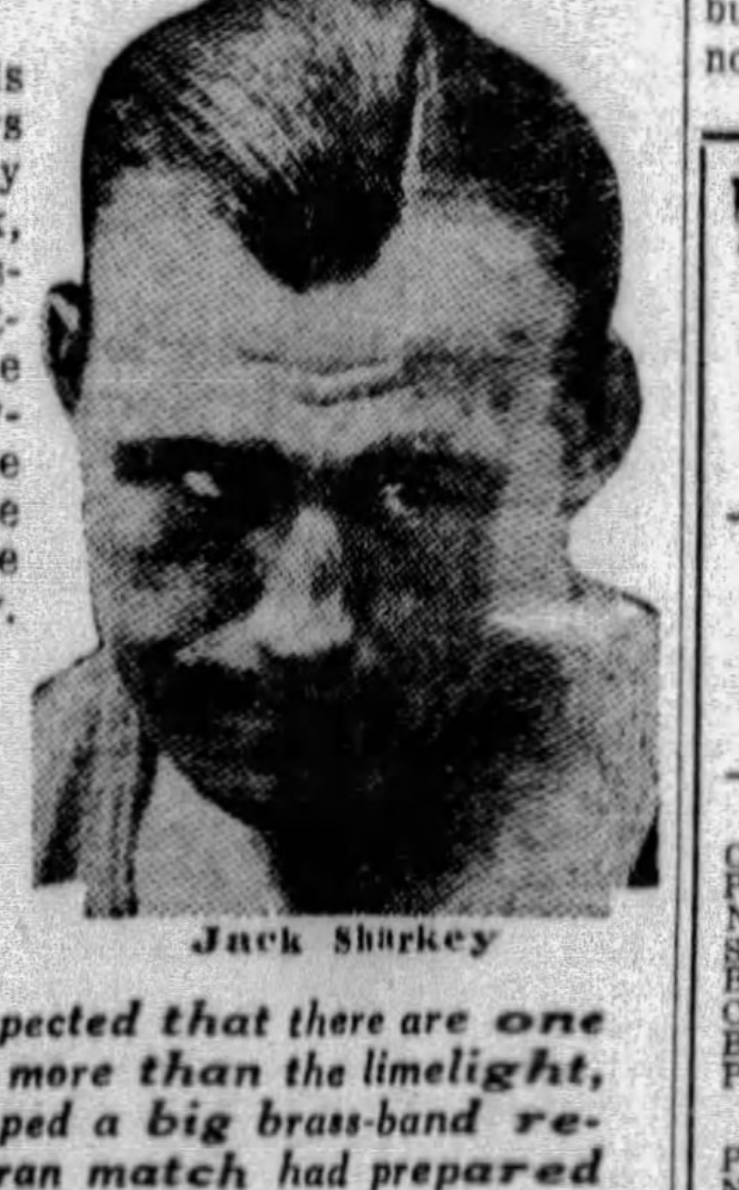
are being credited to him at present but for the fact that the breaks are going against him. Errors, bad hops and infield hits hurt him against yesterday. After winning 15 of his first 16 games this year he has lost four of his last six, and three of his last four.

At that, Grimes is likely to recover his grip in time to finish among the pitchers winning 20 games, of whom there probably will not be more than eight. Bill Clark, who won a decision over Grimes here yesterday for the first time in three slab meetings this season, is making one of the strongest finishes in the senior league, having won 11 of his last 16 contests, but he is not likely to reach the 20 mark, as he boasts only 14 victories to date, and the Robins have but 24 games more to play.



Jack Sharkey

JACK SHARKEY appears to realize what is clear to everybody else—that he will be required to have one of his good nights on September 26 to escape defeat in his bout with Tommy Loughran. No fooling this time seems to be Sharkey's platform. It has been suspected that there are one or two things that the gabby gob dislikes more than the limelight, yet the other day he deliberately sidestepped a big brass-band reception that the promoters of the Loughran match had prepared for him in New York City, and went quietly to a training camp in Orangeburg, N. Y., instead. Jack is now combing the woods for a heavyweight sparring partner "with a hand like Loughran's," though most fight fans are of the opinion that "there ain't no such animal." If there were, he wouldn't be a sparring partner.

HERMAN LEADS BATTERS BY FRACTION

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—The mad scramble between Babe Herman of Brooklyn and Frank O'Doul of Philadelphia for the National League batting championship has tightened to the point where four figures are necessary to reveal any difference between them. The Brooklyn swatsman shades his Philadelphia rival by .3926 to .3925 in this week's averages, issued today, and including games of last Wednesday. Bill Terry of New York has slowed up a bit, and owns a mark of .379.

Other leading regulars are: Traynor, Pittsburgh, .371; Hornsby, Chicago, .369; L. Waner, Pittsburgh, .357; Stephenson, Chicago, .355; Klein, Philadelphia, .353; Hendrick, Brooklyn, .351, and Frisch, St. St. Louis, .348.

LEADS IN RUNS SCORED

Hornsby leads in runs scored with 130 and Ott, of New York, in runs batted in with 133. O'Doul has 219 hits, the largest total, and Frederick sets the pace with 48 doubles. L. Waner leads with 16 triples and Klein with 37 home runs. Cuyler has 34 stolen bases, the high mark in that activity.

Guy Bush, the Chicago ace, is finding his nineteenth victory difficult, but he still leads the league with 18 games won and only four lost for a percentage of .818. Burleigh Grimes, the Pittsburgh spitter, is only half a game away with 17 and four for .810.

The Phillies, the Cubs and the Pirates are in the .300 class in team batting, the Phils leading with .309. The other two are tied at .304. The Cubs top the list in the field with .975, one point more than the Giants and the Reds show in a tie for second place.

Although slumping slightly during the past two weeks, Jimmy Foxx, of the Athletics, still heads the field seeking the American League batting championship for 1929.

Unofficial averages, including Wednesday's games, give the slugging Philadelphia first sacker a season's mark of .373, one less than a week ago and two points better than his closest rival, Lou Fonseca, of Cleveland, who dropped two points during the past week.

RIVALS SHOW GAIN

Most of their rivals gained during the week. Al Simmons, of the A's, boosted his mark from .364 to .366; Manush, of St. Louis, gained three points for a .365 average, and Lazzeri, of the Yanks, hoisted his one point to .355. Other leaders and their marks: Combs, New York, .354; Heilmann, Detroit, .348; Ruth, New York, .343; Alexander, Detroit, .341; Miller, Philadelphia, .339; Gehringer, Detroit and S. Rice, Washington, .331.

Lefty Grove increased his margin in the pitching race with another victory during the week and now has a record of 19 won and two lost. Zachary, of the Yankees, also went out and copped another game and while he has been in 22 games he still has to be defeated, winning 10 games. Earnshaw, of the Athletics, broke even during the week, winning one and dropping one for a grand record of 20 victories and eight defeats.

A'S GAIN POINT

Philadelphia scored a point in the struggle for team batting honors during the week and now is three points behind the Detroit Tigers, who are setting the pace with a .302 mark. In general excellence, however, Connie Mack's band stand out, leading in runs scored with 814 and giving the fewest runs scored against them—543. In team fielding, the Athletics lead with a .977 percentage. Other leaders:

Double plays, Cleveland, 139; individual runs, Gehringer, Detroit, 115; most hits, Simmons, Philadelphia, 187; hits for most total bases, Simmons, Philadelphia, 323; doubles, Manush, St. Louis, 41; triples, Fonseca, Cleveland; Combs, New York, and Gehringer, Detroit, 13; home runs, Ruth, New York, 40; stolen bases, Gehringer, Detroit, 22; runs batted in, Simmons, Philadelphia, 131; strikeouts, Grove, Philadelphia, 151.

SARAZEN LOSES METRO CROWN

FLUSHING, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Walter Kozak, surprising young professional from North Hills, and Joe Turnesa, veteran of America's Rider Cup forces, will meet today in the 36-hole final round for the metropolitan professional golf championship over the links of the Pomonok Country Club.

Kozak eliminated Gene Sarazen, defending champion, in a brilliant semi-final match, 3 to 2, yesterday, shooting the first nine in 33 strokes, three under par, while Sarazen took 34 and still found himself 1 down. Kozak increased his lead, fighting off Sarazen's bid on the second nine, and won the match with a birdie three on the sixteenth.

Johnnie Farrell, former open champion, bowed to Turnesa, 1 down on the eighteenth green, as Turnesa shot a sparkling 68 to Farrell's 71. Farrell was 4 down at the twelfth, but his rally on the final nine could not match Turnesa's perfect golf.

GUVS WIN FIRST TITLE GAME

STOGIES LOSE IN PLAYOFF OPENER

CHARLEROI, Pa., Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Charleroi won the opening game of the Middle Atlantic League championship series here yesterday, slamming two Wheeling pitchers for 14 hits to take a spectacular game by a score of 10 to 3.

The Governors, first half champions, sent Lefty Joe Drugmond to the mound. He allowed eight hits and pitched airtight ball in the pinches. Ferner was pulled off the mound in the second inning after Charleroi gathered three hits for two runs in the first canto and a homer and a double in the second with no outs. Deneering was also found ineffective as the Governors bunched hits to gain an early lead.

FIVE HOMERS HIT

Home runs by Phillips, Lamb, Lucas and Rice gave Charleroi the scoring edge, while King's homer for the Stogies brought them their two runs in the fifth inning. Lucas featured at bat for Charleroi, smashing out four hits for five trips to the plate, a homer, two bagger and two singles, for a total of three runs.

Rice and Joseph each made their round trips count for two runs.

Despite five strikeouts Deneering showed little strength in tight places when hits meant runs. He cut the Charleroi scoring after the third inning, allowing only one run in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings and held Charleroi to two singles in the seventh and eighth innings.

Manager Pat Haley quit the plate position in the sixth inning and was replaced by Mordas who had an equally bad day at bat. The game was without an error, despite five hot infield drives.

SIX CUT DOWN

Six of Charleroi's runners were cut down on the paths, while Wheeling saw three die away.

King and Welker led the Stogies' attack, but Drugmond, long a painful nemesis to Wheeling, confined the visitors' stick work and granted only one walk while Deneering suffered three. The score:

Joe Dundee Plans To Stage Comeback

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Joe Dundee, former welterweight champion, announced yesterday that he would return to the fistic wars within a few weeks under new management.

The Baltimore Italian will do his fighting for the next two years under the direction of James J. Johnston. Dundee said he blamed the loss of his title on poor management. He hopes to fight his way back to the crown after a month's rest in Hot Springs, Ark.

JOHN O'CONNELL

Catcher O'Connell, whose home is in Verona, is doing considerable traveling these days. John was signed by the Pirates last fall, and last spring he was sent under option to the Columbia (S. C.) Club, of the South Atlantic Association, for further seasoning. O'Connell rejoined the Bucs in Cincinnati Thursday after a very good season with Columbia. He came here with the Bucs yesterday and last night the Baltimore club, of the International League, made a bid for his services. Today he was sent under option to the Orioles, with which club he will remain until September 22, when the International League season closes. He will be back with the Pirates on September 23.

bagger to right-center, scoring Commy and Hemsley. Clarke's single scored Sheely.

WANER SAVES HIT

Paul Waner robbed Frederick of a likely three-sacker at the start of the fourth, the circus catch of the rightfielder being lustily cheered. Herman followed with a hard grounder which Clarke fumbled. Bressler flied out, but Bisonette walked. Gilbert scored Herman with a double down the rightfield line.

Petty crossed up everybody within the confines of the ball orchard in the home half when he doubled to score Sheely. Earl doubled to left with two out and Clarke walked. Petty slammed a line down the rightfield line to score Sheely, but Clarke was nailed at the plate.

The Robins hit Grimes hard in the fifth as they won the game. One was out when Moore doubled to center. Frederick singled to right to score Moore, and then Comorosky dropped Herman's fly to put runners on second and first. Hendrick tripled to left center to score the two runs, but Grimes fanned Bissonette. Burleigh was slow in covering first on Gilbert's drive to Sheely, and the recruit beat the plate as Hendrick tallied what proved to be the winning run.

Bartell and L. Waner tried to start something big in the seventh with two singles, the hits putting runners on third and first with none out, but Brother Paul grounded into a double play, and the inning produced only one tally.

Clarke beat out a tap with one out in the eighth. After Sheely lined to Hendrick, Hargreaves singled on the infield. Up came Flagstead with a double that put the Buccos in the game, but the home boys couldn't make the riffle.

Dempsey to Promote Fields Title Fight

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey has made definite overtures for promotion next year of a world championship fight, and the title he hopes to put on the block is that of Jackie Fields, welterweight king.

Sig Rooney, manager of Fields, today was considering an offer from Dempsey of $65,000 for Fields to defend his title in Chicago next year at an arena not yet erected and against an opponent to be named by Dempsey not later than April 15. Dempsey said he planned to build an arena to seat 50,000 persons.

Parenti came to Albany last spring from the Wilkes-Barre club of the New York-Pennsylvania League. Munn has been with the Senators five years.

Proper Decisions on Knotty Problems of the Game

PLAY NO. 6.

Chicago has the ball and the teams are lined up and the signals are being called. Coach Pat Page, of Indiana, rushes out Brubaker for a substitution to be made in the line. The referee blows the whistle and halts the play.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER.

The referee rules that Indiana shall be penalized five yards for delaying the game, as coaches are expected to make their substitutions at the conclusion of a play instead of when one is about to begin.

Watch for play No. 7 next Monday. This series will carry the football fans through 24 plays such as may come up at any time during a regular game. The better understanding of football and more enjoyment in following its progress will be gained through the study of this daily feature.

Amick, West Penn division, in the half mile; W. P. Rosenberg, Lake division, in the running broad jump, and E. F. Costello, West Penn division, in the running hop, step and jump.

VETERANS GAIN FIRST FINAL

the edge of the chasm that cuts across the fairway. This cost the doctor a two-stroke penalty, but he was on the green in four with a fine iron, six feet from the cup. Egan chipped on with his third too strongly, but a stymie helped him again when he missed his putt for a four. Willing was unable to get around his opponent's ball and lost another hole, cutting his lead to four up.

This smashing challenge, however, seemed to have sapped most of Egan's reserve and he was unable to do more than prolong the match for six more holes. Willing steadied, won the twenty-ninth to go five up again. With a chance to clinch the contest on the thirty-first he put his second in a trap and took two to get out. Now four up and five to go, Willing took no chances. He halved the next two holes in par figures, Egan's last chance fading when he failed to get down a long putt on the thirty-third.

JOHNSTON STRONG

Johnston, with the greatest opponent he has ever faced in a national champion, played with too much determination and skill for even so gallent, seasoned a foe as Ouimet, champion 15 years ago and a semi-finalist six times in the last ten years. The St. Paul sharpshooter let loose a barrage from the outset that had Ouimet four down at the first turn and six down at the eleventh hole. Only the most courageous sort of work enabled Ouimet to make it a fight from then on. The Bostonian succeeded in slicing two holes from this margin before the end of the round as he finished the last four holes in even par.

Well fortified, Johnston continued his steady play in the afternoon. He had his irons under fine control and putted even more consistently than Ouimet, who has been famous for years for his work on the greens. At the twenty-seventh, Johnston was again six up. Ouimet, with a long putt for a birdie on the twenty-ninth, regained a hole but after halving the next two, met his finish on the thirty-first. There the Bostonian was trapped off the tee and again in a sandbunker on his second shot, short of the green. He came out short, ran a long putt dead to the hole but Johnston, well on in two, got down in two putts to decide the match.

Thus 33-year-old Jimmy Johnston, long one of the game's most popular figures, and 39-year-old Doc Willing go on into the finals of the championship in which neither before has been able to go beyond the third round. They are the survivors of a battle which has seen favorites drop right and left—the four time champion, Bobby Jones, going out in the first round and the British titleholder, Cyril Tolley, in the third round.

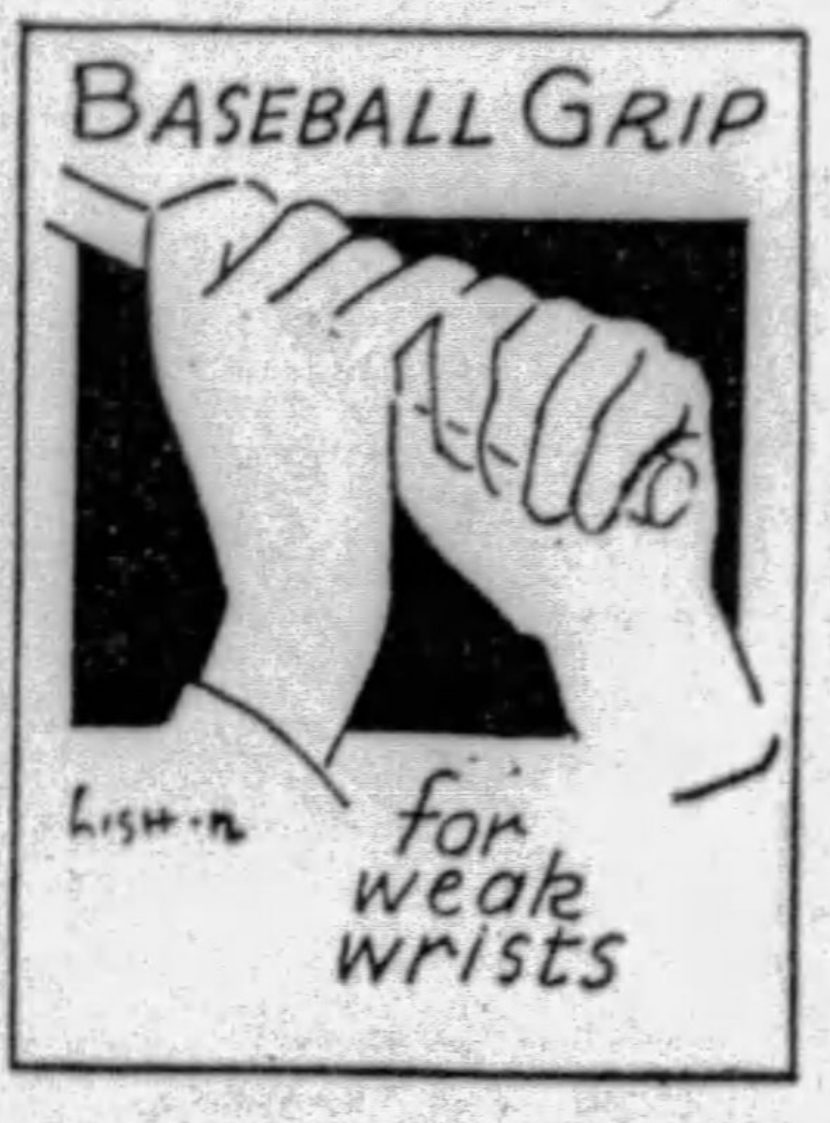
Binghamton Wins New York-Pa. Flag

BINGHAMPTON, Sept. 7.—(AP.)—The Binghampton Triplets, waging their third campaign under the management of Mike McNally, former New York Yankee infielder, came to the end of a seven-year conquest of the New York-Pennsylvania League pennant yesterday when they clinched the 1929 flag. Needing only a victory for themselves or a defeat of the Williamsport Grays, the New York staters got both. They overwhelmed Elmira by 16 to 1, while Hazleton turned back the Grays, 8 to 6.

These developments removed Williamsport's last mathematical possibility of winning the championship for two Gray triumphs over Hazleton while the Trips were losing two games each to Elmira and Scranton would leave Binghampton leading by 10 percentage points as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Binghampton	82	58	.586
Williamsport	80	59	.576

GOLF
AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT



For a player with weak wrists, is a grip with all fingers on the shaft better than an overlapping or interlocking grip? Why or why not?

Answered by

WILLIE MacFARLANE

Former National Open Champion and one of the World's Great Golfers; Bermuda Open, 1929. Bermuda Mid-Ocean, 1929.

Players with weak wrists should not use the overlapping or interlocking grip. These grips were not made for them, I find from my experience with all kinds of beginners.

That the overlapping grip is not good for weak wrists proves itself more with the women players than with men. The average woman, I find, does not have enough strength on her fingers or wrists to use the overlapping grip with much success and there are a whole lot of men in the same fix.

I have been responsible for quite a number of players giving up the overlapping or interlocking grip and I found that not only would they get more speed to the head of the club with the so-called old-fashioned grip (all fingers on the club), but they would also have much better control."

SINGLES PLAY OPENS TODAY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(AP.)—With a field of 90 seeking the title relinquished by Henri Cochet of France, play in the National Tennis Singles Championship gets under way today on the West Side tennis club's courts here.

Big Bill Tilden of Philadelphia rules a favorite to win his seventh National title, but there are youngsters in the field who were rated only a step behind the old master. Tilden is seeded at the top of the upper half of the draw and John Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal., at the bottom. George Lott heads the lower half with Norman G. Farquharson of South Africa at the bottom.

Also seeded are such stars as Frank Hunter of New Rochelle; John Van Ryn of East Orange, N. J.; Berkeley Bell of Austin, Tex.; Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., and Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, Pa. Among the foreign entrants N. W. (Bunny) Austin, J. S. Oliff and E. R. Avory of England, all are seeded as are Tamio Abe of Japan and German Upmann of Cuba.

Hunter, Tilden and Van Ryn all drew first round byes but will play their second round matches today. Hunter clashes with Edward Jacobs, of Baltimore and the University of Pittsburgh, at 1 o'clock. Tilden meets Donald Strachan, of Philadelphia, at 2:30, with Austin playing Edward Herndon of New York at 4 o'clock, in a first round match.

On another court, Lott meets Elliott Binzen of New York at 1 o'clock; Wilmer Allison of Austin, meets Emmett Pare of Chicago at 2:30 and Van Ryn plays Edward McKnight of Springfield, Mass., at 4.

Two New Programs Climax Radio Broadcasting

WITH two more new programs ready to go on the air, this evening will bring to a climax what has been one of the most interesting, as well as entertaining, weeks in radio broadcasting. The seven days of this last week brought a succession of new features, all of which were well presented, enthusiastically received and forecast many pleasant evenings to come.

The first of tonight's new features will inaugurate a series dramatizing famous incidents in the lives of great men who successfully met the challengers of fate. The series is titled "The Lyric Challengers" and will come weekly through WCAE at 8 o'clock.

Tonight's radiocast will present the incident in the life of Abraham Lincoln, when the rising young lawyer accepted a seemingly hopeless defense case in Springfield, Ill., which no other lawyer would take, and won by confounding the witness with an almanac.

The second new program, also to come through WCAE, is called "When Summer Is Gone." In this program Robert Simmons, tenor soloist, will sing "Autumn," from the "Cycle of Life," by the English composer, Landon Ronald. A women's octet will present Lips' "Golden Rod."

Vincent Lopez, whose Kylectroneers are one of the features of each Thursday evening, and who has been playing in this city throughout the week, will give two more programs of dance music Both of these programs will come through WCAE, one at 7 and the other at 11:30 o'clock.

KDKA will present the Chicago Federation Orchestra as one of its feature offerings tonight. It will go on the air from 9 to 10 o'clock. The orchestra will be under the direction of Robert Sommers.

We Now Present

Don Bestor and members of his orchestra who are heard by KDKA listeners daily as they broadcast from the William Penn Hotel, have been telling members of the KDKA staff what good golf players they are. Likewise, several members of KDKA's staff believe they are pretty handy with the golf sticks and to prove which is the better at the game, the musicians or the radio men, a match has been arranged and will be played Sunday morning. The penalty for the loser is to ever more refrain from commenting upon his ability as a golf player.

Fred Webber, new WCAE announcer, is now paying the penalty of fame. His picture was published in the Sun-Telegraph during this last week, and an admirer called him to comment that there was a great resemblance to Ronald Coleman. With the memory of that remark still fresh in his mind, he was called to the telephone and informed by another admirer that his photograph was an exact image of Adolphe Menjou. And now Fred is puzzled. He favors Coleman, however.

Dick Bower, popular operator of the Gimbel station, is another late vacationer. He plans to be away two weeks, spending most of the time in Boston, his home-town.

Phillips Lord, creator of "Sunday at Seth Parker's" NBC program, has returned from a short vacation, spent, of course, in Jonesport, Me., locale of the radio hymn-sings.

Maestro

VINCENT LOPEZ

Two programs of music by Vincent Lopez and his orchestra will go on the air tonight from WCAE. The first will be at 7:01 p. m., and the second at 11:30 p. m. Lopez is one of the most popular of the radio concert masters and at present is broadcasting the weekly Kylectron period Thursday nights through KDKA.

AMERICAN CAN OPERATIONS GAINING

All Divisions of Company Running Ahead of 1928; Expect 25 Per Cent Gain

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Although earlier expectations of a big increase in the vegetable pack this year may have to be discounted somewhat by recent developments, it is practically certain American Can Company will have another record year, both as to earnings and production.

All departments of the company's business are running ahead of last year, and the three principal vegetable packs, which have the biggest influence on earnings, apparently will show a substantial increase over a year ago, despite damage caused by drought in growing areas.

EARNINGS ESTIMATES

American Can reports earnings annually. Although frequently forecasts of earnings are made in the Street, interests informed on the company's affairs are disinclined to credit some of the more optimistic predictions and maintain that a 25 per cent increase in net earnings over a year ago would be more in line with present conditions and prospects in the canning industry. Estimates before August, when packing activities are at their peak, fail to take into consideration many factors which have a decided bearing on earnings. Last year, for instance, earnings would have increased much more substantially but for the failure of the tomato crop. This situation could not be reckoned on until quite late in the year.

NET MAY GAIN $2

Net for stock last year was $1,-863,326, equivalent after preferred charges to $6.86 a share on 2,473,998 common shares. A 25 per cent increase would indicate net of around $24,800,000, assuming the usual charges are made against earnings, and a balance for common slightly less than $22,000,000. Earnings on a share basis, therefore, would be in the neighborhood of $9.

Although the management always has been conservative in its dividend policy, indicated earnings this year and piled-up profits of previous years would seem to point to favorable action for stockholders before the end of the year.

DIVIDEND OUTLOOK

For years the management has followed the policy of declaring extras at the end of the year, but the remarkable cash position of the company and its margin of earnings above the present dividend rate would seem to warrant more substantial action than a cash increase. A stock dividend or split-up are regarded as reasonable possibilities, and the large surplus shown in the balance sheet would appear to justify such action. At present the company pays dividends of 75 cents quarterly, and the $1 extra declared at the end of the year places the stock on a $4 annual basis.

CASH HOLDINGS LARGE

Undoubtedly the company has been profiting in the call market, for large cash holdings were reported at the end of last year. Cash account increased to $22,017,490 from $9,657,139 at the end of 1927. Not long ago American Can was a large borrower from banks to finance its operations through the packing season, when large credits must be extended. Now, however, working capital is sufficient to take care of these requiremnts. At the end of 1928 working capital was $43,852,-912, subject to possible inventory write-offs for which a reserve of $3,622,379 was set up.

INVENTORY ACCOUNT

The inventory account is conservatively stated. The company carries much of its inventory well below the market or cost to protect it against fluctuations in raw material prices. Despite this, there appears to be little basis for reports often circulated that profits from year to year are much larger than reported. Undoubtedly the management makes liberal deductions from earnings to cover the usual charges, but the balance sheet gives no indication of large unreported profits, and the method of treating inventories is by no means unusual among big corporations.

FOREIGN ACTIVITIES

A feature of the company's development this year has been its advances into foreign territory for business. The company has been organizing operations in Great Britain, but it undoubtedly will be some time before any important contribution to earnings comes from this source. In Canada, however, quicker results are likely to be forthcoming, although the business obtained may be small in relation to domestic orders. Extensive rearrangement of plants has been under way in Canada, and recently the company took over the Simcoe canning and preserving plant of Canadian Canners, Ltd., for a reported price of $1,000,000. American Can probably will be ready to operate this plant January 1, 1930. Additional land adjacent has been acquired to provide for expansion of operations.

Ingot Production Gained in August

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—August steel ingot production was 4,925,802 gross tons, a new August peak and the fourth largest month on record, against 4,838,093 in July and 4,178,610 in August, 1928, the American Iron and Steel Institute reports. August output was at the rate of 93.03 per cent of capacity, against 94.88 per cent in July and 82.10 per cent in August, 1928.

World Cotton Use Decreases in 1929

World consumption of American cotton in the year ended July 31 was 15,076,000 bales, against 15,407,000 bales in the preceding year. World stocks at the end of the year were 2,129,000 bales, against 2,112,000 a year ago, according to the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

The demand for fruit and vegetables was slack today at the wholesale produce markets in Pittsburgh. There were no changes in quotations.

The poultry market remained steady, demand fair, supply adequate, with no changes occurring in quotations.

The butter, egg and cheese market rested fair, demand nominal, supply good, with no change in quotations.

Car lot supplies were fair, with 400 cars on track. Arrivals included 13 cars of apples, 1 cauliflowers, 8 cantaloupes, 1 honeyballs, 7 honeydews, 3 Persian melons, 2 celery, 2 lemons, 5 lettuce, 7 onions, 7 oranges, 2 peas, 9 pears, 4 prunes, 18 potatoes, 5 sweet potatoes, 33 tomatoes, 1 watermelons.

AIRSHIP TRADE DEVELOPS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Modern industrial development, says the Monthly Labor Review, is creating an increasing amount of labor saving machinery which is displacing men. The development and expansion of any new industry, therefore, is of great importance in giving employment to the men displaced by the improved machinery.

Among the new industries which have developed rapidly during the last few years is the making of airplanes and airplane motors. A survey by the Bureau of Labor Statistics shows that there are now nearly 25,000 people employed directly in the manufacture of airplanes and airplane motors.

Aside from manufacturing, the industry also gives employment to much labor both directly and indirectly. Factories and hangars must be built; pilots both for mail and commercial work must be employed; schools of instruction are coming into existence; and many mechanics and other ground employes are needed at air fields. Employment also is given to persons engaged in the manufacture of material used in planes. Airplanes also have their effect on the production, distribution and consumption of gasoline.

Plants manufacturing airplanes are found in 29 states, New York being the most important, with 4,-396 employes. This is followed by California with 1,606 employes. Other states with over 1,000 persons employed in the making of airplanes are Michigan, Washington, Kansas and Ohio. Of the 101 firms from which reports were received 78 produced airplanes during 1928, the production being 4,886 planes. The indications are that the 1929 production will be much greater.

Of the 23 plants engaged in making motors, 17 had some product in 1928, when 3,684 motors were produced in these factories. New Jersey and Connecticut were the ranking states.

Cairns Estimates Wheat Production

WINNIPEG, Sept. 7—(AP.)—A. Cairns, statistician of the Canadian wheat pool, estimated wheat production for the Prairie provinces at 272,000,000 bushels.

The crop of oats for the Prairie provinces was estimated at 136,-000,000 bushels; barley 74,000,000; flax 2,700,000, and rye 11,800,000.

Cold Rolled Strips Up at Youngstown

Cold-rolled strips have been advanced by Youngstown Steel makers $2 a ton to $2.85 a pound for 4th quarter delivery.

BIRMINGHAM, Sept. 7—Southern pig iron has been advanced 50 cents a ton to $14.50 by one producer.

Standard, Phenix Unification Denied

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Reports that Standard Brands is acquiring a controlling interest in Kraft Phenix Cheese are officially denied by officials of both companies, who state that there have been no negotiations of any nature.

BUGS BAER Says

ZEPPING, ZEPPING OVER THE BOUNDING SEA

BEFORE they get us into one of those big, jolly Zeppelins we want to know what they are going to use for steps.

"Bugs" Baer

It's all very romantic and jazzbo to be up six miles in the air, but how about the grand staircase.

We don't intend to go any place at all where you can't be rescued with a stepladder.

What's going to happen when the conductor pokes his beezer in your stateroom door and says, "This is your station."

You look out the window and all you see are seven or six morbid sea gulls awaiting your departure.

You say to the conductor, "If this is my station, where's the platform?"

There's one he can't answer. We wear waterwings in the bathtub but we do not want to get off a train with a parachute strapped to our shoulder blades.

We have flown above the clouds many times in planes. The sensation is aromatic and wistful.

But we have always felt better the minute we parked our groundgrippers on the turf.

Still, Zeppelin travel is delightful. Instead of being a tourist you become a blimper.

There is now a society of circumnavigating blimpists. It consists of people who have blimped their way around the world in uneasy stages.

The first rule of Zeppelin travel is not to empty spittoons out of the windows.

The next rule is to never pull the bellrope. It might be attached to the zipper that separates the Zepp into two equal parts.

The third rule is don't start bonfires when you are cold.

Don't lean against the wall when you are tired. The foundations and masonry used in a Zepp are strictly lingerie.

And don't hang any pictures into the Zepp. One thumbtack in a blimp is like a wildcat in a butcher shop.

On the first trip of the Zeppelin to this country, an old lady with the snuff habit sneezed the boat 700 miles out of line.

We expect to learn some new blimping rules next week. Paste them on your windshield.

Our sincere effort to encourage the writing of poetry by Filipinos is meeting with certain complications.

Tons of poetry, as yet unread, already fill our warehouses.

And now the authorities demand that we also conduct an oral quiz. The above picture, for instance, shows the trouble to which our judges must now go in their efforts to make a fair decision.

By the way, the Weekly Prize this time is herewith awarded to a hat check boy for the following—

Sir:

Hat check boy,

No stop for envelope to be late

No matter which—no stop for letter

We Know It's September By Grid Squad Reports

To the general run of men the calendar is unnecessary except for the finer points of calculations of time. Some particular folks might want to know whether the current day is Tuesday or Friday or if the date be 11 or 13. For such exactness, of course, a calendar is necessary, just as a watch is necessary if you are going to crowd the line on a note due in the bank. But for rough and tumble fixing of the period of the year the sporting page is as good as the calendar.

F'rinstance we know its the early part of September by several signs. Among them that Pitt and Tech are getting lessons in the "fundamentals." A little deducing tells us that such mature students as attend Pitt and Tech would not be delving into the literal fundamentals known as the A B C's, hence they must be some other kind, and the average man knows that the fundamentals referred to are those of football. Similarly he will know to what extent fall has advanced by reports about the "condition" of the team from time to time, and will become aware that Thanksgiving is full upon us when rival team coaches report that all their stars are on the verge of death or have been crippled for life. These are known as "bear" stories, and when they appear we know the big game of the season and the end of November approach.

Such a whimsical notion is not as silly as it is made to appear. The fact that one can gauge the approximate season of the year by the current sports just shows that we take our athletic pastimes with seriousness. And that we will watch closely the reports as to the conditioning of the excellent football teams that represent Pitt, Tech and Duquesne University, all of which are said to have most "promising material." Football fans will hope that the promises materialize.

Buhl Foundation Year Ends With More Gifts

The Buhl Foundation, rounding out a year's contributions totaling $646,256, announces final gifts, amounting to $111,000, for the year 1928-29. These are for the establishment of a bureau of social research, experiments and demonstrations in music and miscellaneous arts and crafts, social and racial studies and building for the Soho Community House, which is $30,000, conditioned upon raising $20,000 additional. . . . . .

In casting up the year's activities, Charles F. Lewis, secretary of the Foundation, says "two major programs, in economics and education, and two minor programs, in recreation and social research, represent the crystallization of the Foundation's thinking and effort in the first 12 months. All are believed to come well within a scheme of giving intended to make a city richer in opportunity and a happier place in which to live and work and have a home."

To which we all will agree.

A World Apart

Thus far the poets have kept their feet on the ground. They have not soared with or about airplanes. Sensitive souls will take flight later on. And there will be a poetry of the air.

An approach to prose poetry is attained by one Vera Brown, of Detroit, writing to a New York columnist who happened to yawn at aviation as a romantic experience—

"What of the slim, graceful plane, no larger than a canoe, which slips through the air with the grace of a sea gull? Have you ever done a falling leaf? Have you ever slipped through the air at the rate of 120 miles an hour with the wind whipping your face, sweeping about you? Have you ever reached out your hand and tried to touch a rolling mass of piled white clouds that lap about the orange wings of your ship? Then you do not know the meaning of flying. There is the day you fly high above the clouds. They are a rolling sea which shuts off the dull earth and all its shortcomings. That smudge on an immaculate cloud is the shadow of your ship, flitting along! And the evenings you fly high, straight into the sunset. The sun drops below the horizon for the rest of the world. For you it shines, making a world apart. The earth disappears. You fly on into the west in a sea of crimson. Nothing in the world but you, the wings of your ship and color, color!"

Such writing makes earth-bound creatures feel a little worm-conscious.

SPIRAL NEBULAE

By Archibald Henderson

THESE bright patches of misty light, which an imaginative person might regard as mere pinches of star-dust flung for ornament against the velvet robe of night, have recently been "discovered" by astronomers. Full on, they appear to be rotating spirals. Edge-on, they appear like luminous watches with very thin lenses, emitting a diaphanous, silvery mist. If we could take up our position upon some dense body in the Andromeda nebula and regard our own galaxy, we should recognize it at once as a star. If our entire galaxy were suddenly snuffed out, we on Andromeda would see it something less than a million years from now—like a faint candlelight suddenly extinguished.

The entire realm of space, it is now believed, is filled with spiral nebulae. There are, on the average, probably two thousand of them to every hundred square degrees. Our own galaxy is very much larger than any other yet observed and measured. The largest next to our own is the Andromeda nebula, which is perhaps one-fifth the size of our own galaxy. The others vary in size from one-tenth to one-twentieth the size of our own.

The nearest to us of all the nebulae are the Megallanic Clouds, which are easily discernible by the naked eye. They are about a hundred thousand light years away. The spiral nebulae known as Messier No. 33 are something less than 10 times as distant from us as the Megallanic Clouds. The most remote of all is the Coma-Virgo group.

According to views entertained by contemporary astronomers, a number of these galaxies or individual nebulae unite to form a connected system, known as a super-galaxy. In the Coma-Virgo group there are about three hundred galaxies united into a super-galaxy. Already something like fifty super-galaxies have been discovered. The super-galaxy of the Coma-Virgo system is so wide that it takes a light-ray two million years to cross it. As we regard this system through a telescope, the light-ray which strikes the eye left that super-galaxy about one hundred and seventy million years ago.

These distances are so staggering in their dimensions that the mind becomes confused in the effort to grasp them. But an analogy, easy to grasp, will help us to understand the relative positions of the objects involved.

"Imagine that the whole of the cosmos is shrunk according to scale," says Garbedian, "until the earth is no longer than the tiniest germ that biologists can just see with their miscroscopes. The sun would be a dust speck about three-hundredths of an inch away from the germ-sized earth. The entire solar system would be less than an inch across. Our own universe would be watch-shaped star cloud about nine thousand miles across. Less than twice its diameter away begins a smaller cloud. Other clouds lie in all directions, as if an infinite number of dust-filled soap bubbles were floating near to each other in space."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

A NEW maid had a bright idea. She says to the lady that hired her, "Now, there's only one more thing that I've got to have, and that's a good letter of recommendation to my next employer."

"All right. You remind me when you're ready to leave, and I'll see what I can do."

"No, I want it now," she says, without taking off her hat. "I find I don't have much luck getting 'em when I am leaving. Write it now while you're feeling good towards me, and I'll go right to work."

Repentance Granted

(The Acts 11; 5-18)

I WAS in the city of Joppa praying; and in a trance I saw a vision. A certain vessel descend, as it had been a great sheet, let down from heaven by four corners; and it came even to me.

Upon the which when I had fastened mine eyes, I considered and saw fourfooted beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the air.

And I heard a voice saying unto me, Arise, Peter; slay and eat.

But I said, Not so, Lord; for nothing common or unclean hath at any time entered into my mouth.

But the voice answered me again from heaven, What God hath cleansed that call thou not common.

And this was done three times; and all were drawn up again into heaven.

And, behold, immediately there were three men already come unto the house where I was, sent from Caesarea unto me.

And the Spirit bade me go with them, nothing doubting. Moreover these six brethren accompanied me, and we entered into the man's house.

And he showed us how he had seen an angel in his house, which stood and said unto him, Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter;

Who shall tell thee words whereby thou and all thy house shall be saved.

And as I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them, as on us at the beginning.

Then remembered I the word of the Lord, how that he said, John indeed baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost.

Forasmuch then as God gave them the like gift as he did unto us, who believed on the Lord Jesus Christ; what was I, that I could withstand God?

When they heard these things, they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted repentance unto life.

The Traitor

HE is a traitor in the darkest sense
Of that dark word who lets the barriers down
That stand between man's sin and innocence
To guard the virtue which is life's bright crown.
He is a traitor who can hesitate
Between the ways of darkness and of light,
Who can, with soul suspended, vacillate
One fleeting second between wrong and right.
A traitor to his fellows, all who seek
To tread the heights triumphantly at last;
His weakness has the power to make them weak,
His doubt a shadow on their hope can cast;
And (this his subtlest phase of infamy)
Thrice traitor to his better self is he!

THE ROBOT BUGABOO

By Herbert Kaufman

PRESIDENT GREEN, who really knows BETTER, warns a Labor Day audience that the robots "will get 'em if they don't watch out."

He finds automatic machinery supplanting human workers far too suddenly to suit his organization.

The old quarrel between efficiency and tradition!

Progress has been quickening output and cutting the expense ever since wheel, cog and lever undertook to show that time, cost and effort could be saved by mechanical contraptions.

But the record ALSO demonstrates that thriftier manufacturing methods have ALWAYS redounded to the benefit of craftsmen, by enlarging their markets, increasing consumption and developing wider and more remunerative fields for displaced skill.

The Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries fought power-weaving to the last ditch, and THEN proceeded to prosper under its economies.

THE English carter and canal boatman cried "Ruin!" when railroads captured their customers.

And immediately after found employment as engineers, firemen and freight handlers, at HIGHER wages than the obsolete systems had ever paid.

Incandescent street illumination compelled lamp-lighters to swap their trifling jobs for better-paying vocations.

The Telephone Red Book, with its handy business classifications, indicates how incessantly invention freshens opportunity.

The various ramifications of electricity have absorbed millions of folk.

THE automobile now utilizes hundreds of different specialists who never contemplated its existence when they selected original occupations.

The robot IS a drastic pay-roll and personnel cutter. But, as soon as it kicks a man out of ONE berth, it finds ANOTHER for him.

Civilization is an inveterate habit-maker. Common wants multiply decade by decade.

Today's luxury is Tomorrow's necessity.

The Twentieth Century is promoting needs faster than improved practice rids particular tasks of their surplus attendants.

FIFTY per cent of America is engaged in departments of undertakings which didn't exist 30 years back—building or selling motor cars and their subsidiary parts—constructing roads and processing the concrete and equipment to lay them—serving the movies and erecting theaters to display them—producing and distributing radio sets—turning out washing machines and vacuum cleaners.

Aviation, under contract to furnish tomorrow with sky-taxies, delivery buses, merchandise and passenger fleets—besides a continent full of hangars—waits at the corner to enlist a limitless army.

And television, all ready to broadcast voice AND action, is planning to flood the country with reception apparatus.

Prosperity DOES'T share Mr. Green's forebodings. We've too many innovations in sight to wear long faces or waste worry on bread-lines.

Ingenuity and enterprise will take care of us ALL—except the shoemakers, who stubbornly insist upon STICKING to arbitrary lasts.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD! ∴

By Elsie Robinson

THIS is the record of a very gallant gentleman.

He did not break the world's flight record—nor rescue folks at sea—nor brave the plague—nor lead a sortie into No-Man's land—nor perform any other sensational feat which might have landed him upon the front page.

HE DID SOMETHING FAR HARDER. HE DID SOMETHING THAT WAS A LONGER, CRUELER TEST OF THE STUFF A MAN HAS IN HIM—HE RAISED A FAMILY OF MOTHERLESS BABES. HAND RAISED 'EM. SCRUBBED THEM BEHIND THE EARS—TOLD 'EM TO "BO-HARD"—COOKED THEIR SUPPER WHEN HIS DAY'S WORK WAS DONE—PLAYED BASEBALL WITH THEM IN THE VACANT LOT—TOLD THEM BED TIME STORIES—HEARD THEIR PRAYERS AND TUCKED THEM IN.

Day after day, through the long years, this man did this thing. And he doesn't think it was a very remarkable thing to do. He's only telling it now because a woman wondered if "having a family paid." He says it does. His only feeling about his part in the plot is that he's glad he had the chance.

Well, I don't know what YOUR specifications for an A No. 1 First Class Hero are, but HE'S MINE!

Dear Elsie Robinson:

I read a letter in your paper from a woman who was wondering if having a family paid. I don't claim to be much of an adviser to anyone but I'd like to tell her my experience.

A smart, well educated but otherwise worthless wife, ran out on me and left me with a family of small children—the oldest 10, the youngest just ready to enter school. I had surrounded her with too many luxuries when we were first married. The first Mexican revolution swept away our fortune and she could not stand the pressure of a new start.

I raised this family to maturity; was father, mother, pal, counselor, also cook, laundress and nurse a good share of the time. I received no help from a single soul except such as the children themselves were able to give me as they grew older. My only income was what I could earn as an engineer.

The school was three blocks away from home and luckily my place of work was just half-way between school and home. My schedule went like this: I arose early, got breakfast, cleaned up the dishes, got the kids ready for school, then went to work. A couple of hours later, on their way to school, I gave them the once over. An extra set of tooth brushes in the engine room came in handy, also a brush and comb. At noon they came and we ate our lunch together. As they came from school I gave them a few instructions. At 4:30 I was home and ready for a little game of baseball in the vacant lot. Then to get supper, more dishes, bath for the kids and, not matter what else, bedtime stories.

We had a big back yard and our place was a mecca for all the kids in the vicinity. They camped, roasted spuds, corn and apples and at times I missed a little ham or bacon. Kids whose mothers would not let them keep their junk at home hid it behind my bookcase. There was one little genius whose folks fired out the radio he had made of spools, tops of old batteries, etc., because it "littered up the house." I wish you could have seen his face when I loaned him my head phones and hooked up his little crystal set to our aerial and the local station came in strong and clear. He's a man now, and only last spring he drove 60 miles out of his way just to shake hands and say hello. That's reward enough.

My daughter is married to an excellent young man and I am soon to be blessed with a second grandchild. The first they named after grandpa. My daughter knows exactly how to manage her home and keep her husband happy and contented. No danger of divorce in her case. My two boys, 17 and 19, still with me, have no bad habits and find home a place to spend their time in. They all had, or will have, a high school education or better. And I never had any problem training them. I did not need to keep a whip or goad hanging on my wall. Daddy's displeasure was all the discipline needed.

Now that the job is about finished I have a good notion to adopt some homeless boy so I won't be alone later on. It has been a great job and I'm glad I had the chance to do it. I have been the architect of one of the happiest families I ever knew and it has been a pleasure, every foot of the way. H. A. P.

Have Women REAL Courage?

THIS Answers THAT.

FIRST FLIGHT AND FIRST JUMP.

It was said by men who objected to "votes for women" that women should not vote because they did not go to war, not having courage to fight, etc.

That could easily be answered by every man who has seen a child brought into the world. Mothers at childbirth have suffered more than all the men on all the battlefields have ever suffered in all the wars.

The young woman in this picture, Miss Marjorie Klinger, 18-year-old American, shows her courage in a way that will appeal to those that like things done spectacularly.

Miss Klinger had never FLOWN in her life, had never been in an airplane, and, of course, she never tried a parachute jump.

She remarked casually that TWO "first sensations" would be more interesting than one, and she thought she would go up in an airplane, and when she got high enough jump out and try the parachute.

She did what she said she would do.

She took her first flight, and at 3,000 feet up she jumped. Her parachute opened according to schedule and the young girl made an excellent landing.

How many men out of a regiment of "heroes" would do that?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—A Park Row cynic recently observed that modern journalism has become merely a stepping stone for good newspapermen into the flowery field of press agency. He has been able to list 500 former reporters and editors who have gone over to exploitation.

While many are attached to hotels, theaters, corporations and such an increasing number are launched "on their own" as free lance members of a growing fraternity. Any number have glittering offices in luxurious office buildings along Fifth and Madison avenues.

The king pin of the guild perhaps is Ivy Lee, who ballyhoos pianissimo for the Rockefellers and sundry high-powered interests. Mr. Lee has elaborate quarters downtown and an enormous staff. He makes speeches in a cutaway coat and has a daughter recently presented to the Court of St. James.

There are reputed to be six men in the profession whose incomes range from $50,000 to $150,000 a year. But the average income among lesser members of the fraternity are from $100 to $250 a week. The press agent, suggesting the candy sign, "Fresh Every Hour," is no more.

He was once a spectacular fellow who sported a checkered suit, a diamond stud and was the proverbial Good Time Charlie along Park Row drink resorts. Today the successful embody a studied dignity and silken voiced manner. Even theatrical press agents shy at "stunt stories."

The new type makes no effort whatever to trick city editors with "planted" yarns. He knows that means his professional demise. Nor does he write flamboyant screeds. Indeed, the best of them rarely write a line. They use the telephone and are courteously received at news desks.

It was long ago discovered circusey publicity is not only cheap but actually harmful to the person or enterprise exploited. Stage and screen stars as well as public men have been "killed" by it. The worthy publicity man offers only facts that may be easily verified.

A new calling shortly to make a snappy bow may prove a cheering first aid to the chronic wall flower or other shrinking violets. A gentleman whose ready wit won high praise is acquiring a select list of customers to whom he will supply on needed occasions one or two new and late stories, not duplicated, and also a bright and epigrammatic remark to be dropped at the dinner table. He wants 20 men who will pay him a yearly fee of $500 and has already signed up eight.

A fashionable man's tailor—who naturally prefers to remain anonymous—has selected the six best dressed men, according to his notion, in New York. They are Ben Ali Haggin, A. L. Eads, Florenz Ziegfeld, Clifton Webb, Jack Dempsey and Mayor Walker.

The owner of a newstand dealing solely in foreign publications tells me the humorous British weekly Punch leads all other periodical importations in sales. He further confides people will rarely question the high price he charges for magazines from abroad.

And in an automat—I can dig up more places to ask silly questions—an attendant informs me the leading dish is ham and eggs at all hours of the day and night. He notices city people are giving up coffee and the heavy drinkers of black coffee are from out of town.

Jimmy Durante, the cafe clown with the huge beak, is the town's newest theatrical comic to be hailed by the intelligentsia. His famous snozzle and cockeyed hilarity made him the hit of the early season. They say the California Orange Pickers have made him a grand offer to appear in championship contests—feeling confident he will be able to hang by his nose and pick oranges with both hands.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU speak of this one or that "having a future" as nonchalantly as if you were an oracle of wisdom.

Just as lightly you say that such and such another one "has no future."

By what right are you called upon to judge the future of anyone?

It is just such careless talking with an air of authority that mars many a future, if the person hearing it about themselves is weak enough to allow it to influence his or her future.

You are judging by exteriors.

Also you pretty much think you are about the last word in judgment.

Which goes to show that you are far from being the last word or you would not be so sure of yourself and your opinion.

This one is too old to make much headway along a certain line, you say.

How do you know what latent quality may spring into use with the help of the right professional advice?

None is doomed to any certain plane or place.

It rests with the person whose future is involved, and you can make it harder or easier according to your lights.

While you are looking down and around upon the ones who come within your vision, dripping with blighting judgments, you are losing a lot of valuable time when you should be strengthening your own fortifications.
